JAVA DEATHS MOUNT

Boiling Mud Buries Towns

KEDIRI, Indonesia (UPI)—Boiling mud spewing from volcano Mt. Kelud buried nine Javanese villages and killed from 82 to 150 persons, it was reported today.

The toll was rising steadily as new figures came in.

The district officer in President Sukarno's home town of Blitar said 82 persons were killed in the Blitar and Kediri districts along with another 52 injured and 60 missing. Earlier press reports said as many as 150 were killed.

Preliminary reports said the volcano was active Tuesday and Wednesday evening. The volcano belched mud which flowed to the Badak dam and swept away land communications between Blitar and Talun.

The eruption also cut road communications between Blitar and the district capital at Kediri as well as phone connections with Margomulto.

BRIDGE SWEPT AWAY

The steel river bridge at Samgud was swept away.

Another report said people and livestock had been roasted alive in Margomuljo. The fate of persons living in Djaktilengger and Talun villages remained unknown.

The railway between Blitar and Kali Putih was blocked by debris and a portion of the Blitar-Talun highway was buried under lava three feet deep.

Blitar residents were moved to the eastern villages of Bende Gerit, Gebang, Sidoredjo and Karangtengah when the volcano erupted. Local authorities established public kitchens to handle the refugees.

Reports said 19 houses were destroyed in Blitar, which was blanketed with volcanic ash more than an inch deep.

A pall of smoke and haze continued to hide the tip of the east Java volcano, Blitar, which is located less than a dozen miles from here, also was veiled by the sulphurous "smog."

SET SUNDAY

PM Seeks To Avert CBC Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson met representatives of the CBC's Toronto producers for 80 minutes today at his official residence in an effort to avert a producers' strike set for 10 p.m. Sunday.

The prime minister was expected to hold further talks with CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and the producers during the day.

The 72-member Toronto Producers' Association was to meet at the Westbury Hotel in Toronto later today to to discuss the situation.

Tom Koch, president of the association, told reporters after his meeting with Mr. Pearson that the situation was unchanged, but that a proposal would be placed before the producers' meeting in Toronto. He declined to comment on the progress of the talks.

Other producers meeting the prime minister today were association Treasurer Paddy Sampson and Dick Nielsen of the strategy committee.

DROPPING PROGRAM HOSTS

The producers are threatening to strike unless the CBC suspends its decision to drop Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as hosts of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Ouimet has said repeatedly that the decision to replace the hosts next season is final.

The prime minister discussed the dispute with Mr. Ouimet for about one hour Friday and was expected to communicate with him again today.

Mr. Sampson of the producers' association was flying back to Toronto to report to the general membership.

Mr. Koch and Mr. Nielsen were staying in Ottawa, awaiting an invitation to see Mr. Pearson again after lunch.

Meanwhile, the CBC is proceeding on the assumption that Seven Days will appear as scheduled Sunday despite the threatened strike.

CBC spokesmen declined today to say what program changes would take place in the event of a strike. A corporation spokesman said earlier in the week that the CBC has a standby file of taped and filmed programs available for any emergencies.

A CBC spokesman said today "we'll meet the situation as it happens."

'De Gaulle's Policy Could Lead To War'

WASHIGTON (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says the "self-centred" policies of French President de Gaulle may return Europe to a dangerous system of national rivalries that once more could lead to world war.

In a speech Friday night before the American Society of International Law, Ball accused de Gaulle of trying to make France a first-class power while keeping its European neighbors "in an inferior role."

"This is a desire on the part of the French government to carve out a special place for itself which means a great reduction in the kind of co-operative effort which has been going forward in Europe and in the Atlantic world," Ball explained in a later CBS television interview.

"I think this can only weaken the West and create problems where we may have, again, old national rivalries reasserting themselves and a beginning of the kind of troubles that we have known so often and so disastrously in the past."

'NATO REMOVES CAUSES'

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was created after the Second World War, he said, in an effort "to remove the underlying causes" that had created so many of the past disasters.

In his speech before the society, Ball also:

—Warned that France's pullout from the NATO integrated defence system will weaken the common shield against the Soviet Union and thus delay chances for settling such East - West problems as German reunification and disarmament.

—Portrayed European unity as th eright road to true European independence, big-

MOUNTIE 'COWBOY' NABS ELUSIVE MENTAL ESCAPEE

LILLOOET (CP) — A young RCMP constable, dressed like a typical Cariboo cowboy riding through bush country, captured an armed mental hospital escapee Friday night.

The two struggled briefly and one shot was fired before John Guzin, 30, gave up.

The dramatic capture ended Guzin's six days of eluding posses of armed riders through the rolling hills of the southern Cariboo.

"He must have thought I was a rancher," Constable Norman Harvey-McKeen said in an interview today.

"He could see me at least a mile off. I rode up like I was going to water my horse and got to within four or five feet of him before he grabbed for his rifle."

As Guzin, who had been sitting on a log watching for the approaching "cowboy," reached for the rifle Constable Harvey-McKeen jumped on him.

The rifle went off, the slug sailing harmlessly into the air. Two more "cowboys" — an armed RCMP constable and a game warden — raced up on horseback and aided Constable Harvey-McKeen.

"He was not too much trouble," said the constable. "He is not too big, sort of small and wiry. But bush-wise, really bush-wise."

UN Chief Backed For Second Term

(Times News Services)

PARIS — UN Secretary-General U Thant and President de Gaulle conceded today that a Vietnamese peace move is futile for the time being.

Emerging from a two-hour conversation with the French president, Thant told reporters that he and de Gaulle had agreed that there is no chance for an immediate settlement of the conflict in Southeast Asia.

"For the moment," Thant said, "we agree that there is no possibility for a settlement of the war nor for any new peace attempts."

De Gaulle said he viewed the war with a "growing feeling of disquiet and revulsion."

The comments came at a luncheon in honor of Thant, whom de Gaulle urged to seek re-election to a second five-year term as UN chief executive.

In a toast to Thant, de Gaulle expressed his satisfaction with their talks, which covered a wide range of international issues including Viet Nam.

'USEFUL' MEETING

Thant called his meeting with de Gaulle "very useful, very free, very frank."

Thant was in Paris en route to Strasbourg, France, to address the consultative assembly of the 18-nation Council of Europe Tuesday.

The French president indicated he was in favor of Thant's re-election partly because of the secretary-general's efforts to help restore peace to Viet Nam.

Thant said he had not made up his mind whether to seek re-election. The U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union are known to favor a second term for Thant.

U.S. WARNED AGAIN BY CHINA

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of China said today U.S. efforts to bring about peace talks on Viet Nam will not succeed and he warned that if the United States expands the war "even more disastrous defeats are in store."

Chou reiterated that to whatever extent the United States "may widen the war and whatever cost we may have to pay, the Chinese people will, together with the Albanian people and other revolutionary peoples of the world, give all-out support and assistance to the Vietnamese people in thoroughly defeating the U.S. aggressors."

Chou charged the United States "is preparing to spread the flames of its war of aggression to the whole of Indochina and to China."

40-KNOT HYDROPLANE

Zip-Ship in Channel

RAMSGATE, England (UPI) — Thirty-six passengers paid $6.30 each and skimmed across the English Channel on a cushion of air to Calais at nearly 40 knots as the first commercial hovercraft service between England France opened today.

Two 36-seat hovercraft are being used by the Hoverlloyd Company —formed by Swedish Lloyd and the Swedish American Line — to make eight trips daily between here and Calais until the end of the summer.

The time estimated for the 27-mile run is about 40 minutes, roughly half that taken by the conventional cross-channel mailboats and car ferries.

With fine weather, the company reported the first trip sold out and passengers lining up for a place on the next run. The fare is about the same as that on the conventional ships.

Bigger hovercraft capable of carrying 250 passengers and 35 automobiles are expected to be in service in 1968.

Student Strike Easing

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Moves were under way today to settle the student strike at the National University of Mexico which has shut down the huge institution and 16 private schools in Mexico City.

Some sources said both the private schools and the university—largest in Latin America with 82,000 students—might resume classes Monday.

The university's 14-member governing board scheduled a meeting in the rectory, one of 12 buildings seized by striking law students last Tuesday in a battle with campus police. Students returned the rectory to officials Friday.

The 46-day strike by about 7,000 students began in the law school when Dean Cesar Sepulveda dropped the popular practice of allowing suspended students to regain entrance by taking examinations. Sepulveda was also criticized for being too strict, inflexible and aloof.

Telephoned threats of violence, presumably from the striking university students, also forced most of the city's private schools to shut down. Among them was the American School, where about 40 per cent of the 2,000 grade and high school pupils are Americans.

The University of the Americas was threatened, too, but President D. Ray Lindley, former head of Texas Christian University, refused to shut it down. He called for help and riot police arrived to protect the university's 1,000 students.

Police and army troops have encircled the national university, scene of the strike, but they are prevented by law from entering the sprawling campus.

Bottle-Smashing Youth Fined $70

A youth who walked through a crowded school grounds and smashed a bottle of scotch and mixer was fine $70 in central court today.

Alfred Hughes, 19, of Nitinat, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of alcohol and depositing a glass bottle in the driveway of Esquimalt Junior Secondary School.

Court was told he smashed the bottle on the school drivewav as police arrived and students looked on.

Refusing To Allow Search Costly to Youth

A young man who disputed a policeman's right to search his car was fined $50 in central court today for obstructing an officer.

Kenneth Heal, 114 Ontario, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he refused to move from his driver's seat Friday night when his car was stopped on Sooke Road.

Heal told Magistrate William Ostler the officer told him he had 10 seconds to get out then pulled him out of the vehicle by his shirt.

Swimmers Lose

Three swimmers had money and valuables taken from their lockers at the Crystal Garden Friday night.

John Stevenson, 2877 Irma, told police he lost a $275 cheque, 75 cents in change and a $12 watch.

Mike Mooney, 2021 King's Road, reported theft of a $12 watch and Dan Barnes, 2475 Landsdowne, lost $1.25 in change.

power status and equality with the United States.

—Said NATO is in crisis over de Gaulle's announced intent to pull French forces out of NATO's integrated military structure by July 1 and oust ATO units from French soil within a year.

'SEEKS SPECIAL POSITION'

Ball said this and other de Gaulle moves are aimed at separating France from the other Atlantic countries and giving her "a special position of primacy in Western Europe." Paris is aiming for a first-class power position from which the deal "to its own advantage" with the U.S..R. and the United States, he said.

But because of France's middle-ranking size of 50,000,000 population and limited resources, Ball said, "no matter how adroit (its) diplomacy may be, it cannot achieve first-power status. . . ."

As usual in such speeches, Ball did not mention the French president by name.

But earlier, 700 editors and broadcasters heard U.S. officials specifically refer to de Gaulle in similar addresses delivered at a state department foreign policy conference.

They also were told the Soviet Union may try to heal the rift in the Communist world by trying to make a comeback in China after the death of aging Mao Tse-tung.

Foster Homes For Babies Hard to Find

About a third of the children needing foster homes in the Victoria area are under one year old, the Family and Children's Service said today.

Another third are in the 13 to 17 bracket, all of them distrustful, unhappy and damaged youngsters.

In a nine-month period last year the Victoria agency had to find homes for 247 children from ages of one month to 17 years, who all needed the kindness and stable home life.

Foster homes, especially for babies and teen-agers, are hard to find.

A meeting of prospective foster parents will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook, and will mark three years activity for the group.

Several experienced foster parents will be present to answer questions. The meeting is open to the public.

BOSTON BAR (CP)—Some 300 brush-choppers literally broke the bank here Friday as they tried to cash $90,000 in cheques.

The men, brush clearing for Peace River Power Project lines, lined up at the Bank of Nova Scotia to cash their pay cheques.

When the bank ran dry—at $18,000—the men headed for a nearby hotel.

"They cleaned us out of cash too," said hotel manager Cog Harrington.

The small branch bank here is open only Tuesdays and Fridays.

25 Police Killed Say Negroes

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (Reuters) — The Zimbabwe African National Union, one of Rhodesia's banned African nationalist parties, claimed today that 25 white police and troops were killed and 30 wounded in a running battle Friday near Sinioa, Rhodesia.

Seven ZANU members were killed in the battle. 85 miles north of the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury, a party statement said.

ZANU members shot down two air force helicopters in a major clash, said the communique issued by the banned party's office here.

A Rhodesian police spokesman in Salisbury said Friday police security forces shot and killed seven Africans in a running fight.

Chinese and Soviet weapons were among a large amount of offensive materials recovered by the police, the spokesman said. A number of arrests were made.

'You Better Believe It,' Magistrate Told

A young man showed remorse in central court today after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance Friday night.

When Magistrate William Ostler asked Wallace Pears, 21, of Sooke, if he regretted the incident, he replied, "Oh, you better believe it, your honor."

Court was told he shouted obscenities at police from a house at 1441 St. Patrick St. He was fined $50.

Also fined $50 for causing a disturbance by fighting at Yates and Broad early today were John Gutherie, 22, and Henry Klatt, 21.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Opposition members charged in Parliament Friday that children are being sold by starving people in famine-stricken areas of the eastern India state of Orissa.

'Firms Avoiding Responsibilities'

Inefficient private insurance companies which strive to avoid their responsibilities must be repaced by a government car insurance scheme, says the B.C. Federation of Labor.

In a brief scheduled for presentation to the provincial royal commission on car insurance, the federation claims that "accident victims receive no compensation while companies engage in endless litigation and fault-finding with the sole purpose of evading their responsibilities to their own customers."

The brief also states the cost of car insurance would be reduced by nearly $10 million a year if the government moved into the field.

The three-man royal commission headed by Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton opens its hearings in the Victoria Law Courts at 10 Monday morning.

"We cannot afford the continued economic inefficiency of the present system," the federation brief states. "Nor can we afford the high price of B.C. insurance, compared with other Canadian car insurance, especially when coverage is growing prohibitive to a substantial number of drivers."

The federation also claims that insurance companies are claiming $1,300,000 a year in B.C. just to contest the payment of claims.

In its expected critique of private companies the federation says more interest is shown in profit returns than in protecting the individual policy holder.

"They are primarily interested in minimizing loss and maximizing profit," the brief states. "Consequently a policy has developed among many insurers to curtail their underwriting programs in B.C. in such a way as to seek a higher percentage of low risk business."

WHAT VIETNAMESE THINK OF CURRENT POWER FIGHT

End of War Main Hope of All Classes

SAIGON (AP) — Some are worried, some are disenchanted, many are pleased. . . .

A sampling of South Vietnamese opinion indicates the varied ways the peoples of this war-torn nation look upon the Buddhist hierarchy's efforts to wrest power from the central military government and place it in civilian hands.

Interviews with more than 100 Vietnamese in various walks of life showed division into these classes of thought:

● Those who are worried: The middle-class businessmen who see civil unrest and inflation as dangers to them; the huge civil service which sees another change of government as a threat to jobs; the bitterly anti-Communist refugees from North Viet Nam, who reflect the military's fear of an accommodation with the Viet Cong if a civilian government emerges.

● Those who are disenchanted: Right-wing intellectuals and the professional class that supported the Buddhist hierarchy in overthrowing Ngo Dinh Diem only to find they had backed a political force they could not control.

● Those who are pleased by the Buddhists' deliberate attempt to impose their will on the general government. These include people with real or imagined grievances against the military regime. Among them are some Roman Catholics, some members of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hoa sects, and the Baha'i faith.

● Those who see an end to the war growing from a Buddhist-dominated civilian government. Among these are people in the cities who send sons into the army, fight the rising cost of living and resent Americans for living in a style they cannot afford.

It must be emphasized that any sampling of opinion in South Viet Nam is restricted. About half the population is unreachable because it is in areas under Viet Cong influence. It is also true that the farther people live from the main towns, which are under government control, the less they talk about war and politics.

If any common theme runs through the interviews among peasants and poorer citizens, it is that they don't seem to care how the war is brought to an end, as long as it ends.

SOME SUPPORT KY

There are those who support the Nguyen Cao Ky government.

Said a 20-year-old secretary in Da Nang, centre of the rebellion against the central government:

"Premier Ky is not a perfect man, but he is anti-Communist. Our common enemy is the Viet Cong."

A 37-year-old Rofan Catholic priest at Da Nang agreed: "Ky has some faults, but not enough to justify demonstrations. He should not be replaced now."

In Saigon, a 25-year-old English literature student, working for an American firm as a secretary, said "Ky is not a very good politician, he lacks experience. But a military government is needed to beat the Viet Cong. Let him lead it."

Then there are those against Ky.

A retired civil servant in Saigon, age 66, who worked with the French and fled the Communist Vietminh from Hanoi to Saigon in 1954, said Ky should resign. His comment:

"It is legal to have a civilian government elected by the people. Only by such a government can we really carry the fight to the Viet Cong. We must make the war bigger and beat them. But we must make it legal first."

An 18-year-old construction worker near Da Nang believes Ky is "selling out to the Americans. . . . Only by getting rid of Ky will we gain peace."

A 26-year-old fisherman near Da Nang observed: "I am happy with the people's struggle against the government." Another fisherman, living on a nearby sampan, had not even heard of the Ky government. "Leave me alone," he said. "I have a wife and six children to feed."

There are those who oppose the Buddhists.

WRONG NOW

A Vien Hoa student commented: "The Buddhists were right about Diem, but wrong now. They have the right to express their view, but with constructive criticism, not destructive actions."

A 19-year-old Roman Catholic girl studying at Saigon University: "Why do the Buddhists demonstrate so much? It is just what the Communists want."

The Buddhists had many supporters.

"They love Viet Nam and the people," said a 17-year-old South Vietnamese Women's Auxiliary Corps soldier in Nhatrang, "They want to throw all invaders from Viet Nam and bring peace."

An official of the Baha'i faith: "The Buddhists know what religious persecution is in Viet Nam and so do we. A civilian government can help us all."

'Spurn Those You Doubt' Cabinet Rule

OTTAWA (CP)—A cabinet directive to anyone who had access to classified information was in effect at the time when former cabinet ministers Pierre Sevigny and George Hees met Gerda Munsinger.

The directive was described to the Munsinger inquiry at a closed session earlier this month by John O'Brien, counsel to the inquiry commission. Copies of this and other security directives were entered as evidence before the inquiry April 6, Mr. O'Brien said Monday.

The transcript of the earlier session shows that Mr. O'Brien asked Mr. Hees if he was aware of cabinet directives concerning security matters which apply to all persons having classified information.

Mr. Hees replied: "I do not know whether I have actually read specific paragraphs in that regard. I think that all privy councillors realize they have a special responsibility, and in my tenure of office as a privy councillor I believe that I always carried out my duty to that regard to the best of my ability."

Mr. O'Brien then asked Mr. Hees if he was aware that a cabinet directive, number 29, was effective during his term of office.

The inquiry counsel said the directive indicated that where there is a continuing doubt of loyalty or reliability in the mind of any reasonable man and when national security is involved, that doubt must be resolved in favor of the state.

Mr. Hees answered: "Yes. Well, I certainly would agree to that."

The inquiry by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence has been told that in late 1960 the RCMP reported to the government that Mrs. Gerda Munsinger, a German woman who had at one time admitted being a Soviet espionage agent, and who was a prostitute, was the mistress of Mr. Sevigny.

Mr. Sevigny, who was associate minister of defence, continued as a member of the cabinet until he resigned in 1963.

Aide Urged To Testify

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice Wishart Spence says a Gaston Levesque "is mentioned more than casually" in reports to his commission about the Gerda Munsinger affair.

The Supreme Court of Canada justice's comment is included in a transcript of testimony at a secret session April 6 of the inquiry. The transcript was released Friday.

Two commission documents have referred to Joseph Charles Armand Gaston Levesque being appointed executive assistant to former Conservative associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny Sept. 21, 1959.

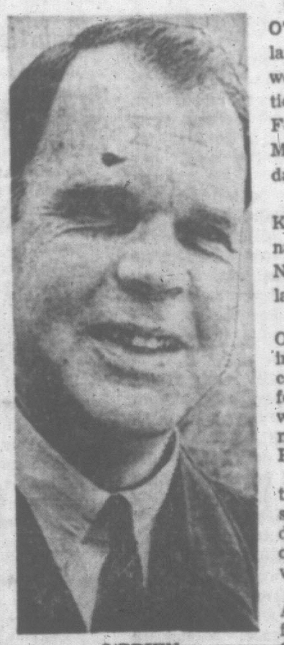
BUCKINGHAM PALACE TO MAKE DEBUT ON TV

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen has given permission for British television cameras to film inside Buckingham Palace, her official residence, and other royal palaces for the first time.

An hour-long film will be made—in black and white for British viewers and in color for worldwide distribution—during the summer. It will be screened after the Queen's Christmas message to the Commonwealth on Christmas Day.

A palace spokesman said: "It is extremely unlikely that the Queen and Prince Philip will be seen in the program. The Queen's private apartments will not be seen, only the state rooms."

Young Lawyer Named To Guide Liberals



O'BRIEN
. . . national director

OTTAWA (CP) — Allan O'Brien, a young Toronto lawyer and Liberal party worker, has been named national director of the Liberal Federation of Canada, Prime Minister Pearson announced today.

Mr. O'Brien, 34, succeeds Keith Davey who resigned as national organizer following the Nov. 8 election and who was later made a senator.

A native of Windsor, N.S., Mr. O'Brien played a prominent role in the last federal election campaign. He was advance man for the Liberal leader, working with riding organizations to make arrangements for Mr. Pearson's campaign visits.

Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of the Dalhouse University law school and holds a masters' degree from the graduate school of business administration, University of Western Ontario.

He is past chairman of the Alberta Liberal campaign and a former member of both the Ontario provincial and federal campaign committees.

Thunderstorm Claims Lives, Wrecks Homes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Giant thunderstorms smashed across north Texas again Friday, taking seven more lives and adding to the millions of dollars in property damage.

Texans looking skyward today for some sign of relief saw only dark clouds.

A boy drowned in a submerged car while his mother pleaded "Please, somebody get him out!" A pilot perished when his plane clipped a guy wire of a cloud-obscured television tower. And five persons were killed on rain-swept highways.

Twelve persons have died in the Dallas-Fort Worth area during the two days of violent storms. Eight of the victims drowned.

Dallas County and adjacent counties were declared a disaster area.

A tornado hit Fort Worth Christian College, with an enrollment of about 1,500. At least three buildings were damaged. One person was injured.

Floodwaters climbed. In Dallas, the Red Cross said at least 256 families had suffered major loss of home or belongings and more than 400 had been evacuated.

Into the Silence

THERE HAS LATELY BEEN increasing speculation by experts in Asian affairs regarding the health and competence of Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung. It is now five months since he was last reported as having been seen in public, and the Red Chinese press and radio have maintained a strange and provocative silence regarding him.

Not long ago, as though to answer questions which must be arising in many Chinese minds, one newspaper carried a picture of Mao which lacked any indication of where and when it had been taken. It could have served only to excite still further doubts and queries.

Western analysts have no clue as to whether the 73-year-old Communist head has suffered a crippling affliction, is dead, or has merely been thrust out of his position of authority by rivals for power. So far there has been no indication of any change in policy that would suggest Mao's demise. But the situation begins to resemble that in Orwell's 1984, where omnipotent Big Brother turned out to be nonexistent except for the power his public image exerted.

There can be no doubt, however, that no matter when Mao and his contemporaries leave the Red Chinese scene, the next generation to take over Communist management of the 700-million population will inevitably impose its innovations and alterations in policy. Soviet Russia has progressed through such steps in its half-century of existence, and the lesson of its history is that slowly and inevitably the natural aspirations and hopes of humanity find expression in the social and political structure.

No matter how harsh the Stalin era may be, the subsequent regimes bring moderation in one respect or another. This we are seeing in Russia today, and no doubt will find in Red China tomorrow. But the rest of the world must prepare for and encourage the peaceful evolution of China, with its fifth of the population of the globe. For the nuclear age can have no place for vast hemispherical conflicts. From now on, man's development must be peaceful, or else.

Where to Draw the Line

OTTAWA CORRESPONDENT Mr. Peter Newman reports in his column today that Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp has finally created a compromise for the long-awaited amendment of the Bank Act designed to keep everyone — borrowers, bankers and politicians —happy. Obviously juggling such a disparate group and pleasing them all is quite a task, and introduction of the amendment in Parliament a few weeks hence will be awaited with considerable interest.

If Mr. Newman's usually excellent sources of information are correct, the principal change in the act will be to remove, for certain amounts of money, the interest rate limit on chartered bank loans from the present six per cent, while retaining it for others. The idea seems to be that relatively small loans in the $20,000-$30,000 bracket, such as would be needed by small businessmen, should be kept at the six per cent level. Loans greater than this would "float" freely at competitive rates. The Bank of Canada would be called on to exert "persuasive" powers over the chartered banks to assure that the smaller borrowers were not left without funds at the lower rate in times of tight money.

There's no doubt that this would be an ingenious way to get around the fact that when money is in short supply loans go only to the best risks and small borrowers are forced to go to high-interest-rate lenders. But the difficulties of administering the plan—even with the moral weight of the Bank of Canada in the backkground—are only too clear. The most obvious problem is that of determining where the cut-off point should be between fixed interest and floating interest loans. There would be a difficulty in charging one enterprise which needs, say, $25,000, only six per cent while another which needs $35,000 would be forced to pay seven or eight per cent. What possible criteria could be used to determine who should get what?

Lowdown on the Skydeck

THERE IS MUCH MORE INvolved in the decisions that will have to be made by the Advisory Planning Commission and the city council regarding construction of the proposed needle or skydeck for the Inner Harbor than would occur in a routine decision on a normal building.

For this reason both bodies should take a very careful look at the proposal and refuse to be hurried by claims of urgency from the promoters. The fact that "months of work" have already been put into planning and preparation by the prospective builders is no concern of the city and does not form a criterion as to whether or not the 325-foot aluminum tower should be raised on the suggested Belleville Street site.

It should be kept in mind that such a structure would be with us permanently and would form a dominating feature of our Inner Harbor amenities. What will it look like ten years after erection, or twenty? Will it then still be attracting the promised 400,000 persons to our city each year, who presumably would not otherwise have come? How will it blend with the view southward and westward from the city—it being remembered that scenery forms 90 per cent of the natural attraction of this aspiring tourist resort? And what will be the situation of the skydeck if eventually, due to traffic necessities, we must build a steel bridge across the mouth of the Inner Harbor? Will the beauty of our Inner Harbor disappear behind a tangle of girders, both vertical and horizontal?

There are grave doubts as to whether the proposed tourist "attraction" is something this city needs, if the only site the promoters will accept is a prominent one beside the harbor. In any case, City Council should not allow itself to be hustled into a quick decision. We'd be looking at that thing for a long time.

Silent, Like B.C. Fish

POLITICAL OVERTONES HAVE been noted in the Commons discussion of fisheries off British Columbia's coast.

Mr. Tom Barnett and Mr. Frank Howard, both NDP members representing fishing centres, were sharp in their criticism of the provincial Social Credit government for downgrading fisheries insofar as cabinet representation is concerned. Social Credit member Mr. A. B. Patterson offered in rebuttal the argument that fisheries are primarily a concern of the federal government.

Mr. Patterson's point may be valid. At the same time, British Columbians are vitally interested in their Pacific Coast fisheries, although the Social Credit administration has pushed the resource into the governmental background.

This is unfortunate. Our fisheries and those of the Atlantic are very different. The type of hauls our fishermen make and the markets to which they cater are different from those of the eastern Canadians. Moreover, we in British Columbia—and our provincial government in particular — are highly river-conscious. While fish streams have largely been protected so far in the surge for more and cheaper hydro-electric power, and while the premier is firmly on record against any injury to fisheries in them, we might profitably develop a stronger provincial voice to speak on fish-versus-power issues.

The Fight Over Arms in Foreign Aid

THE administration's requested foreign aid appropriation is running its annual gauntlet through congressional committees, but with a difference this year. The most conspicuous critics of foreign aid, at least in the senate foreign relations committee where hearings now are being held, are liberal Democrats instead of the usual conservative Republicans. The U.S. foreign aid program runs at about $5 billions a year, although large swatches of this are disguised as items in other government programs.

Purser

The sum officially asked for foreign aid this year is $3.4 billions. The administration in the past has usually asked for more than it really expects to spend, in the well-justified expectation that congressional conservatives will whittle the figure down.

Foreign aid has never been popular, and Vice-President Humphrey sadly acknowledged in a speech this week that it still isn't. It spends the people's tax money with no obvious returns. Conservative congressmen portray it as a giveaway. What justification it has they see only in "fighting Communism." They seek at least to limit it to the most sycophantic allies. They ask gratitude in return, preferably through some such tangible expression as sending troops to Viet Nam.

But a foreign aid bill of considerable proportions always passes, as it will this year. The interesting aspect today is the simmering opposition by Liberals who favor foreign aid in principle and who would gladly vote even more money if they thought it was being used properly, but who are fed up with the practices of the U.S. aid program. They are led by Sens. J. W. Fulbright and Wayne Morse, those scourges of administration foreign policy in general and Viet Nam policy in particular.

The liberals have two basic complaints. One is the lumping of military assistance with economic aid as part of a joint program (the military assistance portion this year is $917 millions). The other is the prevalence of bilateral aid deal between the U.S. and recipient countries, as opposed to the channeling of aid through international organizations such as the World Bank.

One objection to including military aid in the overall foreign aid program is that it incriminates the whole program by making it appear an instrument of American foreign policy rather than an act of benevolence. Another is that it enables small nations to fight each other rather than to defend themselves against Communism, the ostensible purpose of military aid.

Strong Voice

Mr. Fulbright and company found a strong voice in their favor this week in Prof. J. K. Galbraith, Canadian-born economist and ambassador to India under President Kennedy. He testified that arms aid to India and Pakistan actually caused the outbreak between the two countries last autumn. Without it, Pakistan would not have sought a military solution to its justifiable grievance. Such aid, now cut off, should not be resumed, he said.

Prof. Galbraith, Mr. Fulbright and Mr. Morse were agreed that military aid can cancel out the effects of other aid; that it can promote military dictatorships, notably in Latin America; that the program continues by virtue of its own momentum and vested bureaucratic interest; that it defends privilege and stifles progress; that it directly endangers peace in the Middle East; and that, in Mr. Galbraith's words, "there is something intrinsically obscene in the combination of ill-fed people and well-fed armies."

Prof. Galbraith protested against U.S. military aid policy toward the Indian subcontinent when he was ambassador; Mr. Fulbright has more recently protested against U.S. military aid policy in general. Both admitted this week they had been unsuccessful.

Defence Secretary McNamara, in testimony before Mr. Fulbright's foreign relations committee, disagreed completely with his critics' worries about the consequences of military aid. He saw such aid in the light of the logistics of world defence against Communism.

Credible Force

"It would be unbearably costly to this country in both money and human resources," he said, "to maintain a credible force by itself all along the great arc of forward positions to the west, south and east of the Soviet Union and Red China. But the free world cannot leave gaps in that forward arc."

Therefore the U.S. has used military aid to mix local indigenous forces into the U.S. forces of "containment." Mr. McNamara noted that friendly nations in the "forward defence arc" contributed 3.5 million men to defence. "Would we seriously consider providing U.S. manpower to replace this deterrent strength of some 3.5 million men?" he asked rhetorically. "I think the answer is 'no'."

There is little meeting of minds between the official line and the critics' point of view. The critics say the nations in the "forward arc" are no less obsessed by Communism than the U.S.; they often worry more about their next-door neighbor, or their military, aligned with the ruling class, worries most about indigenous social pressures.

Mr. McNamara will win his appropriation, as usual, but misgivings about the nature of U.S. world-wide military subsidies will remain. The problem of bilateral vs. multilateral economic aid warrants separate discussion; State Secretary Rusk, who began to deal with it last week, will return to the committee's hearings next week.

Not Quite Ombudsmen

THE broadcasting committee has been hearing a good deal in recent days about the "ombudsman role" of This Hour Has Seven Days. From the number of times this expression has been used, it is obvious that the producers take this responsibility seriously. While they have not defined it very precisely, their concept of this role is evidently one of the reasons for their disagreement with CBC management.

Western

It is part of the case for a free press, including broadcasting, that it does bring to public attention injustices which might otherwise go unheeded. In this broad sense, the whole press might be said to perform an "ombudsman role". But if this were sufficient protection against arbitrary actions, there would be no persuasive argument for establishing the office of "ombudsman."

It seems to me that the producers are using words rather loosely and that the company of Seven Days adventurers have again lost their sense of proportion if they believe that they are filling this gap.

Seek a Remedy

According to Professor Donald Rowat, a widely quoted authority on the subject, "The ombudsman in the Nordic countries is a special parliamentary commissioner whose job is to receive complaints from citizens who are aggrieved by official actions, to investigate their complaints and, if he finds they are justified, to seek a remedy. He may also conduct inspections and take up cases on his own initiative. He is appointed by and responsible to parliament, reports annually to a special committee of the House and is entirely independent of the executive."

There has been testimony that the stars of Seven Days do receive complaints, which they investigate as best they can. But the sequel is a bit different. Where the ombudsman seeks a remedy, the producers put on a show. This may on occasion be effective and useful. But Seven Days cannot serve a single interest. It must dramatize, entertain, possibly shock. Unlike the ombudsman, it has to watch its popularity rating.

The argument for an ombudsman is, briefly, that government has become so vast and complex that the parliamentary controls of an earlier day are no longer effective. There are thousands of administrative decisions each year by departments and agencies. Any of these may affect the citizen who finds no easy way of redress if he considers himself the victim of arbitrary or unjust action. In many cases there is no provision for appeal (as there is, for example, in income tax cases) and resort to the courts may be expensive and time-consuming.

In New Zealand, which now has a parliamentary commissioner, there were 776 complaints requiring investigation in the first year. Of these 54 were held to be justified and in about half the cases the matters were rectified as soon as they were brought to the attention of the authority concerned. It seems to have been quiet, dull, tedious work without value as Sunday evening entertainment although possibly satisfying to the successful petitioners. Whether intervention by television would have been helpful in the circumstances seems open to doubt.

The work seems, indeed, to have resembled in some ways that of our auditor-general. No one hears of that either until Parliament is presented each year with an annual report. "It then deals, not with an allegation, however spectacular, but with the results of an investigation by an official independent of the executive.

There is no doubt that the non-accredited Seven Days ombudsmen have taken up cases on their own initiative. The results have been mixed, including apologies in one interesting case. There does appear to be doubt about the question of responsibility although we are getting a reports of sorts to Parliament with which Parliament would happily have dispensed.

In their own fashion, however, the embattled producers may well have aided the cause. They are evidently ombudsmen badly in need of an ombudsman. The CBC is, after all, one of the manifestations of big government and its policy regulations, as submitted on Tuesday by Mr. Leiterman, run to some 210 confidential pages.

Somewhere in these pages is the confused and ever more puzzling controversy which has now exploded in edicts, strike threats, crisis meetings and parliamentary hearings. It is possible that an ombudsman, working quietly behind the scenes, might have been able to interpret management to producers and vice versa. He would probably have been short of time, however, for dealing with the other grievances of Canadian citizens.

BRUTAL TRUTH

I think people are too truthful. For instance, when I go to my doctor and tell him I have fibrositis, I expect him to say, "What! With your fine constitution, you'll be rid of it in a week." But he doesn't; he says, "Well, what do you expect at your age?"

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

A scramble over the trails at Matheson Lake out along the Rocky Point Road can be rewarding.

Here the Indian paint brush is in bloom with its scarlet tipped leaves, also the vanilla leaf with its three winged butterfly leaves and the thin flower stem with its tiny blossom clusters giving off a sweet scent.

Growing by the lake there is a clump of Sitka alder with sprawling limbs on which you can find the small light brown cones and yellowish catkins side by side.

Some of the open rock bluffs are covered with a mixture of sea-blush, blue-eyed-marys and the tiny mimulas so thick that one cannot walk without treading on them.

This locality is a mixed forest. There are many very old Douglas firs that are showing conky burls, large twisted limbs and many have broken tops. In the little valleys there is a new stand growing which shows the natural thinning of a forest, yet these young trees are almost as tall as in the old times, showing how they have reached for the sunlight.

Along the lower reaches of the lake the red cedar takes over. Here they range from seedlings to some old fluted trunk giants, and on the ground many old moss covered logs lie. The wood in these is as sound as in those that are standing.

There are a number of jackpines along the shore, some of which are twisted and bent by the prevailing winds from the southwest, a sprinkling of hemlock is growing with the other conifers. Here and there one can spot the western yew with its dark green needles.

In the valleys there are many red alders that have a diameter of 18 inches.

As de Gaulle Meets Thant

By WILLIAM R. FRYE
Victoria Daily Times
United Nations Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS Secretary-General U Thant is in Paris this weekend for a tete-a-tete with General Charles de Gaulle. Their principal concern: Viet Nam. Thant and de Gaulle disagree on nearly everything — "teeth" for the UN, payment of UN dues, the UN's proper role in the world. The French president has rarely concealed his scorn for the world organization. But on Viet Nam the two men are soulmates. They start from a similar premise (that Ho Chi-minh might be made into an Asian Tito) and come to a similar conclusion (that Viet Nam — indeed, Southeast Asia — can and should be neutralized).

Frye

Whether, and if so how, they should go about actively seeking these objectives is understood to be the principal subject on their agenda.

There is no visible reason for believing that a Viet Nam peace move would be successful at this point. However, there are these important new elements in the equation:

Indonesia's break with Red China, which now appears final and irrevocable, has helped significantly to de-fuse the Viet Nam problem.

Previously, Southeast Asia was caught in a Chinese vise, with North Viet Nam and northern Laos constituting the upper jaw, and Indonesia the lower.

Using Indonesia, China was thrusting the lower jaw upward toward Malaysia. Now this pressure has been relieved, and imaginative diplomacy might well remove it entirely.

Buffer State

Instead of an active threat to the "soft underbelly of Asia," Indonesia could be made into a buffer, friendly to and even conceivably aligned with Malaysia, whose people are of the same racial stock.

This possibility greatly reduces the strategic importance of South Viet Nam. It undercuts the "domino" theory. It means that even if South Viet Nam were to be lost, much else could be saved which previously would have been in peril.

The United States has just watched still another Saigon regime crumble into near ineffectuality amid street demonstrations with anti-American overtones. It seems entirely possible that one day United States forces may be invited out.

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said in a written interview that "if the South Vietnamese of their own free choice should desire to remain nonaligned or neutral, that is a position that we would respect and accept."

He also said, "We have never been opposed to including the Viet Cong in negotiations" (which was true only in a very limited sense) and, "If a civilian government is elected and wishes to negotiate a peace which does not sacrifice its own sovereignty, we would respect it" (which left open at least the possibility — undesirable though it obviously would be — of a sovereign, but communist, South Viet Nam).

Escalation Peril

Introduction of MiG-21 jet fighter planes into the air war, together with American unwillingness to afford these planes a sanctuary in China, has added a whole new dimension of escalation peril.

Russia appears concerned by the prospect. Ten days ago, just before the MiGs first were reported in action, a first secretary of the Russian UN embassy dropped a hint — first to an American official, then to reporters — that if the bombing of North Viet Nam stopped for good, a peace conference might emerge.

Both Moscow and Hanoi later denied it; but the denials were not persuasive. They dealt largely with the terms for a settlement, not for a conference.

The Soviet Union appears to have restored some of its influence in Hanoi. UN diplomats long have believed this would have to happen before there could be any hope of peace. As long as Peking was the dominant influence, Hanoi was totally unmovable.

None of this adds up, as yet, to a peace conference or a basis for negotiation at one. But it makes a conference a little less remote.

And it has been providing a provocative backdrop, this weekend, for talks in Paris between two men much interested in bringing such a conference to pass.

Double Standard

In 1866, Josephine Butler was waging her battle against injustice and the double standard. One wonders whether our elected members of parliament and the press understand the real reason for this outburst of scandal and the police blasting the word "prostitute" in their reports.

Why should not this word be applied to men? If the facts of life were really placed on the front pages of our newspapers, you would find the men prostitutes outnumber the women.—A. Carolyn Bayfield.

Wonderful

We veterans in Victoria don't realize what a wonderful hospital we have until we are taken sick and have to go there.

I was only an in-patient for a short time, but was an out-patient for some considerable time taking treatments.

The service and meals are excellent, and the doctors, nurses and all the staff from the highest to the lowest are just wonderful.

Let's hope this hospital of ours never gets under a civic administration. I am sure we veterans would never get the attention we do now.—A Veteran.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

After weeks of uncertain waiting the first signs appeared that Britain's economic boycott of Rhodesia is paying off.

For the first time since the white settler regime declared its independence last November, Prime Minister Ian Smith made a conciliatory response to British peace feelers.

The change of attitude came as the two governments were on the brink of a complete rupture of relations.

Smith had set mid-May as the deadline for removal of the British high commission office from Salisbury. Members of the Rhodesia House staff in London were also scheduled to return home.

Then Smith and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced the opening of tentative peace talks that they hope will lead to settlement of the crisis.

The informal meetings were held in Salisbury between Smith and Wilson's private secretary, Oliver Wright. They were reported to have laid the groundwork for more extensive bargaining.

British government officials let it be known privately that the initiative for the negotiations came from Smith. The reason, these sources said, was the delayed-action effect of the boycott which is only now beginning to have its full impact.

Unemployment is reported climbing steadily in Rhodesia and many whites are leaving the country for South Africa.

Wilson told other Commonwealth leaders the sanctions will be continued while the talks are in progress. He also gave assurances that Britain will not drop its demand for full constitutional rights for Rhodesia's four million Negroes.

Yielding to pressure from the press, Mr. Justice Wishart Spence announced that as many Munsinger hearings as possible within the bounds of national security will be held in public.

"The result may be damaging to the personal character of persons," the royal commissioner said, "but I think I will ignore that factor."

This warning was substantiated with disclosure of the contents of an RCMP file on Gerda Munsinger.

The police report said the woman had been refused entry to Canada in 1952 because she had engaged in espionage for the Soviet Union in Germany and had lived "an immoral life."

She was admitted to the country three years later for as yet unexplained reasons and became the mistress of Pierre Sevigny, associate minister of defence in the Conservative government.

The RCMP said the woman paid protection as a prostitute to the Montreal underworld and lived in the same apartment building as a Soviet trade mission which was kept under police surveillance.

There was no evidence Mrs. Munsinger was engaged in espionage in Canada, the report said.

She was reported to be on a first-name basis with former Trade Minister George Hees and an unnamed executive assistant to a cabinet minister.

Under cross-examination by Conservative party counsel, RCMP Commissioner George McLellan testified that Prime Minister Lester Pearson and former Justice Minister Guy Favreau learned of the Munsinger case in 1964.

McClellan said that shortly after the Tories opened the Rivard affair in the Commons the Prime Minister asked him whether the RCMP had any file involving scandal on the part of members of parliament for any party during the past 10 years.

It was then that he turned over the file to the Liberals, McClellan said.

The hearings have been adjourned for two weeks.

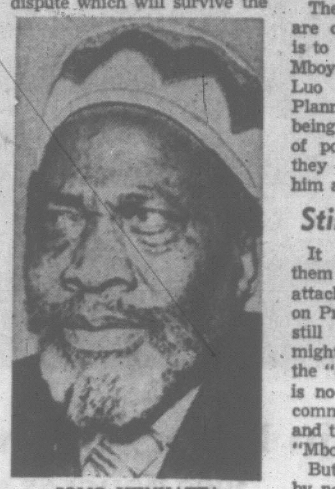
Kenya Conflict East Africa Test For Democracy

By COLIN LEGUM

LONDON—A struggle for power in Kenya is likely to culminate soon in a general election which will put African democracy there to its severest test since the country became independent of Britain in 1963.

The conflict has gone on for years in secret within the ranks of the ruling party — the Kenya African National Union (KANU) of President Jomo Kenyatta. It has come into the open in the last week with the decision of 46 members of parliament and senators to resign from KANU and join Mr. Oginga Odinga's new Kenya People's Union (KPU).

There is not much doubt that President Kenyatta will win the electoral challenge fairly comfortably. Nevertheless, there are elements in the dispute which will survive the election, and which will condition the future political development, not only of Kenya, but possibly of all East Africa.



JOMO KENYATTA
. . . rule challenged

Contrary to earlier expectations, Mr. Odinga, until recently Kenya's vice-president, has succeeded in forming a political party which has attracted leaders from areas other than his own Luo province of Central Nyanza. His most important recruit is Mr. Bildad Kaggia, KPU's deputy leader. Like Kenyatta he is a Kikuyu. This burly, bearded and intelligent young politician was one of the three top organizers of the Nairobi planned Mau Mau. Another of this trio, Mr. J. D. Kali, has also joined the opposition as its chief whip — a post he once held in the ruling party until he fell foul of Mr. Kenyatta.

Both Radicals

Both Mr. Kaggia and Mr. Kali are radicals, but not Communists. While Mr. Kali's support in his own area is unlikely to be large, Mr. Kaggia's hold among Kikuyu in the Fort Hall district is exceptionally strong. More important, he is accepted as a leader by young radicals in the towns, as well as by landless peasants, to whom he makes a special appeal by demanding the appropriation of all land held by Europeans.

Mr. Kaggia is not the only Kikuyu to have joined the new pary, but the others — like the former Minister, Dr. M. Waiyaki — have little popular support. Apart from Mr. Kaggia the most important recruit to Mr. Odinga's new team is Mr. Okelo Odongo, a dedicated Marxist and much more politically sophisticated than the senior "OO" — Mr. Oginga Odinga.

In character, therefore, the new opposition is militantly radical and not restricted to any one tribe, although its main support still lies with the Luo. However, not all the Central Nyanza Luo members have joined Mr. Odinga. His ability to recruit only 19 of the 129 MPs, and nine of the 41 senators must be something of a disappointment to him.

Only a Shadow

At the height of their challenge to the Kenyatta establishment in 1964, the Odinga-Kaggia-Kali lobby was able to mobilize a majority of KANU MPs on specific issues of policy. Their present strength is only a shadow of what it was at one time.

They will need a great deal of money to sustain their organization while offering an effective challenge. Peking is likely to continue its subsidies, but it is doubtful whether the Russians will do so, as they have no desire to estrange President Kenyatta.

There appear to be two inherent weaknesses in the new party. First, it is doubtful whether a majority of its MPs would win re-election if they stood on a KPU ticket rather than on Kenyatta's KANU ticket. Secondly, there are strong rivalries within the leadership.

Whereas Mr. Odinga has always been somewhat of a political opportunist, Mr. Kaggia has shown considerable attachment to principle. He can claim with perfect justification that he has not personally benefitted in any way from his political career. He has neither land nor an expensive house. There are not many prominent Keyna MPs who could make a similar claim.

Although Odinga and Kaggia have worked together in the past, they have also had their public quarrels. This applies also to other leading members of KPU. A great deal, therefore, depends on the ability of the KPU's leadership to hold together. They have been brought together because of individual reasons for dissatisfaction, but this does not necessarily add up to a coherent political program.

The tactics of the new party are clear. Their main target is to try to descredit Mr. Tom Mboya, the brilliant young Luo Minister of Economic Planning. By accusing him of being the centre of "a clique of power-hungry individuals" they clearly hope to make him a scapegoat.

Still Revered

It is politically wiser for them to concentrate their attacks on Mr. Mboya than on President Kenyatta, who is still widely revered. They might hope to insinuate that the "old man" is all right, but is no longer virile enough to command his government, and that he is being misled by "Mboya's clique."

But President Kenyatta is by no means a back number, even though his appearance is that of a rather slow-moving President Eisenhower. In reality he still retains all his old political astuteness and vitality. He has always preferred to leave the running to be made by others, but it is he who dictates the pace and the strategy. Nobody "uses" Mr. Kenyatta; it is always the other way about.

The KPU's second line of attack is to try to discredit the Kenyatta government as being "the agents of the Western imperialists" assailing again Mr. Mboya as "an American stooge."

But this argument is already threadbare. It will, in fact be much easier for KANU to discredit KPU as a "Communist - orientated" organization. Both arguments, however, are bound to give the new struggle for power in Kenya the character of a West versus East conflict. This is unfortunate, and inaccurate.

'Creative Compromise' For Bank Act Revision

By PETER NEWMAN

OTTAWA — With a successful budget behind him, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp has turned his attention to the even more contentious business of revising Canada's obsolete Bank Act.

Details of his proposals won't become public until the new act is tabled in the House of Commons about two weeks from now, but indications are that Sharp has fashioned a creative compromise which will make Canada's financial system one of the most flexible, most competitive, and most up-to-date in the world.

Newman

The centrepiece of the new legislation is expected to be a novel approach to the problem of dealing with the controversial 6 per cent ceiling on bank interest charges.

In fashioning his new policy, Sharp had four choices:

1. To leave the 6 per cent rate as it is. But this, he is known to feel, would perpetuate a distortion in the loans business which allows only the super-safe risks to obtain 6 per cent bank loans, with no spectrum of interest rates available up to the exorbitant charges of the finance companies.

Up a Notch

2. To set a new ceiling of 7 per cent. But the effect here would be simply to move the whole interest rate structure up a notch. This is particularly unacceptable during the currrent period of tight money and already high interest rates. (The rate on three-month treasury bills is up from 3.82 last May to 5.10 this week.)

3. To remove the ceiling altogether. This is what the banks have been advocating, but it's not a politically saleable alternative. Not only would such a proposal get beaten in the Commons, but it couldn't even get through the Liberal caucus, particularly after Walter Gordon's strong stand on the issue last January 26 when the former minister of finance rallied backbenchers to oppose any abandonment of an interest rate ceiling.

4. To adopt a compromise solution that would be politically acceptable, economically feasible, and ensure Sharp's objective of giving the borrowing public a hierarchy of rates for a hierarchy of risks.

In opting for this alternative Sharp and his advisors have come up with an ingenious formula which will retain the 6 per cent ceiling on small loans, but allow the banks to lift their interest rate limit on large borrowings. The exact dividing line has not been chosen, but it will probably come somewhere between $20,000 and $30,000. Loans under this amount (which account for about 95 percent of the chartered banks' loaning customers but only about a third of the money loaned) will remain under the 6 per cent limit; loans over this amount (which account for only about 5 per cent of transactions, but two-thirds of the funds) will be allowed to float freely.

How the government plans to force the banks to service the smaller customers isn't clear, but moral suasion applied by Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky is expected to be used. The objective will be to make certain the banks maintain the present ratio between small and large loans.

5 Other Ideas

As well as this imaginative approach to the 6 per cent ceiling, Sharp is thought to be planning at least five other major revisions to the Bank Act. In typical Sharp fashion, half of these measures will appeal to the bankers, the others will make them very angry indeed — but not angry enough to reject the favorable changes.

The government is expected to encourage the chartering of more banks, particularly regionally-based institutions like James Coyne's Bank of Western Canada. At the same time, Sharp seems to agree with the Porter Commission recommendation that the chartered banks and the so-called near banks (mainly trust companies) "have become very similar, and in some respects indistinguishable."

One step which would bring the two kinds of financial institutions to almost equal status would be the setting up of a new crown corporation in Canada, modelled on Washington's Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Rigid Inspection

All chartered banks and federally-chartered near-banks would have to purchase deposit guarantee insurance from this new Ottawa agency, which in turn would provide rigid inspection services. The result of all this would be that Canadian consumers would have their deposits — in banks or federally-chartered near-banks — guaranteed. There could never be another Atlantic Acceptance Corporation disaster. (Provincially-chartered near-banks would be invited to join the plan, and it's thought guaranteed deposits would become such a competitive advantage, that most of them would come.)

Such a scheme would destroy the competitive supremacy of the chartered banks. It could also mean that the banks would have to cease their current practice of accumulating tax-free inner reserves (which are a form of internal deposit insurance), thus raising their taxable profit positions.

Majority of Canadians Want China in the UN

Today more than half the Canadian population believes that Communist China should have a seat in the United Nations General Assembly. This is a steady increase for UN representation from the Peking government since 1956 when only 28% felt Red China should be admitted as a member of the world organizatin.

Among members of the three major parties, those from the NDP most favor admitting Red China to the UN—nearly seven in ten.

Precious Little Romance In RCMP's S&I Branch

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—Ah, spring! The time a young man's fancy, and all that.

Down in the great concrete seminary the Catholic Church sold to Louis St. Laurent for a Mounted Police headquarters they are very conscious of love.

It's a threat to national security.

Waring

Look what happened to James Bond. SMERSH, the Soviet counter-spy organization, threw volume after volume of love at Britain's fabulous spy catcher. Mind you, to no avail.

But in the former seminary that houses the Canadian spy-catching organization there is little confidence that womanly wiles, improperly applied, would not drain almost any male Canadian cabinet minister of his quota of state secrets. So a minister indiscreet enough to dally among the daisies with a light of love—or as the police put it, "in that he did cohabit with a woman not his wife"—invites the attention of trench-coated young men with high haircuts who follow in unmarked cars.

Love, I fear, would have a rough time if the Mounties were in charge of this area of human relations.

* * *

The once blonde and beautiful Gerda—now neither so much of either—is quoted in the German press as saying she truly loved her cabinet minister friend. It's enough to pluck your heart strings. That is, if you don't happen to be a Mountie.

Gerda's love for her minister may have had all the beauty and tenderness of Lady Hamilton's love for Lord Nelson, the hero of Trafalgar—who was not, as far as is known, ever tailed by MI 5 to his trysts with his mistress. But the reports of "I" directorate (Security and Intelligence) are deficient on the quality of Gerda's affection.

The Mounties say bluntly that Mrs. Munsinger had "an illicit sexual relationship" with Pierre Sevigny. She might have been SMERSH bait. And don't try to give them any gears about two hearts beating as one without benefit of clergy!

* * *

The Mounties tried to make a case that Gerda had been a Russian spy, and might still be one. Their evidence is that in December, 1949, when she was 20, she was convicted in a West German court of having stolen some U.S. funds and a military pass from an American soldier. She gave them to her lover, a Russian officer.

Even at that tender age, many men had known Gerda. When a girl of 16 in blonde pigtails had to choose death or dishonor in Russian-occupied East Prussia, she did not choose death.

When a Mountie asks permission to marry, his superiors must decide if his intended wife is "a fit and proper person to occupy government quarters." Gerda—or Lady Hamilton—would not have passed this test. So the Mounties tailed Sevigny and reported his activities to Justice Minister Davie Fulton, because an unfit and improper person might leave Sevigny open to blackmail of state secrets.

Unfortunately this reasoning is perfectly valid. There was indeed a danger of blackmail. But withal, Venus must have wept: in police work or in politics the way of the romantic is hazardous.

Sitting on Cloud Nine In the Wide Blue Yonder

By ART STOTT

WHILE, and if, this is being read on the day of issue, I expect to be soaring through the wide blue yonder. My reactions parallel those of a man who has just won a sweepstake. Tomorrow I hope to be standing in Trafalgar Square, with four lions to guard me.

Stott

I have done it before, yet it still stretches my credulity to realize that Air Canada can pick me up from the spring blooming countryside of Victoria and deposit me in the British metropolis within a few hours. Unlike Conan Doyle, I don't really believe in fairies, but . . .

The formal program for a week in London as Air Canada's guest is impressive. Also, it makes provision for enough free time to let a person wander—which I intend to do, both then and when the lady of the house joins me for vacation at the program's end.

There are things we want to do. For a short period I hope to stand silent before the resting place of the Unknown Soldier in the Abbey. I want to loaf in Piccadilly and watch the crowds swirl by. I want to see if the Happy Wanderers still parade up and down Oxford Street, beating out and blaring out their popular selections and inviting contributions from the passers-by.

I want to stroll around Hyde Park's Speakers Corner and listen to the world-shaking, often outrageous preachments of the men and boys on soap boxes. I want to slip into Marshall Street baths, where I last dived competitively 33 years ago.

I want to return for dinner at Genarro's with the person who shared an occasion there with me, and be received by the suave host who looks like a motion picture version of the international man-about-town and who gives a red rosebud to the ladies with a flourish that makes them feel more important than anyone else in London.

I'm hoping for a sunny day to make a short trip to Cambridge, to walk along the "backs," over linden-shaded paths running up from the river to old and gracious buildings that speak of leisurely scholarship. I'd like to see if the windows of Peterhouse have kept their magic when the afternoon sun streams in, if King's College chapel is still the monument of grace that dwells in my memory.

I'm looking forward to another visit to Windsor, to see the swans on the river, and to sense again the gracious beauty of St. George's chapel in the castle grounds.

With luck, and I feel lucky, we might get across the Channel to gaze at the tulip fields of Holland, and to Brussels to see the little statue which, I'm told, brings light to the eyes and a smile to the lips.

* * *

If fortune still smiles, we may reach Paris, to see if the chestnut at the head of the island is blooming as luxuriantly as the one outside my office window in a traditional salute to spring in that city. Perhaps there'll be time for ice water, fruit juice and ham and eggs for breakfast at Pam-Pam's just around the corner from the Cafe de la Paix, and maybe tea above Smith and Sons bookshop by the Place de la Concorde. It isn't chauvinism, but there is an appeal to Western-style food and beverages after the novelty and delight of foreign dining.

There will be galleries, cathedrals, historic points, scenery, happy interludes on sidewalk cafes tasting the wines of the country and cosy rest periods in English pubs, perhaps with a hunk of bread and cheese to go with the mild and bitter.

There should be some shows—and at least a search for a music hall, short visits with old friends, rubberneck tours, maybe even some quiet contemplation.

Then we'll come home.

There may be more enjoyable ways of spending time than loom ahead in the next three or four weeks. I just haven't found them. The prospect helps to give me an appreciation for science when air travel can make such a program possible.

Campbell Sweeny came to Victoria ...75 years ago

Campbell Sweeny was a Bank of Montreal manager. He was one of a breed of pioneer bankers who played an important role in the development of the West. Mr. Sweeny came to Victoria early in 1891. His assignment here was to establish the Bank of Montreal's second British Columbia office. He did . . . in April, 1891. The Bank's present Main Victoria Branch at Douglas and Yates Streets is now observing the 75th anniversary of that opening. Previously, Mr. Sweeny had established the first permanent chartered banking offices in Winnipeg and in Vancouver. Here in Victoria, he laid the foundation of the present organization of eight Bank of Montreal offices in various parts of the city area. Today, Canada's first Bank has 130 B.C. offices, operating under direction of the General Manager for British Columbia, resident in Vancouver.

On this special occasion:::

We should like to express our sincere thanks to the people of Victoria for their support and patronage over the past 75 years. We are now looking forward to serving you for many years to come.

Valley Nature Chiseled

A million years ago, giant glaciers chiseled a deep valley out of towering granite mountains, making way for huge stands of Sequoia giant trees and patchworks of variagated flowers in hidden meadows.

This valley, surrounded by high rising cliffs, is known as Yosemite and is one of the great natural wonders of the world, and is a major attraction for those visiting California.

The 1,200 square mile Yosemite National Park encompassing vast reaches of the rugged, majestic Sierra Nevada Mountain Range embodies as much of the spirit of California as does the Central Coast of the State and its Spanish influence with which it so dramatically contrasts.

This great contrast of high Sierras and the Pacific coast, separated by fertile valleys, may now be seen on a unique five-day excursion offered by California Parlor Car Tours.

CASA LOMA, a famous Toronto landmark, is featured in miniature in Canadia City, Ontario's new tourist attraction to open early this summer at Niagara Falls. Built as a regal residence and now a mecca for visitors, its replica is one of many authentic models to be seen at this capsule Canadian city.

B.C. PARADISE

Long Beach Spellbinding

By AB KENT

People who have seen the untamed splendor of Long Beach have used up all the superlatives in describing its impact for the first time.

It has the reputation of being the biggest, wildest, most beautiful 12-mile stretch of fine sand on the coast.

One visit — in basking sunshine or boiling storm — confirms pretty much all of these generous terms.

A hardy fraternity of West Coasters and many more who have found excuse to slip away to rough it on those rugged rocks and beaches over the years are thoroughly under its spell.

Camping on the sands or taking a cabin for a real outdoor holiday at this once remote beach 70 miles from Port Alberni has long been enjoyed by a few Victorians and Mainlanders, or up-Islanders whose lives are closer to nature.

SALTY BOSOM

And in recent years the fast-growing car trailer and truck-mounted camper crowd have found a kind of sea level Shangri-la at the end of a sinuous, cliff-hanging road that frequently dwindles down to bare, bone-jolting rock.

Today one need not hike, pack in with horses or arrive by air or from the sea to live in nature's salty bosom at Long Beach.

There is thrice-weekly bus service and once there a traveller may stay at two-year-old Wickaninnish Inn, which takes its name from the bay bounding the beach.

This is no mere rural relief point, but a modern hotel of city standards, jutting spectacularly from a rocky point at the south end of the beach.

It is the product of six years' labor by co-owner Robin M. Fells, skin-diving resident manager whose imagination and help from the Industrial Development Bank have created a unique and happy lodging offering tempting fare, good beds, fine drink, panoramic sea and landscape, surfing, a variety of sports and games, shell fishing, beachcombing, surf-casting and skindiving.

TUCKED AWAY

Besides the wonders of the beach, Wickaninnish offers trails through acres of sea-fringing forest and protected little beaches tucked away in rock-bound coves.

The entire Long Beach community is still small enough to be known within itself by first names; there is a service station, a store and a post office.

Tofino is at the north end and Ucluelet is just around the corner to the south. They are linked by a first-class paved highway and it is here that air and coast steamship connections may be made.

Regrettably, the pavement does not yet link with Sproat Lake Road, which becomes the Tofino Road that is so uncomfortably rough in places.

But Fells and his partner Jeff Crawford, better known for his operation of Vancouver's Geisha Gardens, think the pavement will be extended within five years.

BUT DOLLAR HOLDS SWAY

Small Touch of Britain

The road sign are British; cars drive on the left-hand side of the road; and — as a tourist attraction — there is an English-style pub. But that's everything that is British about this speck of land off the southeast coast of Florida ends.

For the rest, Grand Bahama, fourth largest island in the Bahamas chain (one of which was the first landfall in the New World of Columbus in 1492), is Miami-style hotels, U.S. cars, companies and accents, bourbon whisky, ice-water and air-conditioning.

There is a local currency, the Bahamian pound, but it is very much a second-class one. Real money is the dollar — and forget the fact that this is part of the sterling area.

Britons were the first settlers when the islands were deserted in the 17th century, but perhaps ironically for British land investors — nearly 100 of them have just paid a four-day visit — it is this U.S. "takeover" which offers the real financial promise.

Britons have bought nearly $10,500,000 worth of land on Grand Bahama in less than two years. This month Previews International, a property clearing house, found it worth while to offer potential buyers a free 4,670-mile trip from London to inspect land. The visitors ended up by buying over $750,000 worth of building sites.

SELLING POINT

Grand Bahama's bigest selling point is that it is booming — and noticeably so. A dozen years ago the island was solitary scrubland. Today there are nine hotels, 19 restaurants, seven churches, five schools, large commercial developments, 250,000 tourists a year and fast-growing residential areas.

The present population is only about 21,000, a figure which includes the 8,500 American, British and Canadian settlers who live in the Freeport area.

For the settlers living is good. Prices may be high but so are wages. The Bahamians themselves benefit from high wages $45 to $90 a week is an estimated average — but living conditions are at the best primitive. Home to virtually any Bahamian is one of the shanty towns which contrast sharply with the plushness of Freeport's new luxury buildings.

Freighter Safari

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Automobile Association, which arranges all types of travel, says increasing leisure time for Americans is increasing interest in freighter travel. It says the term "tramp" applied to a freighter does not necessarily mean the vessel is run down, but is used in the sense of "wanderer." Accommodations are generally as good as on passenger liners.

Because with 12 passengers or less the vessel does not need a special passenger licence, freighters usually have accommodations for a dozen passengers, generally with three double cabins and six singles, all with bath or shower and toilet.

Fish, Color Competition

NORTH BAY—It's just spring but that doesn't stop Nipissing regional tourist council from planning for autumn. To extend the tourist season it will put up $4,000 in prizes for a "Fish and Color" competition, a fish derby and photo contest to run from Sept. 3 to Oct. 16.

Prizes are unique. In the fishing contest, five miniature bars of silver bullion will be awarded weekly. Grand awards in five classes at the end of the contest will be trophies made from Ontario semi-precious stones.

Novel awards in the photo competition will be enlargements of winners' own work—for color transparencies, color and black-and-white print and 50 feet of color film.

The sponsors figure the prizes will also serve as conversation pieces and lasting testimonials to the Nipissing district's beauty and bounty.

WHEELS GET WET IN SAM SALUTE

When Sam McGee's body, frozen rock-hard, was stuffed into the fire box of a derelict river boat and a roaring fire lit under it, he sat up and made a speech heard round the world. Though it was merely an admonition to close the firebox door, it is still being heard after 60 years.

The locale of "The Cremation of Sam McGee," by Robert W. Service, is Yukon's Lake Laberge, a few minutes' drive from the capital city of Whitehorse.

So widely known is the poem that visitors have made a ritual of dipping the front wheels of their car in the waters of this famous lake.

Yukon tourist officials have been obliged to provide an easy ramp of hard-packed gravel to facilitate this "Salute to Sam," thought is also is much used to launch pleasure boats.

The highway from Whitehorse to the Klondike passes nearby, and few motorists bound for the City of Gold are able to resist a stop on the "Marge of Lake LeBarge."

PEA GRAVEL

Nearly 30 miles long, the lake is snuggled up against pastel-hued mountains on one side, while on the other it is bordered by the grassy woodlands of the broad Yukon Valley. Its beaches are alternately of fine hard sand, pea gravel and great, weathered outcroppings of grey granite.

Lake trout taken from this glacier-fed blue water is regarded by experts as among the world's finest, and so they may be eaten under ideal conditions, a free government campground is maintained near the ramp and is equipped with tables, benches, and barbecue-type stovettes.

Of the 36 such campgrounds throughout the Yukon, that at Lake Laberge is the only one to attract visitors for sentiment only — those who feel impelled to dip their wheels in tribute to "Sam McGee from Tennessee."

COMFORT AND SYMPATHY are being given Mrs. Boeuf (Helen Smith) after she has been chased to work by a rhinoceros. Solicitous friends are played by Dr. Peter Smith, left, and Reg Terry in this hilarious scene from Ionesco's avant garde play which opens at Uvic's Phoenix Theatre Thursday. Directed by Robert Hedley, it will run through balance of the week and from May 9 to 14.

Voice Puts Lead Man In Demand

The role of Curly, the clean-cut, dashing hero of the musical, Oklahoma, is not new to Victoria Operatic Society star Harry Elsdon.

He played it first in, of all places, his native England; to be exact, in West Hartlepool, County Durham.

This was the climax of Mr. Elsdon's musical stage activity in England. Activity that had begun when he was a youngster and found himself cajoled on stage to sing a solo.

He recalls that his knees were shaking so badly that he had to take refuge behind a table covered with a long cloth.

After that one thing led to another, including dancing class where he met his wife, June.

There were lead roles in the local operatic society productions, a three-year stint with the Royal Air Force (during which he kept in practise as an entertainer-singer), and after the war more operatic roles and membership in a male quartet.

With the quartet a self-contained show was formed that turned professional, playing surrounding towns. Then came Oklahoma and not long after that, emigration to Canada with wife June and son Tony.

MERRY WIDOW

Once he had established himself in Victoria, Mr. Elsdon inevitably was drawn to the Victoria Operatic Society and with the organization has played Grieg in Song of Norway, Nanki-poo in The Mikado, Prince Danilo in The Merry Widow, Captain Van Damm in The Red Mill.

And now it's Curly again in the VOS production, scheduled at McPherson Playhouse for a full week, May 9 to 14.

A good man may be hard to find, but a good baritone isn't easy either so it follows that Harry Elsdon has been kept busy since he made his Victoria debut as Edvard Grieg.

He has starred with Jerry Gosley's Smile Show; in the McPherson's opening show, Lights Up; has done Sunday afternoon concerts in Beacon Hill Park, charity shows, and has filled a guest spot with the Amity Singers.

NO WONDER

In addition, this summer will be his third season with the Sunset Shows at Butchart Gardens.

No wonder he shakes his head as he says that he seems to be continually rehearsing for something. But somehow, one gets the impression that he wouldn't want it any other way.

As for June, she shares his interest and maintains her own specialty as she coaches the chorus movement and choreography for VOS productions.

IN THE GROOVE

By Paul Thomas

The young people of Victoria can consider themselves fortunate to have such a fine selection of bands playing in the area. Not many towns this size have an advantage of this kind. There are altogether 10 fine groups active and in addition to this, the public has a chance to hear big name groups from the American Northwest.

It will be some time before an event of the magnitude of the Gary Lewis Show is seen again in Victoria, simply because the promoters do not like to lose money.

It costs a great deal to put on a dance even with a local group, taking into consideration musicians' fees, hall rental and advertising.

In up-Island towns such as Port Alberni and Nanaimo there is much more enthusiasm over dances than in our capital city.

Because of this, names like Paul Revere and the Raiders, Roy Orbison, and the Ventures have appeared on up-Island billings.

On the Uvic calendar this week, the main event is the Soph dance.

First stage of the dance took place on Friday night at the New Club Tango with The Regents.

Tonight, the Coachmen will be playing at the same place. Tickets for the event are $3 a couple.

Two clubs which are geared for young adults, the Club A-Go-Go and Jon York's Music Hall, will both be open tonight and if you can't make it to the Tango, maybe we'll see you at one of the others.

Next week this column will present a feature on these two clubs.

Pianists Open Season

Duo pianists Robin Wood and Winifred Scott will open the 1966-67 season for Victoria Musical Art Society, it was announced at the annual meeting held this week.

One of the most popular visiting artists of last season, soprano Audrey Farnell of Vancouver, will return to give the January recital.

Balance of the season's lineup of six events includes Eleanor Duff, contralto, with Wynne Shaw Dancers in November; the Don Kyle Singers (winners of the CBC Award in the Music Festival just concluded) as the March attraction and the traditional talented student recital and carol tea.

Unanimously returned to office was the 1965-66 executive: Mrs. S. G. Watts, president; Mrs. O. Niederman, first vice-president; T. Ledley McMaster, second; Miss Charlotte Crawford, secretary, and Miss Mary Adamson, treasurer.

Conveners were named as follows: Membership, Mrs. Watts and Miss Crawford; tea tickets, Miss Adamson and Mrs. C. N. Boyd; decorations, Mrs. Robert M. Adamson and Mrs. P. Lovric; programs, Miss Wendy Cox; publicity, Mrs. J. T. Edwards; social, Miss Frances Jordan; scholarship fund committee, Mrs. W. Luck, Mrs. Adamson, D. R. Abbott; scholarship ways and means, Mrs. J. Gillespie; historian, Mrs. J. Ingram Smith.

Festival Proves Worth; Several Awards Presented

By AUDREY JOHNSON

As a festival finale, the concert Friday night at Central Junior Secondary School auditorium could scarcely have been more satisfactory.

Events like the Greater Victoria Music Festival prove their worth, when they crown two weeks of competitive classes with such a statement of high achievement and promise.

From the spirited opening by Oak Bay Secondary School Band to the enchanting Burnside Elementary folk song choir at the end of the program, the work was of the highest quality.

The close-to-capacity audience gave an ovation to violin soloist Trudi Conrad and to the Grade 7 boys of Monterey School for their spectacular Oxen Dance.

The effective Claremont Secondary speech choir, oboist Ian Franklin, the well disciplined Elementary Schools String Orchestra, an Israeli dance by Margaret Jenkins Grade 6 group, Victoria Secondary String Ensemble, and all the other choirs — Holy Angel's, Lampson Street, Uplands and Norfolk House — contributed handsomely to the fine evening.

Several awards were made: Corinne Dunn, the Edith Ellis Award; Jacqui Court, Banff School of Fine Arts Scholarship; Muriel Smith, the Ethel James Award; Trudi Conrad, Victoria Musical Art Society Bursary, School of Music Bursary, Congress of Strings Scholarship.

The Music Festival's own bursaries went to Ian Franklin, the J. F. K. English bursary; Colin Bonneau, piano; Dena Noble, vocal; Denise Wood and Rhonda Williams, speech arts; Lee Hunt and Sheila Woolsey, accordion.

The senior and junior bursaries provided by Kiwanis Club of Saanich were awarded to pianist Stuart Calder and 15-year-old vocalist Irene Boese.

WORKSHOP FOR STRINGS IN VANCOUVER

A workshop symposium for string players at professional or advanced level is to be held in Vancouver from May 16 to 21.

Directed by Oscar Shumsky, a pupil of Auer and Zimbalist and on the faculty of the Juilliard School in New York, the symposium is being sponsored by Vancouver Symphony Society with co-operation of Local 145, AF of M and assisted by Canada Council.

Objects will be to study techniques of string playing with particular reference to ensemble playing in quartets, trios and to rehearse as a string orchestra.

Playing in quartets with Vancouver students will be Vivienne Abbott, Trudi Conrad and Barbara Ann Court, members of Victoria Symphony who are students of concert master Jean Angers.

Admission to the symposium is open to all string players in B.C. who can produce evidence of professional training and experience.

Oratorio Out

Presentation of the oratorio, Samson, by St. Aidan's Church Choir, planned for this month, will be postponed indefinitely due to the recent death of St. Aidan's organist, James Saunders.

However, the choir and its director, Mrs. Vera Barclay, plan to re-schedule the work sometime next fall.

SAND AND WATER

June's Diet Simple: 'I Don't Eat Much'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Despite such discomforts as water drenchings and sand in the navel, June Lockhart says "I am probably one of the few successful, contented actresses."

For six years she was the gingham-clad mother in television's Lassie series. Now she has her most rigorous role ever—spacewoman on another planet in TV's Lost in Space.

"Gallons and gallons and gallons" of water were dumped on the players in one sequence. In another they crawl gasping along the sand as the sun approaches. Glycerin coats their faces to simulate sweat. Then:

"There's an earthquake, and the wind machines blow sand on us. It was stuck in the most unbelievable places. Even our navels."

SMALL STUFF?

Pretty elemental drama for a veteran of such movies as Sergeant York and Meet Me in St. Louis? For the daughter of the distinguished Gene and Kathleen Lockhart of stage and screen?

"Yes, but it depends on your goals in life. I'm fortunate to have played a variety of roles — comediennes, nymphomaniacs, neurotic sisters - in - law, farm wives. I was brought up to be happy with what's going on at the time."

Her first movie, Dickens' A Christmas Carol, was with her parents when she was 12.

A subsequent quarter-century has touched the fragile-looking, doll-like beauty lightly. Slits in the sides of her robe reveal trim calves. She's five-foot-five and 118 pounds. Special diet? "Yes, I don't eat much."

"This series is quite a jolly to do," she said. "My career—I don't call it that—is a hobby which pays well. My children (Anne, 12; June, 10) are a delight. I want to travel, with my husband (architect John Lindsay). It's a rich, full life."

CHIPS WITH EVERYTHING STRONG PLAY

Arnold Wesker is regarded as one of England's brightest luminaries among the young playwrights and Chips With Everything has been his greatest success on both sides of the Atlantic.

This is the play that Brentwood Drama Club will bring to McPherson Playhouse next Friday and Saturday.

Directed by Robert Orr, it has a cast of 19, headed by Robert Leaf, Dale Berry, Chris Statham and Harry Taylor in the lead roles.

The play takes place in an RAF training camp for conscripts and deals with the themes that all power corrupts, showing the individual in revolt against established order.

This is Brentwood College Drama Club's second appearance at the McPherson where they presented the striking production of Antigone directed by Gil Bunch last year.

Tickets are on sale at McPherson box office.

Save Rock Paintings!

Several Victorians are concerned at the fate of Indian rock paintings around the shore of the Arrow Lakes in southeast British Columbia.

They are in danger of being obliterated when the level of the lakes is raised for the Columbia River hydro project.

Mrs. W. J. Matcht, 3322 Doncaster, today urged the government to do something to remove the pictographs to higher ground.

"If this isn't done within the next year or so, it will be too late," she said.

The pictographs depict animals and human groups and are found on several sites around the lakes.

Don Abbott, acting anthropologist at the provincial museum, said the matter is under consideration.

He said the B.C. archaelogical advisory board is aware of the problem. It surveyed the area two years ago.

ANIMALS NEED HELP

The menagerie for the TV series Daktari needs a full-time staff of 30 men to care for and hand-feed its animals.

NORTH BREEZES

A visitor to IMPERIAL dining room told our maitre d' Les Szabo he had just been on a tour of the Gorge.

"There are few cities with such a beautiful waterway," said the visitor.

LES TOLD HIM PROUDLY THAT THE CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT COMMISSION WILL SPEND $86,000 THERE THIS YEAR, MAKING IT EVEN MORE BEAUTIFUL.

"WHAT A WONDERFUL SETTING FOR WATER SPORTS. WILL THEY BUILD MORE BEACHES?" ASKED THE VISITOR.

Les said he understood the water is tainted by septic tanks and the bottom deep in sludge.

"Then this beautification is like putting frosting on a mud pie isn't it?" asked our visitor. "Why don't they clean it up first?"

One thing about maitre d's —they shrug wonderfully.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Such a thought never entered my head before. But now I am wondering . . .

Are the Dominion Drama Festival Finals at the McPherson Playhouse intended to be an exclusive affair?

Is it the intention to keep Mr. and Mrs. Average Theatre-goer away from the McPherson during the week of May 15 to 21?

Intention or not, this is exactly what is going to happen, so the affair inevitably will be exclusive—and I use the word in its most basic sense.

Immersed in music festival up to my eyebrows, it was not until the first phone call reached me that I became aware of the situation.

Since then I have talked with 10 or a dozen theatre-minded people and the reaction is unanimous.

The ticket price structure for the Dominion Drama Festival finals is—and I quote—"shocking," "unrealistic," "completely prohibitive."

SAD LESSON OF EXPERIENCE

Almost no one, outside professional "name" events, can get away with over $3 tops for a single night stand in Victoria. This is a lesson gained from long experience. Remember the antagonism that was created by ticket prices for some of the McPherson opening events last year?

So what can be expected as a result of $3.25 and $2.50 tabs for seven nights of non-pro theatre, even though presumed to be the best in Canada?

To get down to brass tacks, the McPherson house has been scaled so that any seat in the three back rows downstairs (fortunately three of the best rows) will cost you $1.75 and so will 10 perilous back rows of the upper balcony.

The front two rows downstairs—A and B—almost the worst seats in the house for this kind of event, are priced at $2.50 and so are single box seats which are certainly the worst.

Rows C to L on the main floor and all lower balcony seats are $3.25!

Now perhaps the Dominion Drama Festival officials expect that enough visitors with well lined wallets will be coming from other parts of Canada to fill the 835-seat McPherson comfortably for each of the seven nights.

There has been indication in the past two or three years, reading between the lines of new policy and regulations, that Western Canada's theatre and its followers are considered a write-off anyway.

DROP IN ATTENDANCE SEEN

So the people I have been talking to who had planned to attend five or six out of the seven events will only get to two, or at the most, three plays.

And you can bet on it that there are plenty more similarly disappointed.

So what? Does anyone care?

Well, I do, I think that an event such as this should have been fully available, not only as an entertaining, but as an instructive week for hundreds of theatre-minded people in this city, to say nothing of the many drama students, for whom, apparently, no provision is made.

But I'm also saving some of my sympathy for the play groups.

There is nothing worse than facing an adjudicator and half-empty house and unless the lessons already learned by many of us about theatre audiences in this city are all turned topsy-turvy, that is what is going to happen.

Believe me, this is one time when I would not be sorry to have to eat my words. The possibility is, however, remote.

Original Musicals Prove Big Gamble

AP Weekend Newsfeature

NEW YORK (AP) — They don't make Broadway musicals like they used to — or do they?

Of nine current shows, only one has an original story.

Reliance upon remake has been accented by such blockbuster hits as My Fair Lady, Hello Dolly! and Fiddler on the Roof, all of which were adaptations.

Why? "Most shows are based on something else because serious dramatists aren't interested," says Alan Jay Lerner.

By expert consensus, the first musical comedy was The Black Crook, 100 years ago. The extravaganza, which racked up 400 performances, had a black magic plot by Charles M. Barras that must have reminded spectators of Faust.

SET PRECEDENT

A few years later, a rowdy parody of Evangeline even more clearly set precedent for adaptation. Sponsors were apparently beginning to come around to the viewpoint now held by David Merrick, Broadway's busiest impresario.

"Musicals are virtually never started by writers," says Merrick. "They are propelled into being by producers who are trying to make a living. What they dream up is usually something already in existence. It shouldn't be our responsibility, but it's a matter of survival."

Harold Prince, another leading producer who to date has returned profits of $2,900,000 to investors in six of his musicals (all derivative), feels fewer original ideas are turning up than a few years ago.

"Given a choice between an original and one based on something else — of potentially equal quality — I'd always choose the orginal because it is more exciting to work on and much more rewarding."

Financially, there is small doubt that a musical from other source enjoys better odds as a payoff venture. The record $650,000 flop last season of Kelly, an original which starred Canadian-born Don Francks, typified a lot of recent distress. Of seven musicals that have opened and already closed this season, three were freshly plotted.

September Start Set By Ballet

TORONTO (CP) — Ballet British Columbian, Canada's fourth major ballet company, will begin its first formal rehearsals in Vancouver in September.

Beth Lockhart and Franklin White, the company's artistic directors, said in an interview that the ballet's board will have to raise about $150,000 for its first season. But this amount was "peanuts," they said.

The company of 16 dancers and eight musicians, not yet recruited, will open in the Okanagan Valley in late October. The season will close with a week at Vancouver's Queen Elizabeth Playhouse Dec. 26-31.

Mr. White, a former principal dancer with Britain's Royal Ballet, said the first season will be "nothing more than a start. We don't expect to achieve any real results for at least 10 years."

Miss Lockhart, a former dancer who worked in Toronto, said that including its incorporation and recruiting of the board, Ballet British Columbia had achieved in a few months "as much as the National Ballet in Toronto had done in two years."

First auditions for the company will be held in Vancouver May 7-9.

Blind Girl In Festival Piano Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peggy Mercer, a blind 14-year-old who is learning to play piano from recordings, was the first winner Friday at the Kiwanis music festival here.

Miss Mercer, a student at Jericho Hill School for handicapped children, won the Bach pianoforte class for children under 15. She beat 12 other entrants.

The young girl does not use Braille music but memorizes every piece after hearing it first on a tape recorder.

Her voice teacher, Mrs. Joyce Court, said Peggy is able to do this "because she has perfect pitch."

About 13,000 contestants will take part in the festival which opened Friday and continues through May 7.

SEVEN ENTRIES IN FINALS

Drama Spotlight on Victoria

For a full week in the middle of May, Victoria will become the amateur theatre hub of Canada.

Around about May 13 or 14, theatre buffs from the Maritimes to Vancouver will begin arriving in Victoria followed on subsequent days by teams selected for the Dominion Drama Festival final playoffs at the McPherson Playhouse.

Altogether, seven amateur groups from six zones will compete for national awards between May 15 and 21.

One play will be staged each night and trophies for excellence under the usual headings of best play, best director, etc., will be presented on the final evening.

Plays and dates are:

May 15, The Father by August Strindberg, Vancouver Little Theatre Association.

May 16, The Knack by Ann Jellicoe, M.A.C. Theatre Society, Calgary.

May 17, Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller, University of New Brunswick Drama Society, Fredericton, N.B.

May 18, Les Bonnes, by Genet, Le Mouvement Contemporain, Montreal.

May 19, The Glass Menagerie, by Tennessee Williams, Lakeside Theatre Productions, Ottawa.

May 20, Mother Courage and Her Children, by Berthold Brecht, London Little Theatre, London, Ont.

May 21, A Stranger Unto My Brethren, by John Burgess, The Questors, Toronto.

This year's finals form part of British Columbia's centennial celebrations. Financial aid has been provided by the provincial centennial committee and Victoria municipal authorities.

A triple-header conference will get under way ahead of the finals.

Educator and community theatre organizers will congregate in the city for the Western Canadian Educational Theatre Conference which opens May 13, and for the pre-festival DDF conference and Canadian Child Drama Association conference, all of which will occupy Friday, Saturday and part of Sunday.

CRY THE BELOVED COUNTRY, adapted from Alan Paton's novel of racial distress in Africa, will be presented at Christ Church Cathedral Wednesday by the Bishop's Company of Burbank, Calif.

African Race Play Timely Production

A unique repertory group known as The Bishop's Company of Burbank, Calif., is returning to Victoria next week to present Alan Paton's Cry, the Beloved Country in Christ Church Cathedral.

The Bishop's Company, now in its 14th year of touring coast to coast, specializes in presenting thoughtful plays in sacred edifices and on university campuses.

It will be remembered here for a moving production of Christopher Fry's Boy with a Cart at the Cathedral last year.

A fully professional company, it is inter-racial and inter-faith.

Founded in 1952, it has toured over a million miles and has appeared as part of the program of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches at Evanston, at Yale Divinity School, Princeton Theological Seminary and many other centres.

FEW YEARS AGO

The play, Cry the Beloved Country, adapted from the best-selling novel of a few years ago, is more timely than ever, with its theme of the African racial problem.

It will be presented Wednesday, starting at 8 p.m., with permission of the Dean and Chapter.

There is no admission charge but tickets should be obtained from the cathedral office. A collection will be taken.

Director Named For Plays

Three of the plays which will make up the repertory for the Toronto season of Canadian Players, will be directed by Britain's Richard Digby Day, according to an announcement by artistic director, Marigold Charlesworth.

Mr. Day was guest director for University of Victoria's Renaissance Festival last summer, staging the production of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night.

It is not stated which plays Mr. Day will direct but five of the season's six plays are Turgenev's A Month in the Country, William Pratt's Ten Nights in a Bar-room (which later will tour Western Canada), Ben Johnson's The Alchemist, Brendan Behan's The Quare Fellow, and Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan.

LOOKING AROUND AT ART

By ROBIN SKELTON

Jury Shows No Place for Casual Amateur Painters

Last time I suggested that the selection and judging of the works in the Jury Show currently displayed at Victoria Art Gallery had led to the creation of an exhibition which failed to represent our Island painters fairly.

This criticism leads me to question the philosophy behind such jury shows. Are they intended to provide a "random sample" of the work being created in a given area, regardless of quality?

Skelton

Are they intended primarily to provide exhibition facilities for artists of the second rank and those talented amateurs who might not otherwise get a showing in their community?

Or are they intended to display the best work created in the community, regardless of the professional or amateur status of the artists concerned?

It is my view that this last description is the one which should be accepted as correct. It seems to me, however, that the jury for the present show accepted the first of these three viewpoints.

Otherwise it is impossible to understand why E. M. Young's Where the Cat Goes, with its clumsy fantasy, poor composition and drawing, and pseudo-primitivism should have been given a place on the walls.

It is equally impossible to see why J. Thomson's Owl with its artsy-crafty frame, its haphazard blobbiness, and its total lack of composition, and why Veronica Wiper's clumsily whimsical and weirdly Victorian untitled watercolor, were selected at all.

I can, by exercising my superhuman capacities for charity, just manage to understand why there are so many totally undistinguished watercolors of hackneyed subjects. Some of these are technically adequate.

Those by Brian Travers Smith are, technically, extremely well done, though I can almost never understand why he bothers to make them; his subjects are obvious, and his technical expertise often merely serves to emphasize the banality of his vision.

Someone with his remarkable control of the watercolor medium should accept the responsibilities attendant upon abilities and attempt something more imaginative than a gently traditional re-creation of a highway at dusk or Steelhead Water.

Has he anything to say but platitudes?

I like to think that the answer to this question is "yes," but I have little evidence for my faith.

The same question might well be asked of many other painters represented in this show, and be asked with the same feeling of weary suspicion.

Occasionally, however, some of the less expert works reveal a real personal conviction and attitude. P. M. Luchinsky's small aquatint, East of Suez, is no masterpiece, but it does have real feeling.

Mrs. Luchinsky's work has made considerable progress over the last few years, and it seems to me that it is beginning to go places. From being a painter of competently tasteful landscapes she is becoming a painter in search of her own vision. She has a long way to go, but she is, at least, attempting the journey.

Joe Kennedy is also, clearly, searching for his own vision. His untitled painting number 1 may not quite deserve the Honorable Mention it has received, but it does display real feeling for composition and tone, and has a quality of drama that impresses me with its boldness.

Molly Privetts painting, entitled (inscrutably) The Little Dog Goes for Her Morning Walk also has dramatic feeling and qualities of personal vision that place it among the few really worthwhile works in the show.

It is for such artists as these that the jury show performs a valuable service. They are painting because they are exploring, not because they are bored with carpentry or knitting, and the results of their explorations deserve and demand our attention and respect.

Other works which I found impressive are John Doberеiner's vivid (if somewhat too slapdash) High Steel Erection and his collagraph, Intruding Form. These works are both vital with personality, and full of zest and challenge.

P. K. Irwin's Drawing on Bark Paper makes superb use of texture and rhythm in a highly individual manner and is more than pleasing.

Bruce Davies' two drawings are powerfully adept, though not, perhaps, enormously profound.

Ralph Hall's Growth is effective and beautifully contrived, though marred somewhat by the placing of the artist's signature.

Edith Jones's Morning Mist is perhaps the most beautiful work in the show; delicate and disciplined at once, it is thoroughly satisfactory.

These are the people who justify the existence of the jury show; their works, and those by Siebner, Harvey, Rhode, Maxwell Bates (superb as always) Brookman, and Burrell, make it worth a visit.

The remainder serve only to remind me that an art is an art and a hobby is a hobby, and never the twain shall meet.

SOMETHING TO HIDE, by Nicholas Monsarrat. Longmans, Canada, $3.50.

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

Shelley once described man's life as "a fevered dream of stagnant woe." Were he alive today he would see that "fevered dream" captured again and again by modern novelists seeking to depict the life of our time.

Now Nicholas Monsarrat, well known for his The Cruel Sea and The Tribe That Lost Its Head, as well as his many other works, has attempted in his newest novel, Something to Hide, to add his detailed perception of the anti-hero to the growing nightmarish vision of contemporary characters and events. It constitutes the fourth volume in the sequence he has entitled Signs of the Times.

Monsarrat fans will not be disappointed in this one. The narrative proceeds at a brisk pace, and if the suspense is not as well maintained as in many of his novels, the weakness is the fault of the mean, cowardly characters who hold the centre of the plot. Lives such as theirs produce only misery leading to disaster.

●

Something to Hide reads like a mystery novel concealing a crime. But the only crime concealed by Monsarrat's anti-hero, Jack Carter, is the crime of his own cowardice, his own inadequacy. The birth, the death, the medical aid that he tries to conceal from the authorities are not crimes in themselves, but only in their concealment.

Guilt breeds further lies and deceit, until the whole monstrous growth become impossible to conceal. The macabre ending terminates Carter's personal "fevered dream of stagnant woe," and leaves the reader of Something to Hide with a distinct impression of the ironic injustice often perpetrated by the law.

Shaw's Early Works Fumbling Efforts

THE UNREPENTANT PILGRIM by J. Percy Smith. Macmillan of Canada. $6.25.

Reviewed by John Hanley
Dept. of English,
University of Victoria

A writer who wields as much power as Shaw did in his heyday achieves a control over his past denied to less successful people. The early mistakes and frustrations tend to become swallowed up in the glamour of the established reputation.

The first three chapters of Professor Smith's book are particularly valuable in documenting Shaw's lengthy and frequently fumbling apprenticeship.

To complement his study of Shaw's early life, his novels, and his first attempts at reviewing and art criticism he makes good use of the now released Shaw papers in the British Museum.

It seems clear that the shallowness of his early novels was largely due to the emotional deprivations of his childhood, which made him withdraw from and distrust human contacts.

His music criticism, by contrast, was brilliant almost from the beginning, and Professor Smith suggests convincingly that the reason is again to be found in his childhood.

His mother retreated from an unhappy marriage into an absorption in music and transmitted to her son, if not affection, at least a passion for the art.

The author is less concerned with Shaw's plays than with the growth of his ideas, which he sees as an "evolution" in three phases — from "Critic" to "Socialist" to "Believer" — each succeeding phase being more comprehensive and fulfilling than its predecessor.

Professor Smith is using "evolution" in the Shavian sense of "spiritual progress," for he sees Shaw's development as nothing less than an ever-deepening religious conversion.

Accordingly we are shown Shaw passing from the isolated brilliance of his music criticism to a larger view of society inspired by Marx and tempered by the Fabians.

His entry into the third phase of Creative Evolution is, according to Smith, difficult to date, although he connects it with Shaw's increasing concern with socialism.

The connection may well be that Shaw transformed Marx's materialist "logic of history" into the World Spirit or Life Force shaping matter to its own enlightened purposes.

The book is rounded off with two particularly interesting chapters on Shaw's view of the theatre as "a factory of thought . . . a temple of the Ascent of Man," and on his criticism of Shakespeare.

Smith points out how closely Shaw's views on these subjects are related to his evolutionary religion.

The theatre for Shaw is not a place of entertainment, but a "weekday church" where the Life Force touches the assembled audience.

His most serious criticism of Shakespeare, which has tended to be eclipsed by his more notorious boasting, is that Shakespeare simply accepts man as he is and unlike Bunyan (Shaw's favorite writer) has no conception of a higher, evolving type of humanity.

Although I remain unconvinced that Shaw's development represents a spiritual evolution, I found Professor Smith's book a clear and well documented guide to Shaw's mental history.

They Made Fortunes

THE BEGINNERS, by Dan Jacobson (Macmillan). This sprawling novel concerns mostly the Glickman family of South Africa: Meyer and Benjamin, who make fortunes, and their children who go through the agony and ecstasy of growing up, going to college, experimenting with love, and scattering to England and Israel to work out their own destinies.

Jacobson presents in this deeply probing story the private lives of a warmly devoted Jewish family and the diversity of its reactions to the attraction of Zionism and the counter-attractions of the outside world.

Unhappy Fight Of Britain, Ireland Probed

THE RED AND THE GREEN, by Iris Murdoch. Clarke Irwin & Co. Ltd. $6.
Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

The ugly, unhappy struggle between Britain and Ireland is, in Iris Murdoch's new novel, The Red and the Green, reduced to an examination of the few weeks preceding and during the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

To add emphasis to the ugliness, the unnaturalness of the conflict, Miss Murdoch has selected as the centre of her story the impact of the event upon an Anglo-Irish family, united by blood, but divided by loyalty and religion.

The two tortured heroes of the story are in many ways the personification of the two tormented nations. Pat Dumay, the Irish patriot, is opposed by his cousin, Andrew Chase-White, not only in his political views, but in his love for Frances Bellman.

Both heroes spend much time in soul-searching and debate. Pat Dumay, the stronger, is the more violent and the more sure, the more insistent upon his right to be a martyr.

However, it is in Andrew Chase-White, Protestant and half English, that the struggle becomes fully apparent.

As an officer in the British army, Andrew finds everywhere in Ireland a challenge to his loyalty, a disregard or disrespect for the uniform he is wearing.

His love of Ireland and the ties of family leave him indecisive, unable to act with force and vigor. Finally, his failure results in the death of his cousin, Pat. Indeed, his failure is the failure of the British to act effectively in the face of the threat posed by the Irish.

The Red and the Green is neither pleasant nor easy reading.

It possesses the strange attraction of a Greek tragedy; the characters move forward to their destruction with a fatalistic single-mindedness.

Their sacrifice is not in vain, for Ireland gains its independence; but the irony remains, for Ireland also becomes an economic and spiritual backwash, a land virtually without hope or purpose.

Award Announced

Winner of the Governor-General's award for poetry is Alfred Purdy, according to a recent announcement.

The award was made for his book, The Cariboo Horses, published last year by McClelland and Stewart.

Full of people, geography and history, these poems are almost epic in effect. Purdy's poetic language is powerful, his subject matter unusual.

LONDON TALES OFTEN SHOCK

SELECTIONS FROM "LONDON LABOUR AND THE LONDON POOR," by Henry Mayhew, ed., John L. Bradley; Oxford University Press; $1.95.

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

This little volume of sketches has been selected from the original edition of Henry Mayhew's London Labour and the London Poor which appeared in four volumes in 1861-62.

In writing this work, Mayhew borrowed from his experience as a newspaper reporter and dramatist. His sketches, consequently, are starkly factual in their descriptions and vividly alive in their presentation of character.

Assembled here are the coster-lads, the flower girls, the prostitutes and the mud-larks of mid-nineteenth century London. A modern reader finds them amusing, interesting, and frequently shocking. Both their living conditions and their morals appear today to be not only appalling, but impossible.

●

Charles Kingsley used Mayhew's articles as one of the sources for Alton Locke, his novel designed to expose and reform the conditions of the workers in the factories of the time.

Modern readers will find this edition of Mayhew's London Labour both interesting and enlightening.

However, no one who reads this work can ever honestly express a wish for a return to the good old days.

Penchant for History

LUCY, by Hester W. Chapman. Clarke, Irwin and Co. $6.00.

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

Hester W. Chapman has written a number of novels such as Eugenie and I Will Be Good. She has also written biographies of the Duke of Buckingham, Lady Jane Grey, and Mary II, as well as many others. It is obvious that she has a penchant for history and biography, particularly of the period from 1688 to 1714, the years of the last Stuart sovereigns in England.

In Lucy, Hester Chapman again fixes her attention on this period.

Perhaps because the plot is rather a threadbare one, concerned chiefly with the rise of Lucy Browne, actress, from rags to fame and riches, Miss Chapman tends to ignore details of characterization and plot in her preoccupation with the problems that plagued the Restoration Theatre.

For those who are fascinated by the rivalries between the playwrights, managers and actors of the various companies of the time, and for those concerned with the position of the actor in the eyes of the law and of society in the years following 1688, Lucy will prove a source of much valuable information.

The efforts of certain managers to revive Shakespeare in the face of an overwhelming preference on the part of both the court and the public for the dramas of Dryden and his less competent contemporaries are given in much detail.

Miss Chapman seems to have accumulated the materials for a history of the Restoration Stage and then decided at the last moment to convert these into fiction.

The result is a novel that might be rated as less than successful. The interesting figures that constitute the background of the action, Charles II and his actress-bedfellow, Nell Gwynne, the Dukes of Monmouth, York and Buckingham, are all present, but only as shadows, so indistinct as to possess little vitality or interest.

Many heroines of fiction have held out far less promise than Lucy and have proven themselves to be far more fascinating, even when forced to carry on in an environment less filled with possibilities than the Restoration.

Exciting History Of U.S. Destiny

THRUST AND COUNTER-THRUST, by H. George Classen. Longmans Canada Ltd., 386 pages. $7.50.

This is a book that will interest the residents of British Columbia. More than half of its pages are devoted to the exciting history of the U.S.-Canadian involvement in the Oregon Territory and the Alaska border.

The Americans still win and the boundaries remain as they stand; but determined hearts can thrill at the hope that the northwest corner of British Columbia might gain access to salt water as the Grand Pacific Glacier melts and the sea rushes toward the province!

The history of the U.S.-Canadian boundaries has long been fascinating to students of the two countries.

British North America and then Canada always found themselves to be considered sacrificial lambs in negotiations between an imperial Britain and a grasping United States. Britain usually made decisions that would favor the Americans rather than risk conflict. The two governments always did it in a most gentlemanly way; although the people along the border often tended to be more aggressive.

The border problems of the Pacific are more dramatic than the determination of the boundary from the Atlantic to the Rockies.

But the settlement of the border in the east, if not dramatic, was still hard work. The author spares us no detail of this work and the reader can appreciate the difficulties facing the governments and their surveying parties.

It is a fascinating account marred occasionally by typographical errors. The most glaring is the one establishing the Hudson's Bay Company in 1607 (1670).

UBC Expansion

Increasing support of private donors and the administration of University of British Columbia, will enable the UBC library to achieve the expansion in 10 years that might have taken 25 years, says librarian Basil Stuart-Stubbs.

He predicts that the present 700,000 volume UBC collection will treble in size within a decade to 2,000,000 volumes.

NO POKER CHEATERS IN GOOD OLD DAYS?

ASHCROFT (CP) — Fernand Theberge, 42, and James Anderson, 33, were acquitted here Friday on a charge of cheating at poker. Court was told the men were involved in a game in which five businessmen lost $9,000.

Crown prosecutor P. D. Dohm of Kamloops said the case was so rare there was very little law to guide decisions by the court.

"Legal records in B.C. go back as far as 1857 but I couldn't find one cheating-at-poker case on file," he said.

The only other known case was in Revelstoke last October when two men were found guilty.

It's a Paradise For 'Car Nuts'

Esquimalt Sports Centre is a car nut's paradise.

The ninth annual exhibit of custom cars, hot rods and dragsters, presented by Victoria's Quarter Milers car club, has brought more than $250,000 worth of precision equipment under one roof.

The show closes tonight and with 50 per cent hike in exhibits over last year, is expected to draw well over the 5,000 viewers who turned out last year.

Autorama 66 entries represent a hobby carried to the limit of patience and precision. Although some of the models have parts dating back 50 years, their custom tailoring makes the average new car just off the assembly line look like a lumber wagon.

Featured among the 47 car are two American jobs, a corvette owned by "Boots" Olson of Seattle, Wash., who has invested $15,000 installing such extras as a TV, stereo set and telephone, not to mention peacock feathers as part of the upholstery.

A 1915 model T Ford roadster pickup, called "Novel T" and owned by Dick Knutson of Eugene, Ore., has had $10,000 spent on it.

Other cars feature such extras as back seat bars, complete with cut glass decanters, door-to-door broadloom in brilliant hues and leather upholstry fit for a throne.

Common among the better-manicured vehicles are "candy" paint finishes, a process which involves applying up to 60 coats of lacquer with plenty of elbow grease for hand-rubbing in between.

Hottest car on display is a dragster owned by Larry Whitman of Victoria, a low-slung red torpedo designed for acceleration racing over a quarter-mile track.

While the car has just been completed and performance statistics have yet to be compiled, similar cars top 200 miles an hour within a quarter-mile and accelerate so rapidly they put gravitional force on their drivers similar to those astronauts are subjected to while rocketing into space orbit.

About $1,000 worth of trophies will be presented for winning cars in a variety of classes tonight.

After playing for 50 years without seeing a perfect cribbage hand, J. McVie, 127 Menzies, saw one Friday.

Apartments Filling In Victoria

The occupancy rate for newly built apartments and row houses in Victoria is improving.

A year ago there were 176 empty units in the city and by March of this year the rate had dropped to 55.

Furthermore, there were no new empty units in Central Saanich, Esquimalt, Langford-View Royal, North Saanich, Oak Bay, Sidney and on Indian reserves.

Saanich had only three for an area total in March of 58 units.

Statistics are contained in a report on housing in B.C. by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

GOOD MONTH

During March there were 97 dwelling units commenced in the metropolitan Victoria area, 41 more than in the same month last year, when there were 1,610 for the 12 months.

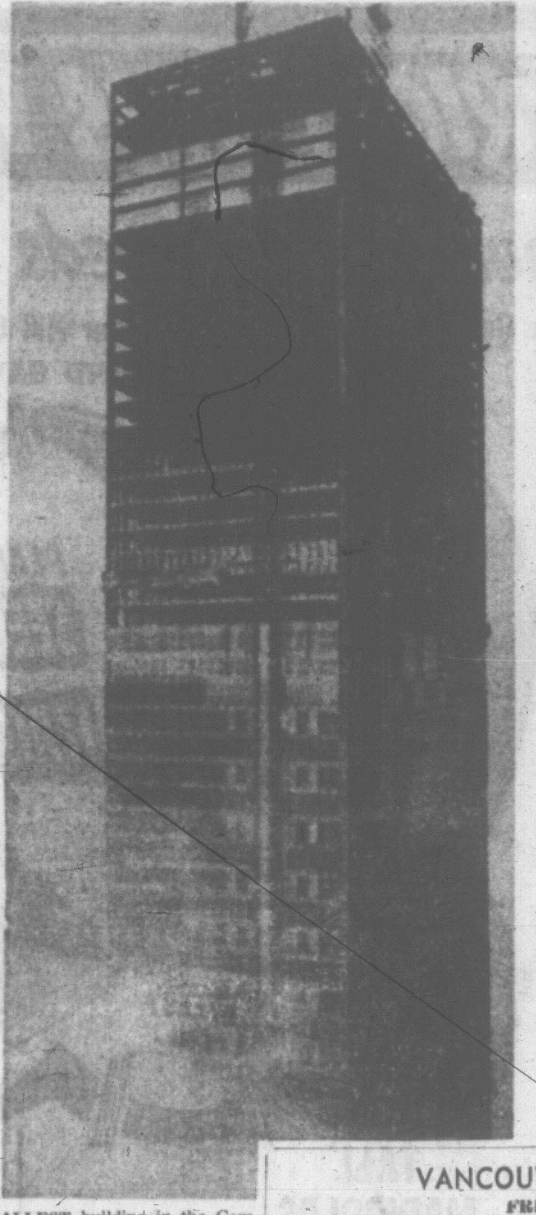
Since the start of the year, 494 new dwelling units have been commenced, 259 completed, and by the end of March a total of 1,330 were under construction in Greater Victoria.

The figures include houses, duplexes, row and apartment units.

Provincially, there were 1,408 housing starts in March, an increase of 27 per cent over the 1,106 recorded a year ago, making starts for the first quarter 10 per cent ahead of the same period of 1965.

Single family dwellings were up 27 per cent and multiple units went down 2 per cent.

National Housing Act financing in the first quarter more than doubled in 1,462 dwelling units, mostly for rental, virtually all by direct corporation loans.



TALLEST building in the Commonwealth, the Toronto-Dominion Centre in downtown Toronto rises out of the early morning mist like a castle in the air.

SHELL SHOWS PROGRESS

TORONTO (CP)—Shell Canada Ltd. had net earnings of $10,189,000 or 31 cents a share in the first quarter of this year compared with $7,717,000 or 23 cents in the corresponding period of last year, the annual meeting was told Friday.

Paul L. Kartzke, president, said the increase in earnings resulted from higher sales of crude oil and improved gasoline prices.

Car-maker Admits Defects

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. disclosed Friday that thousands of the 1966 Oldsmobile Tornados and the 1964 Cadillacs had defects, but that most of the cars involved had been repaired.

The automaker said the wheel nuts on some Tornados had been tightened in a manner where a lug could break off. The Cadillacs suffered from a faulty hood latch which could allow the hood to blow open.

A Cadillac spokesman said about 23,000 cars had the faulty latch installed before it was discovered, but added that about 95 per cent of the latches were replaced by dealers.

Oldsmobile said a few thousand of its cars were called back to the dealers for correction of the over-tight nuts, but insisted no safety hazard was involved.

The lug nuts are those which hold the wheel to the hub, and which must be removed when a motorist changes a tire.

AIR CANADA INAUGURAL FLIGHT

Mayor Leads Victorians to Europe

Mayor A. W. Toone will lead a select party of Greater Victorians on an inaugural nonstop air service from Vancouver to London beginning Saturday.

About 65 persons from the Pacific Northweat are invited by Air Canada to initiate the Western Arrow service that will fly over the polar-region's great circle route.

Air Canada becomes the fourth major scheduled carrier to fly the short route, the second to land in London. Pan American Air Lines now flies from the western U.S. seaboard to the British capital, while Scandinavian Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Air Lines fly to continental Europe.

The 10 Victoria people and others from the mainland will be guests of Air Canada in England for five days.

Most return to Vancouver Friday.

Some, through private arrangements at their own expense, will stay longer in order to holiday in Europe.

Flying time on the new route is less than nine hours, compared with about 11 by the transcontinental route.

Others from the Victoria area will be deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, Times associate editor Arthur Stott, Colonist associate editor Harry Young, CHEK-TV hostess Ida Clarkson, Empress Hotel manager Le Parkinson.

Paulin travel agent John Boyle, Totem travel agent William Ferguson, Featherstone travel agent A. R. Nicholson, and Arthur Whittingham, of Traveleyden Tours.

Mayors of Vancouver, North Vancouver, New Westminster, Seattle and Tacoma; reeves of West Vancouver, North Vancouver district, Burnaby and Richmond; University of B.C. president John B. Macdonald, and B.C. Lions football manager are others taking the flight.

DESIGNED MONTHLY INCOME IN RETIREMENT

is not always easily arranged, as dividends or interest on investments often fail to tie in well with the monthly style of budget to which the retired man accustomed himself during the working years.

To meet this need, Victoria Mortgage Corporation will mail a monthly cheque applying on any investent of $10,000 or over, or any AMOUNT YOU SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

Some of our retired clients are expressing their real desire to spend some of the capital of their retirement fund along with their earnings, rather than have it all left in their estate.

If this, too, is your feeling, perhaps you will find the following table interesting:

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month; $10,000 at monthly payments of $69 including 7½% interest would take 30 years to spend; $73 month—25 years; $80 month—20 years; $89 month—16 years; $100 month—13 years; $118 month—10 years; $138 month—8 years; $153 month—7 years; $200 month—5 years.

Terms of all 7½% Victoria Mortgage Debentures provide that the unused portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or earlier in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture.

To have prospectus mailed, phone Douglas Hawkes Ltd., EV 4-7128, 817 Fort.

Corporate Merger Largest in History

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — A new era in the history of U.S. railways dawned this week with Interstate Commerce Commission approval of the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads.

The combination was the largest corporate merger in history and it will create the world's largest privately owned railway system.

It will mean, say the heads of the two rail systems, improved passenger and freight service and possibly lower rates and fares.

The marriage of the Central and the Pennsy has been nine years in the making. It was proposed by the late Robert Young, chairman of the Central, in 1957.

The merger, effective in June, will create a system with assets of more than $4,100,000,000 and 40,912 miles of track. It will have 4,506 locomotives, 205,224 freight cars and 5,717 passenger cars.

SEE BIG SAVINGS

Officials of the two lines have estimated that annual savings in operations of $80,000,000 can be effected within five years.

The combined system—to be known as the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co.—will link 14 states, the District of Columbia, Montreal and portions of southern Ontario.

The ICC directed that the Penn-Central assume operation of the freight and passenger service of the bankrupt New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad through 1966. Executives of the Pennsy and the Central said they saw no difficulties in doing so.

At the same time that it approved the Penn-Central merger, the ICC rejected a proposal to merge the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quicy railroads.

AVOID TAX BOOST

Discussion of a possible U.S. income tax increase continued. Gardner Ackley, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers, was fairly optimistic that a boost could be avoided, barring an increase in defence spending.

A key business barometer, the demand for machine tools, is strong and gaining steadily, the National Machine Tool Builders' Association reported.

The total of net new orders for machine tools of all types in March was valued at $184,300,000, compared with $165,950,000 in February.

Retail store sales last week totalled $5,639,000,000, the census bureau estimated, up one per cent from the previous week and up seven per cent from a year earlier.

$9 Million Deal Approved

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of Turnbull Elevators Ltd. approved a $9,000,000 deal Friday to sell most of the company's assets to Dover Corp. of New York.

The sale includes all Turnbull's elevator operations except the Atlanta, Ga., hydraulic elevator business.

There was some vocal opposition to the deal, but the loudest talkers held little stock. A motion to adjourn the meeting was defeated by 413,000 votes to 2,853.

President M. O. Simpson Jr., told shareholders that the company had suffered a substantial loss in the year ended Aug. 31, 1965, and was still losing money at the end of December.

Loss for the year ended Aug. 31, 1965, was $734,333 compared with a gain of $729,717 in 1964.

ONE MAN'S VIEW!
by John M. Molyard
"Twould appear to me, Real Estate values have never been better in the Greater Victoria area and also on the Island as a whole. This trend would seem to have come from our booming economy in B.C. and many outsiders are finally realizing that our B.C. is one of the finest spots in Canada to live. Prices as a whole are lower here than elsewhere in Canada. That, added to our lovely climate, will no doubt keep your values well up. Keep this in mind.
I have a continuing NEED of listings in all price ranges, both here and on the islands. If you intend to sell or are inclined to purchase, why not keep me in mind. Instant, well-qualified advice is yours for the asking. Dial 385-6741 anytime.

Port Facilities Rapped

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKAND (CP) — The Canadian port of Vancouver doesn't rate high marks for port passenger facilities in the view of a New Zealand information officer who has been touring major Pacific ports to study what services are provided.

Joan Tuck, senior member of the Auckland port public relations staff, reported she considers the Auckland terminal, which has extensive facilities for passengers immediately they step ashore from their liner, superior to all similar facilities she saw, except for a new ocean terminal at Hong Kong.

The Auckland terminal provides post office, banking, cafeteria, tourist travel booking, souvenir, information, accommodation and shopping facilities on the pier where passengers land.

Miss Tuck's comments on other major port facilities in the Paicific were:

Vancouver—Shocking. No information booth, but only three or four women huddled around a table handing out shopping guides inside a cold wharf building.

Honolulu — Hawaiian girls at the information booth are pleasant, but the booth is hard to find. No visitors' guides or pamphlets.

San Francisco — Afsolutely nothing. No terminal.

Sydney, N.S.W.—Transit passengers and disembarking passengers get off the ship on the customs floor, causing confusion. No information booth.

Los Angeles—A small booth distributing pamphlets telling visitors about the new port but could find no information services. No guides to the city.

Yokohama—A large shopping arcade in the terminal and an information bureau staffed by English - speaking Japanese girls. But all tourist brochures and pamphlets printed in Japanese.

Kobe, Japan—No information services. Shopping stalls in the open on the wharf.

The Hong Kong ocean terminal will, in Miss Tuck's opinion, be the star of Pacific port terminals. Provision is made for three floors of shops, a licensed restaurant, and dental and medical clinics.

Restrictions Hinted For Sawmills

PENTICTON (CP) — Lands and Forests Minister Williston said Friday licensing of sawmills based on performance may be in the offing in British Columbia.

In an address to the Interior Lumber Manufacturers Association annual convention here, Mr. Williston said he is "absolutely scared to death" over the prospect of a multiplicity of smal lmills specializing in small woods because "they will eat themselves out of house and home."

"I might have to make some very serious decisions," he said, about the restriction of sawmill licensing.

He said B.C. has not "even started" to get complete utilization of wood.

"Our ultimate goal is complete utilization of all our wood resources on a sustained yield basis.

INDUSTRIALS DOWN—The value of industrial stocks on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges declined this week. At Friday's close the industrial index in Toronto stood at 168.91, compared with 170.12 a week ago. At Montreal the decline was only slight, to 168.52 from 168.68. (CP Wirephoto.)

Some Relief Seen For Expanding Firms

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says companies committed to expansion before the federal budget came down March 29 can expect some relief from the five-per-cent refundable tax on earnings and capital cost allowances.

The newspaper says there is also a possibility of a modification of budget restraints on employee stock options.

It says the finance department has received a steady stream of complaints from business executives and advisers, mostly directed at the hardship effect of the refundable tax and restraint on company incentive programs that will result from stock option changes.

"When the budget resolutions come up for debate in the House in about two weeks. Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp probably will announce some means by which genuine hardship resulting from the refundable tax can be lessened," the newspaper says.

"The most probable solution appears to be to give the minister of revenue discretionary power to reduce the refundable tax payable by companies that were committed to major expansion when the budget was brought down. . . ."

The newspaper says this discretionary power could also apply to companies such as auto-leasing firms that must continue substantial annual investments if they are to stay in business.

J. V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel Ltd., told shareholders this week that the refundable tax on corporate cash flow which is intended to slow expansion creates some instances of hardship that should be avoided, if possible.

"In our case, we are already committed to a capital expenditure this year of $108,000,000," Mr. Clyne said. "We cannot, as one example, call off our Powell River project as it would involve breaking existing contracts. . . ."

$1 Million To Treasury

Nearly $1 million goes into the provincial treasury as a result of the first crown sale of oil and natural gas rights in the current fiscal year.

Twenty-eight oil companies acting singly or in partnership bid $997,949.54 for rights and rental of 47 parcels of land in northeastern British Columbia.

Of the total, $960,414.94 was paid in the form of bonuses for rights to develop the 111,907 acres, the remainder being in fees and rentals.

A newcomer to the petroleum field in B.C., J. M. Huber Corp. and Amarillo Oil Company acting as partners, paid the highest price at $202 per acre for a 175-acre parcel.

The parcel is located about 35 miles northeast of Fort St. John, a few miles south of what is known as the Peejay oilfield.

The land for which bids were taken is divided into 38 lease blocks covering 12,963 acres, seven drilling reservations consisting of 62,684 acres, and 36,260 acres in the form of a permit.

Lease acreage sold for $534,611, the drilling reservations for $390,517, and the permit for $35,286.

Firm Fires 257 Workers For Walkout

BURNABY (CP) — Lenkurt Electric Co. of Canada Ltd., Canada's largest manufacturer of telecommunications equipment, was working at only half efficiency Friday after the firing of 257 employees who ignored a company order to return to work.

Bill Clements, Lenkurt's industrial relations officer, estimated the big plant had a 50 per cent slowdown in production following a dispute over overtime work.

He said the company plans to advertise this weekend to fill the vacancies left by the dismissals. The action cut the work force from 800 to 543 employees, many of these office workers.

Most of the workers walked off their jobs at 10 a.m. Tuesday when the company asked men to work overtime, said Jess Succamore, spokesman for the men. More followed Wednesday and Thursday.

He said the company had agreed there was to be no more overtime until new contract negotiations are complete.

The company said it sent personal telegrams to the men asking them to report to their next designated shift.

When the order was ignored, the men were dismissed, said company president Charles Hunter.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding men. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Monday and Tuesday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Monday and Tuesday, May 2 and 3.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist John Arthur to conduct the Victoria clinic. J. Arthur will personally examine hair - worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the Hotel Sussex.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Arthur," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-all

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists do extension work in more than 10 other cities.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it.

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today.

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Arthur in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

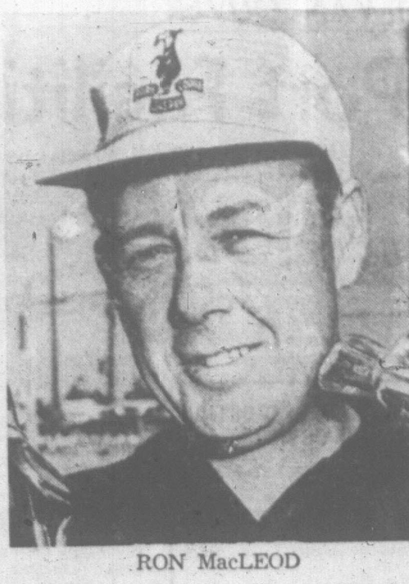
For a free examination and discussion of your hair problem ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex, Monday or Tuesday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m., for Mr. Arthur's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

MACLEOD MEETS SUTCLIFFE . . . . . . IN TIMES OPEN FINAL SUNDAY

Champ Respects Rival and Course

LEX SUTCLIFFE



RON MacLEOD

Ron MacLeod has the credentials . . .

Lex Sutcliffe has acquired a giant-killing habit . . .

And Victoria Golf Club has something of a "new look" . . .

MacLeod and Sutcliffe are the finalists and the Oak Bay course will provide the setting when the 1966 Times Island Open golf championship is decided Sunday over a 36-hole playoff.

MacLeod, 36, is the defending champion, the professional, and the favorite to become the first golfer to claim The Daily Times Trophy for a third time.

Sutcliffe, 44, is the amateur bidding for his first major golf crown.

How they fare could well depend on who can best solve the capricious winds and the new length of the Oak Bay course.

The playoff gets under way with 18-hole rounds starting at 9:30 and 1:30, following, by 15 minutes, the Island's match-play handicap final between Reg Clarkson of Gorge Vale and Oak Bay southpaw Cliff Horwood.

The defender's role and the fact that he is appearing in his sixth final install MacLeod as the favorite. Not to be overlooked is the fact that the Jasper Park Lodge pro calls Oak Bay "home" during the winter months.

Caution appears to give MacLeod another plus mark.

"Just because they don't know Lex, a lot of people are ready to concede me the match. I have news for them . . . Lex is a capable golfer. He has a tough attitude as well as a sound game," MacLeod said.

With extra yardage added to the fifth, 11th, 16th and 18th holes, Oak Bay's par recently jumped to 70 from 69.

"That extra length will make it interesting," said MacLeod. "You have to change your thinking on some of those holes.

"Take the 18th. Off the front or middle of the tees, I generally manage to carry the bunkers that line the left side of the fairway. Off the back tee, it's different. You have to put a great deal of thought into the shot rather than just step up and flail away."

Adding extra interest to the final is the fact that the winner will meet the Vancouver City Open champion in a special B.C. challenge match. Both Sutcliffe and MacLeod have agreed, whoever wins, that they would meet the mainland match-play champion at Vancouver's Shaugnessy course on May 8.

The Vancouver champion also will be decided Sunday in a 36-hole medal playoff between amateurs Don Gardner of Capilano and Johnny Russell of Point Grey. Gardner is the defending champion.

Fans are reminded that there is no admission charge to watch Sunday's final.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

There are nineteen zillion people who play golf on this planet and about 100 golfers. In the minds of the former there is the conviction that on a given day they can drive like Nicklaus, gamble like Palmer, putt like Casper.

It's the same in many things. The Beatles believe they can sing. Marilyn Monroe thought she could act. Chas. O. Finley is under the illusion his Kansas City Athletics can play baseball.

Even the flowers of journalism cannot escape the disease. For years y'r operator has been convinced that he can bowl like hell.

The other day, Roy Begg, the sultan of Aurora Lanes, watched this overstuffed author confront tenpins. Mr. Begg appraised the style—arms flapping, jerky approach, et al—and covered his eyes.

"You," he said, "bowl like hell."

Every so often, however, somebody emerges from the cocoon of anonymity and knocks the champion into the middle of next Tuesday.

David, the slingshot slinger, originated the form reversal game. Alexis Sutcliffe aspires to add his footnote to history.

Sutcliffe is scheduled Sunday to go 36 holes or less with Ron MacLeod at Victoria Golf Club. The winner, if a pro, will collect 100 green ones and a blazer in the Times Island Open. The loser will get the usual award. Candolences.

Lex Unhorsed Near Starting Stall

On the face of it, Sutcliffe does not seem a good bet, even with counterfeit money. He is an amateur who gets in a round "almost every Sunday," plus nine holes "now and then."

He will be playing in MacLeod's backyard against a competitor who hits little balls for a living. On anybody's course, MacLeod is 6 to 5 not to drop dead. At Oak Bay his knowledge of the real estate should be worth a few strokes to his confidence before they leave the clubhouse.

Both have played in this classic several times. MacLeod has reached the final six times and won it twice. To catch Sutcliffe in previous Opens, you had to be quick. Frequently a qualifier, he was usually unhorsed after the early ("very early") rounds.

Luck if a partner along the way to the final but other considerations are necessary. Like skill. Or drinking the right elixir.

"I haven't changed my game too much," Sutcliffe was saying. "About 14 months ago I thought it was time to analyze myself. I would shoot a good round, then a bad one.

"I've never had a lesson. I always thought you needed 12 or 15 to do you good and I had other ways to spend money.

"I'm not a guy who buys golf books by the gross. I have one book, Ben Hogan's 'Par Golf.'

Not a Lover of 'Rock 'n' Roll' . . .

"Why Hogan? Physically we're about the same. It would not have helped me to buy a Nicklaus' book or one by Palmer. I'm not a blaster. I didn't read it all. Mostly I studied the illustrations—they're excellent—and then took a couple of clubs to the backyard and tried to figure out what I was doing wrong."

Sutcliffe's woes were similar to those of athletes who played baseball and softball. They swung their shillelaghs as if they meant to hit the ball out of sight.

"I would often hit the ball with the heel or the tip of the club and still get distance," Sutcliffe says. "I never knew what I was doing wrong. If I hit it poorly I still didn't know what I was doing wrong.

"Finally I realized I was rocking and rolling. I concentrated on my left foot, tried to work backwards almost, until my weight was distributed evenly. I lost distance but it's coming back. And I'm not spraying."

Unburdened by advice, written or oral, Sutcliffe amended a few other habits.

"I used to grip the club until my knuckles showed white. You do that and everything tightens. Your hips lock. I talked to Bob Fleming and he said you should hold a club as if you were shaking hands with a woman. You don't want to crush every finger in her hand, he said; you want to hold it firmly. Made sense.

He Doesn't Like Waving at Buses

"I don't try to think of 47 things. Just a few . . . my right elbow, taking the club back, balance. I always could putt a little. That's the game.

"Some golfers ask, 'What do you do at the top of the backswing?' I don't know. I don't look around and try to flag a bus. I swing at the ball. But that first foot and a half I take the club back is all important. If I start right, instinctively I should finish right."

Did he feel he could duplicate David's derring-do and put the slack in MacLeod's sails?

He measured his words.

"I've got a long way to go. I've never played before people. I don't know how I'll react. I may play better because I don't want him to murder me. I know I won't be overconfident. You can be 10 up with 11 to play and still lose."

Twenty years ago Alexix Sutcliffe pitched for a Vancouver high school baseball team. His fast ball had a particular acceleration which did little for the ease of mind of anybody who tried to hit it.

Had he stayed one more year, a scholarship to a U.S. college was assured. But he wasn't told, the teachers preferring to have him return for studies alone, and he pulled out and went to work.

Now, maybe, with a little luck, fairway fame is 24 hours away.

Ferrier Ties Rodgers For San Antonio Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Veteran Australian Jim Ferrier was tied with Phil Rodgers for first place as the third round started today in the $80,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

Ferrier caught Rodgers Friday by firing a seven-under-par 64 while the American pro was fashioning a sparkling 65.

Their two-round total of 133 put them one stroke ahead of Tommy Aaron, who toured the 6,715-yard par-71 Oak Hills course in 68 to go with the 66 he shot Thursday.

Both Gene Littler and Larry Mowry, leaders after the first round with 65s, faded.

Littler soared to 70 for a 135 total and a tie for third with Bob Rosburg and Terry Edwards. Mowry went two-over-par Friday and was tied with five others at 137.

ART JONES . . . always dangerous

If They Forget Arthur, Leafs May Find Trouble

Hockey spectators and the people who do the voting for all-star teams may not always give Art Jones full credit for his ability.

But Hal Laycoe, coach of Portland Buckaroos, will sing the praises of his sandy-haired centre as quickly as he would toss a hat on the ice.

Laycoe, who sends his Portland Buckaroos out against Victoria Maple Leafs tonight at Memorial Arena in the first game of the Western Hockey League final, said today he hadn't had much time to think about the best-of-seven series.

"You never know what to think before a series starts," Laycoe said. "But we had good games with Vancouver in the semi-final and I think our club should continue playing well.

"I know that I certainly respect the Victoria club. Some of their players seem to be having their best seasons and the club has excellent balance.

WON ONCE HERE

"We had some great games with Victoria during the season and I feel certain the fans are going to see an exciting series."

Over the season, the Bucks won only one of six games in Victoria and at Portland they won three, tied two and lost one against the Leafs.

Against Vancouver in the semi-finals, Jones was the top point-getter for the Bucks, connecting for six goals and six assists in the seven games.

"Art is always one of our best men," Laycoe said. "He always does something constructive when he has the puck and he seldom makes mistakes.

TWO GREAT YEARS

"He's a tremendous hockey player and when you hear about under-rated players, you have to think of him.

"He just plays well, game in and game out. You hardly know he's on the ice but nobody contributes more to the success of our club.

"Jones has had two great years in a row but they'll probably forget him again in all-star voting."

In his last seven seasons, Jones has scored more than 30 goals six times. He had 90 points last season and this time he collected 102 to finish second in the league scoring race behind teammate Cliff Schmautz.

LEAFS CONFIDENT

Of course, Jones will be getting plenty of help from his mates against the Leafs. Schmautz, Gerry Goyer and defenceman Connie Madigan are three of the star-studded Portlanders who have been having great seasons and any one of them could emerge as the series star.

Coach Frank Mario's Leafs will have one addition to their ranks tonight in the person of Mike Corrigan, who played with Toronto Marlboro juniors this season. Corrigan will be available for duty either at centre or wing.

The Leafs are confident they can start off with a victory, but they might be well advised not to follow a familiar pattern and overlook Art Jones when firing starts tonight at 8:30.

Lacroix Retains Tilson Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Andre Lacroix, 20-year-old centre for Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has been named winner of the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy for the second successive year.

Bobby Orr, star defenceman for Oshawa Generals, finished a close second in the voting for the most valuable player by sports writers in the nine league cities.

Sports Leaders Criticize Dropping of Floodlights

City sports groups are "disappointed" and "dismayed" at the prospects of being offered a new Royal Athletic Park without floodlights.

Criticism gained momentum today after it was announced that the City of Victoria Friday awarded a $694,419 contract for reconstruction of the new park—but without lighting.

"They're spoiling the ship," declared soccer executive Ron Southern.

"Without lights, a half-million dollar park will be worthless," said baseball executive Gar Taylor.

FARMER'S GET IT

City awarded the main contract for the major Royal Athletic Park renewal program to Farmer's Construction on a low bid of $694,418, providing the company agreed to delete an $84,392 item for floodlighting.

Deletion of floodlights was required because the city was about $61,000 short of the amount needed to meet the lowest tender.

City manager Dennis Young said it is possible "funds could be raised to install the lights before the contract could be completed.

"There is no forecasting just when this money will become available," said Young. "It could be before the contract is completed (in September) and it could be later."

'HINGE ON LIGHTS'

"Or it could be in 10 years," commented Taylor, president of the Victoria Baseball Association and one of the severest critics of the "drop-the-lights" move.

"All of the major amateur sports activities hinge on the lights," said Taylor. "There isn't much that goes on at the park in the afternoons.

"Baseball counts on big attractions, such as tournaments, to raise funds to see it through the year. These can be staged only under lights.

"We don't want a park without lights," he added.

TOURISTS SNUBBED

Southern, president of Victoria United of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, said he was "very disappointed."

"After spending $600,000, I think they are spoiling the ship," Southern continued. "This will reduce the park to purely Saturday and Sunday use.

"It also makes it impossible for us to bring in European touring teams."

Oak Bay high school soccer coach Ernie Costain predicted "the end" of the interhigh night games "which have been an extraordinary success" during the past two years.

"Soccer interest in the high school will die . . ." Costain said.

'MADE CLEAR'

The city manager said there would be no problem of light installation "if we could find the funds now. But it has been made abundantly clear that the funds will not be forthcoming.

"We have some money available in tax-sale lands (about $4,000) and it is just possible that we may have enough to complete the lighting before the contract is finished."

It was pointed out that added to the contractors' $694,418 bid were $132,000 for expropriation and other work and $53,000 for engineering costs.

With the lighting deleted, at least for the time being, the cost of construction will be reduced to $610,026.

An involved discussion preceded the letting of the contract.

R. A. Hall Ltd., had bid $694,450. But the Hall estimate of lighting costs was $88,475 which when deleted left their bid $5,000 lower than Farmer.

Ald. Michael Griffin said it was a practise of long standing in the contracting, engineering and architectural world to consider bids on the base bid only.

Canadians Grab Win Over Finns

From AP-Reuters

HELSINKI (CP) — Canada advanced to the second round of the European zone Davis Cup competition today when Henry Fauquier and Keith Carpenter defeated Reino Suominen and Pekka Saelae of Finland 8-6, 6-8, 6-0, 6-4.

Great Britain, assured of victory, played out its first-round European zone Davis Cup tennis competition today while 14 other nations continued battling for a second-round berth.

The British advanced to the second round by taking a 3-0 advantage over New Zealand Friday. Although there are two singles matches to be played, they will not affect the outcome of the best-of-five series.

West Germany, France, Canada and Poland held 2-0 leads while Italy led Russia 2-1, and Hungary and Greece were deadlocked 1-1, as were Spain and Yugoslavia.

Canada needed only one more victory from today's doubles and the reverse singles Sunday to enter the second round, in which the Canadians will almost certainly play France in Paris.

Harry Fauquier of Toronto, and Mike Belkin of Montreal, victors in the opening day's singles, were expected to play for Canada in the doubles today.

Fauquier downed Finnish champion Pekka Saeilai 3-6, 8-6, 6-3, 6-0 in the opening singles. Belkin beat Rauno Suominen 6-1, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

During the final set, play was held up while police removed two noisy youngsters. Belkin, leading 5-2, lost his concentration and dropped his service. But he took the Finn's delivery in the next game for victory.

4,000-MILE RALLY . . . . . . STARTS TONIGHT

Snow to Test Drivers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Months of planning will be put to the test beginning at 7 p.m. tonight when the first of 60 cars start the 4,000-mile Vancouver-Quebec City car rally.

The 120 drivers and co-drivers hit the treacherous Selkirk and Monashee Mountains in southern British Columbia over-night.

The tiring 18-hour drive between here and Calgary includes one section where the cars will run at top speed in the dead of night. This section is one of eight closed to the public while the rally passes through.

A week of snow and dipping temperatures threatens to make the Prairies the toughest part of the rally. Some rally roads in Alberta were under eight-foot snowdrifts. One rally official said there were 1,000 miles of ice and snow between British Columbia and Ontario.

The cars run in six classes, depending upon the size or displacement of their engines.

At the start of each day, the crews are told the route they must follow. The crews attempt to keep the car on the correct route and maintain the average speeds set by the organizers. With the exception of the eight special sections, average speeds are at least 10 per cent below the posted maximums.

The winner of the rally will be the car that reaches Quebec City with the fewest penalty points.

ROOKIE NOW STAR

Laycoe Liked Kamloops Lad

DETROIT (CP)—Bert Marshall has started to hit and his coming of age as a belter has provided the punch needed to tighten Detroit Red Wings' defence and make the club a power to be reckoned with in the Stanley Cup hockey final.

The husky native of Kamloops, B.C., was strictly a stick-checker until late in the season.

"But players began to take advantage of me because they knew I didn't bodycheck much," the 22-year-old rookie said. "I decided I had to do something if I wanted to stay around and started to hit."

His improved play was a key reason Wings sidelined Chicago Black Hawks in their semi-final series and now hold a 2-1 advantage over Montreal Canadiens in the best-of-seven final.

Fourth game in the series will be played here Sunday at 11:30 a.m. PDT, with the fifth scheduled for Montreal Tuesday night.

ALMOST WENT TO WHL

Marshall didn't figure in Wings' plans at the outset of the season after a terrible training camp. In fact, coach Sid Abel almost loaned him to Portland of the Western Hockey League for the season.

"Hal Laycoe (Portland coach) wanted him badly," said Abel. "He didn't show much in camp, but I figured if Laycoe thought he was pretty good it might be best to keep him near for a little while to see what happened.

"So I shipped him to our Pittsburgh farm club last September. We ran into injuries and had a horrible start and I started to look around for help. Pittsburgh said Marshall was going pretty good and I brought him back. He's been great for us ever since.

BEST IN YEARS

"As a matter of fact I think he's the best rookie defenceman to hit the National League in several years."

Despite missing the first nine games of the season, Marshall placed second to Brit Selby of Toronto in the half-way voting for the NHL's Rookie of the Year. He stands a good chance of winning on the final vote, though his play sagged slightly in the closing half until he started to hit.

Neither Detroit nor Montreal worked out Friday as the Olympia Stadium ice was being prepared for the color television broadcast on NBC Sunday.

Unnoticed in Thursday's 4-2 victory by Canadiens was Jean Beliveau's two points, which moved him into a third-place tie with Bernie Geoffrion in the all-time Stanley Cup scoring statistics. The onetime linemates now each have 115 points.

Geoffrion scored 56 goals and 59 assists in 127 games. Beliveau has 53 goals and 62 assists in 105 games. The leader is Gordie Howe of Detroit, who had 155 points through Thursday's games including 65 goals.

Maurice Richard, another retired Montrealer, is second with 126, including a record 82 goals.

'Pool Takes Title

LONDON (AP)—Liverpool defeated Chelsea 2-1 today and made certain of winning the English League soccer championship and a place in the European Cup of Champions next season.

A sellout crowd of 50,000 roared as Liverpool did a lap of honor after the victory at Anfield Road Stadium.

Liverpool needed only one point today to clinch the title.

Roger Hunt, England inside-right, scored the winning goal that gave Liverpool the title.

It is the second time Liverpool has won the league in three years. The team's triumph came five days before it faces Borussia Dortmund of West Germany in the final of the European Cup of cup winners at Glasgow's Hampden Park Stadium.

NORTHAMPTON LOSES

At the other end of the standing, Northampton lost 3-0 to Blackpool and made certain of going down to the Second Division. Two other teams in danger—Sheffield Wednesday and Aston Villa—both won and made their First Division places secure.

Second place still lies between Burnley, which has 53 points with two games to play, and Leeds, with 50 points and four games left.

Both teams kept up the pressure today. Burnley won 1-0 at Tottenham with a late goal by inside-left Andy Lochhead, and Leeds blanked Newcastle 3-0.

Oak Bay, Victoria Score Track Wins

Oak Bay and Victoria High marked up team triumphs while Claremont and University School wound up with a draw in inter-high track and field meets Friday.

The three meets were continuing a series of "warmups" for the annual district meet late in May.

Domination in sprint and relay events helped Victoria to a narrow victory over Burnaby South in a three-way meet at Vic High. The Vics, who won eight of 15 events, picked up 79½ points. Burnaby South picked up 76 and Shawnigan Lake was far back with 35 points.

TIE AT CLAREMONT

The hosts and University School each finished with 32 points to tie for honors in a dual meet at Claremont.

Individual standouts were Tony Konopski and D. Wilkie.

Konopski was Claremont's big point-getter with firsts in the 100 and 200-yard dashes, and the triple jump, and a second-place ribbon in the broad jump. Wilkie also had three firsts—high jump, shot-put and discus—and one second—in the triple jump.

Oak Bay won 14 out of 20 events, showing best in the field events, to defeat Esquimalt 148-100 in another dual meet at Esquimalt.

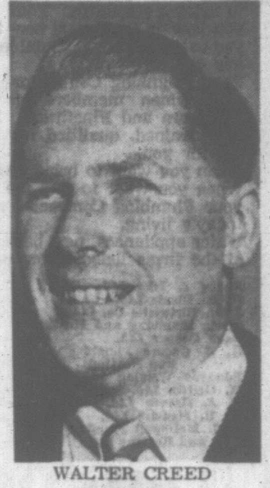
ROLLOFFS ON MAY 8

Don Marshall Top Qualifier

Two scores above 1,000 highlighted the scramble for awards in the men's fivepin division of this season's Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition.

Don Marshall hit the high spot in the 16th week of the 27-week event when he scattered the pins for a three-game series of 1,064.



WALTER CREED
. . . bowler of week

John Markim was next on the list with a 1,001 tally in the 22nd week and 23 of the qualifiers for Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs on May 8 earned their weekly awards with scores above 900.

Walter Creed completed the field for the fivepin rolloff as he topped the division in the final week with a 280-321-305—906 series in the Army, Navy and Air Force League at Gibson's Recreations.

All winners of weekly awards in four divisions—men's and women's fivepins, and men's and women's tenpins—qualified for the Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs.

BONUS AWARDS

Waiting for each of the four champions in the May 8 rolloffs is a Times Trophy, and any champion who is a subscriber to The Daily Times will receive a bonus prize of $100.

All fivepinners will chase rolloff prizes at Town and Country Lanes, starting at 1:30 p.m. Tenpinners will make their bids for cash and glory at 2:30, the ladies at Mayfair and the men at Aurora Lanes.

As with weekly awards during the contest, which was open to all bowlers competing in regular league play on southern Vancouver Island lanes, the rolloffs will be decided in three-game scratch series.

Here are the qualifiers for the men's fivepin final, listed according to the weeks in which they qualified:

Game Display By Hollyburn

VANCOUVER (CP) — Laura Cooke's B.C.-bred sprinter, Hollyburn, ran one of his gamest races to win the featured seventh race by a nose before a crowd of 5,253 at Exhibition Park Friday.

Headed by Willow Pattern after a torrid duel on the backstretch, Hollyburn came again and under a strong ride by Fred Finley, put away Willow Pattern and then held off the closing rush of Argo Bound.

Willow Pattern held on to be third.

Hollyburn, running the six furlongs in 1.18, a second off the track record, paid off $7.10, $4.10, and $2.80.

Best pay of the day was $200.40 on the fourth race Exacto, Temple Guard to Audacious Beau.

Italian Captures Junior Mitt Title

ROME (AP) — Sandro Lopopolo of Italy won the world junior welterweight boxing title Friday night, outpointing champion Carlos Hernandez of Venezuela in 15 rounds.

Lopopolo, a gold medalist in the 1960 Olympics, had to survive a 15th-round knockdown to gain the nod of the two judges.

Each fighter is 26, and each came in weighing 139½ pounds.

Button-Holders Stretch It Out

Larry McCooey and Ray Johnson of Colwood retained the senior golf buttons for a ninth straight week by defeating challengers Ed Lovell and Dick Egan on the 14th at Uplands Golf Club.

Next challengers are Ray Spouse and Jack Brown of Gorge Vale.

ARM TROUBLE

End of Line For Williams

PORTLAND (AP) — Big Stan Williams, a 29-year-old righthander who pitched for both the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers, apparently is through with baseball this year.

The 6-6 pitcher was placed on the inactive list by Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League after failing to report to Pawtucket of the class AA Eastern League.

Williams, with two World Series teams, was hit hard in spring training this year after suffering arm trouble.

Court Supporting 'Fighting Champ'

NEW YORK (AP) — A state Supreme Court judge Friday gave the New York Boxing Commission five days to explain why Emile Griffith could not hold the world middleweight and the world welterweight championship titles.

The three-man commission ruled Griffith automatically relinquished his welterweight crown when he won the middleweight title from Dick Tiger in a 15-round decision Monday.

Griffith asked Justice Joseph A. Sarafite to void the commission's rule against holding two titles at the same time.

The 28-year-old champion contended the rule was "arbitrary, capricious and illegally deprived" him of a valuable right without due process of law and in violation of his constitutional rights.

Justice Sarafite ordered the boxing commission to explain its action Tuesday.

Griffith told the court he would defend both titles.

His manager, Gilbert T. Clancy, said in an affidavit that the boxer was "known in his trade as a fighting champion."

CLEVELAND STREAK SNAPPED

Robinson Takes Over As AL's Best Driver

By Associated Press

Frank Robinson has replaced George Strickland as the No. 1 driver in the American League.

Strickland drove manager Birdie Tebbetts to and from the ballpark during Cleveland's 10-game unbeaten streak that ended Friday night when Chicago White Sox defeated the Indians 4-1.

Robinson, meanwhile, steered Baltimore to its eighth straight victory, driving in the runs with a triple and a home run in the Orioles' 8-1 victory over Detroit Tigers.

WHY CHANGE?

Using Strickland, an Indian coach, as a chauffeur was part of the routine Tebbetts refused to change as long as the Indians were winning. He also passed up barber shops and ate breakfast at the same table in the same hotel with the same waitress serving him.

Strickland earned the transportation job after driving Tebbetts back to his hotel following the Indians' opening-game victory. And every time they drove to the hotel they made an illegal turn.

There's nothing illegal about Robinson, even though the other AL teams would like to think so.

His two hits against the Tigers raised his average to .474, and he maintained his streak of having scored in every game by increasing that total to 16. He also has five homers and 10 runs batted in.

Robinson, a winter acquisition from Cincinnati, helped the Orioles pull even with the Indians at 10 victories in 11 games, the best records in the majors.

The only other scheduled AL game—Minnesota at Washington—was rained out.

PETERS HOMERS

Gary Peters and Bob Locker scattered eight hits in Chicago's victory over Cleveland. Peters hit a home run before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning. The pinch hitter, Danny Cater, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Robinson's two-run triple drove Detroit starter Bill Monbouquette from the mound and brought Terry Fox on. Boog Powell then climaxed the seven-run outburst with a two-run homer. Wally Bunker gave up 10 hits, but the Tigers scored only on Don Wert's homer in the fifth.

In the National League, Willie Mays again was throttled in his bid for a record-breaking 512th home run as Ray Sadecki of St. Louis Cardinals tripped San Francisco Giants 5-1 on a five-hitter.

In other games, Atlanta Braves squeezed by Houston 4-3, Los Angeles Dodgers edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2, New York Mets humbled first-place Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, and Philadelphia Phillies whipped Chicago Cubs 5-1.

WEISS ISN'T GLOATING AS YANKEES FLOUNDER

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who had a role in New York Yankees' greatest years—19 pennants during three decades—refused to gloat Thursday over the sudden collapse of the team and fired him six years ago.

"I am too familiar with the last-place experience myself to start taking potshots at anyone else in that position," said George Weiss.

Weiss, now 71, joined the Yankees as director of farm operations in 1932 and in 1947 moved up to general manager.

He moved over to the rival New York Mets in 1960, bringing Casey Stengel with him.

Weiss refuses to join those who contend that the Yankees have left themselves with a beat-up batch of old-timers and cripples and that their dynasty is dead.

"The Yankees have had a lot of bad luck and many injuries. I think their present slump is just temporary."

Canada Lucky To Lose Games

TORONTO (UPI) — Canada was lucky not to get both the 1972 summer and winter Olympic Games, Toronto Daily Star sports editor Milt Dunnell wrote.

"The blessings of hosting the Olympics are mostly a myth," Dunnell wrote. "Every country that stages them winds up with a hangover, a pile of unpaid bills, and the air filled with anguished cries of disappointed hucksters."

"It might have been necessary to hock the St. Lawrence Seaway in order to pay for them," Dunnell said.

NO CHANCE

He said there was no chance of Montreal's getting the summer games but said the Banff effort was "sabataged by some of their own birdwatchers."

Dunnell suggested the Canadian Olympic chances would be improved for the future if Sidney Dawes, Canada's representative on the International Olympic committee, resigned.

"Until this country gets rid of him, there will never be any real communication between the Canadian in the street and the Olympic movement," he said.

Dick Beddoes, Toronto Globe and Mail sports columnist, also scolded Dawes for his "stuffy" behavior, in refusing to tell the press how he voted.

"This sort of stuffy attitude by the country's highest-ranking amateur is exactly the approach to rile the Canadian newspapers and breed distain for amateurs," Beddoes wrote.

"Why shouldn't the pipsqueak panjandrums, who run to Canadian public for handouts to support our international teams, be obliged to explain their actions to the papers, which represent the public?" Beddoes said.

LONG GROWING SEASON NEEDED

For Cabbages Fit for King Planting Deadline Arrives

By JACK BEASTALL

Jack

Whether you refer to them collectively as cabbages, or "greens," or the more impressive word, crucifers, they will be the plants that should be in the soil by the end of April.

If you wish to be precise, you should refer to them as Brassicas, for that is the name in the garden encyclopedias under which they are listed as part of the great family Cruciferae, the mustards.

Even the name "mustards" is not so far out of line as it first appears, because the seeds of Brassica nigra (black) and Brassica alba (white) give the commercial mustard used in the kitchen and mustard oil.

When it comes to common names, we can use cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, sprouting broccoli, Chinese cabbage (Pe-tsai), Brussels sprouts, turnip, kohl-rabi and rutabaga, for the different species.

Seeds of the white turnip and a few of Chinese cabbage can be sown this weekend, also kohl-rabi; the educated turnip which prefers to grow above ground rather than below.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS

Summer cabbage, summer cauliflower, the white-headed broccoli, and the green and purple sprouting broccoli, are the plants to be set out now. Also Brussels sprouts for use from late fall over Christmas, for these need a long season of growth and most gardeners start about a month too late.

Cabbage and sprouts require—in fact, they must have—a tightly packed soil if tight heads and buttons (sprouts) are to result. They refuse to make good growth in a loose and rich soil.

The best place for them is in a spot that was manured for some other crop last year, and if the soil has not been disturbed this spring, so much the better.

FIRST TASK

If the soil has been loosened, the first job will be to trample or roll it until it is really solid. The children will do this for you while they play some of their games—it is amazing how much trampling they can accomplish in half an hour.

Lime will be needed over the area the plants are to occupy, because these brassicas will stay stunted and brownish green when the soil is too acid for their liking.

And another point is that acid soil encourages the slime-mould known as club-root or finger-and-toe disease.

So always see that the cabbage patch gets a dressing of lime.

If you already have club-root disease in the soil, there is not much you can do excepting to see that all crucifers are kept out of the garden for at least seven years.

And when you start making a list of all the plants that must be exiled you begin to wonder if such advice can be feasibly put into operation.

In addition to all the plants mentioned here, we can add radishes, all cruciferous weeds (identified by their characteristic four-petalled flowers), wall flowers, candytuft, alyssum, arabis, stocks, and several of our most delightful early flowering rockery plants. With the aid of an encyclopedia the list can be extended to a formidable length.

Our other little annoyance is called the cabbage root-maggot, but we can outwit her fairly easily by covering the cabbage patch with black plastic, making holes through which to set the plants, treading the soil firmly around them, and then closing the plastic tightly to the stems so no soil is uncovered in which she can lay her eggs near the plants.

KING CABBAGE

Whether you use the plastic, or place cabbage mats around the plants, be sure not to disturb too much of the tightly packed soil when you make the planting holes, and always tread it firm around the stem after the plants have been set.

If you follow this rule, and later only cut off the weeds instead of cultivating deeply, you will have cabbages fit for a king, and Bfussels sprouts for Christmas.

QUIZZING the GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. (1) After lilacs have bloomed, they get brown spots on the leaves. What is the treatment, please? (2) How do you treat delphinium, phlox, Michaelmas-daisies, and lupin to prevent them going mouldy? Thank you. H.W.B., Mount Tolmie.

A. There are two blights to which lilacs are subject, one giving black spots and the other brown spots.

Control for both is pruning to prevent crowding of branches so that light and air can penetrate freely, and spraying with bordeaux mixture, beginning when the leaves first open.

(2) Mildew on perennials is now attributed to dryness at the roots as the primary cause, and crowded conditions which limit air movement is secondary. Plenty of humus in the soil to retain moisture around the roots, and adequate soaking periodically rather than daily surface sprinkling, will usually eliminate the trouble.

Floor Not Spot To Sit

CHICAGO (NFS) — For the smart set, sitting on plush chairs is "in". Sitting on the floor is "out".

That's the word from the Howard-Parlor Furniture Company, Chicago, manufacturer of upholstered furniture.

Howard Niederman, executive vice-president and designer for the company, suggests that a plush chair or two will spark up any living room decor.

For example, a swivel arm chair in a showy boucle textured matelasse will fit into almost any decor while adding new form and color interest.

He noted that today's well-furnished home has a wealth of cushiony seating, replacing much of the bare floor space in vogue in recent years.

GEESE PREFER NORTH

Ontario's greatest concentration of wild geese is in the James Bay and Hudson Bay lowlands.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Nipping off tulip heads the same day the first petal falls, ensures the building up of the bulbs for next year's display. Give the feeding of bulb fertilizer and a good soil-watering to all the bulb beds while the leaves are still green and growing.

Forsythias should be pruned at once by cutting back on the branches which flowered, on young plants. Old shrubs can have the flowered branches cut out at or near ground level.

Dianthuses and all carnations and pinks will benefit from side dressings of wood ashes. Watering will be needed to dissolve the chemicals.

The hardiest of the annuals can be planted out — pansies, sweet peas, carnations and snapdragons are among the first.

Young plants of summer cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and lettuce can all be added to the vegetable garden.

Water the strawberry plants throughly if the main lot of flowers are not yet open. Water spoils the pollen on open flowers, and makes it unattractive to the bees who effect the fertilization.

Liquid feed the asparagus bed while in production. Do not cut too drastically. There must always be some stems left to aid in the building up of the plants during summer.

NEEDS CAREFUL HAND

The axe causes more injuries among forest workers than any other piece of equipment.

Dramatize Walls

CHICAGO (NFS) — Massed groupings of pictures—prints, oils, watercolors—are often an effective way to dramatize a wall above a sofa or mantel.

But you can make the effect even more appealing, says Arabesque design consultant Mary Ann Wills, if you include some deep-dimensional wall plaques in the grouping.

The plaques will add variety of shape, texture, and color to the otherwise staid rectangular look of pictures alone.

SMALL TOWNS TO BENEFIT

'Medicare Assures Payment'

HALIFAX (CP) — A government - sponsored medical care program across Canada will mean doctors can afford to stay in small towns, Health Minister MacEachen said Friday night.

He described the existing concentration of professional personnel and hospital facilities in large centres as "one of the most serious obstacles in the way of adequate care for everyone."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Halifax Medical Society, Mr. MacEachen cited an unnamed community near Halifax as an example.

Two doctors recently left the community—although both liked the area—because "not enough of their patients could afford to pay for their services."

A universal, prepaid medical insurance plan, which Mr. MacEachen confidently expects to be operating by July 1, 1967, would "enable doctors to move into smaller, low-income communities and still be assured of a steady, reasonable income."

"Also, it is possible in a public program to provide special incentives which will encourage doctors to practise in areas which may not have the attractions and security of large, thickly populated urban centres."

The health minister said provincial governments must take full responsibility for medical plans in order to qualify for federal government funds.

This would not rule out "a two-tier system in which a doctor-operated plan acted in certain respects as the agent of a provincial department or commission."

The private carriers would have to operate on a non-profit basis and under a provincial audit.

Mr. MacEachen said, however, all plans must provide uniform terms and conditions that would permit no scaling of premium levels.

Another argument against "free-enterprise" insurance was the administrative inefficiency and high costs of a multiple-carrier system.

A study of the Hall royal commission report on medical care showed administrative costs of voluntary carriers ranged up to 27 per cent of total premium payments. Administrative costs of such public programs as the Saskatchewan plan were about six per cent of total expenses.

Ball & Shemilt ELECTRONICS LTD.

On the Establishment of an Exclusive Sales and Service Depot for Land and Sea Electronics, Communications and Navigational Aids.

Ball & Shemilt Electronics Ltd. has represented the Canadian Marconi Co. in the Victoria area for over ten years, rendering a valuable service to the community in its communications requirements. The many users of radio communications in this area will benefit from Ball & Shemilt's expansion in this field. We wish them continued success. The Canadian Marconi Co. is proud to be represented by this fine sales and service centre.

Canadian Marconi Reliability IS A GREAT MARINE TRADITION

The tradition started in 1902, when the Canadian Marconi Company was the first organization to set up and operate a permanent wireless station in Canada to communicate with ships at sea. Canadian Marconi has been manufacturing marine radiotelephones in Canada since 1925 — when the first units were produced for service on the Great Lakes.

The first shortwave telephone service to ships at sea was a Canadian Marconi installation in 1930. Since that time, CMC marine activities have continued to grow until today Canadian Marconi operates Canada's largest marine electronics maintenance organization, with service depots from coast to coast. In fact, Canadian Marconi is Canada's only manufacturer and supplier of a complete range of marine electronic equipment.

CRUSADE SET IN BERLIN

DENVER (UPI) — A top aide of evangelist Billy Graham said a world congress on evangelism will be held in Berlin this fall.

"We believe there is a need to confront men with their need for Jesus Christ," Dr. W. Stanley Monneyham said. "We feel the church has been sidetracked from its primary mission."

Monneyhan has been in Berlin for several months to help prepare for the world congress to be held from Oct. 26 through Nov. 4.

He was a guest at the 24th annual convention of the National Association of Evangelicals in Denver.

Monneyham said Graham would hold a Christian crusade in Berlin Oct. 16-23 before the congress starts. Graham held a crusade in Berlin before the Berlin wall was erected.

NO POLITICS

Monneyham said the congress would not have an anti-Communist theme and that most of Eastern Europe had been invited to be represented.

"There will be about 1,250 leaders from throughout the world, representing almost every organized church," he said. "More than 100 countries will have representation."

"The purpose is to re-establish the priority task of the church — to confront man with Christ," Monneyham said.

Eleven other parcels of food, clothing, medical and school supplies have been sent to various Church of the Nazarene mission fields over the past year.

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Catholics to Aid India

Roman Catholics throughout the Victoria diocese will open their purses this Sunday to the hungry peoples of India.

"Please make your contribution a generous one," says Bishop Remi De Roo in a special message to Catholics of Vancouver Island.

"We are one of the richest countries in the world and we have so much to be thankful for, the Bishop said Friday on his return to Victoria from a conference in Montreal.

"Pope Paul has spoken in moving accents of the famine in India. As a result, a world-wide crusade of charity has begun. Generous persons everywhere are making real sacrifices to help their famished brothers in other lands.

"That is only one reason why I am sure Roman Catholics in the diocese will not want to be outdone in generosity."

WHAT IS RELIGION ABOUT ON A MONDAY MORNING?
About living, in our world, on Mondays as well as Sundays. About the deeper meaning of life. And what Christianity has to do with work, and war, and love, and poverty, and happiness . . . or so Quakers think. That is why the Society of Friends try to apply their beliefs to everyday life. And why they worship God simply, without dogma or ceremony. You might call them a Society of down to earth Christians who try to practice rather than preach. If this approach to religions makes sense to you, you are invited to come to Meeting for Worship at 1831 Fern Street, Victoria, at 11 a.m. on any Sunday.

ORATORIO PLANNED

Three Soloists Sing Creation

Three outstanding Victoria soloists — Dawn Benoit, Rob Greenwood and Allan Husband — will sing Haydn's famous oratorio The Creation in Metropolitan United Church Wednesday, May 11, at 8 p.m.

They will be supported by the Metropolitan Sanctuary Choir of 60 voices conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

"We are working hard to make this a really outstanding performance," said Mr. Tupman after Thursday night's strenuous rehearsal.

Joseph Haydn labored for 18 months on The Creation, revising, shortening, making innumerable drafts and sketches, not satisfied until he felt he had achieved a perfect balance of sound.

The work was first performed in Vienna on March 19, 1799.

Free tickets are available at Metropolitan church office. They are necessary for admission.

Battle of Atlantic Remembered Sunday

The cold, grey Atlantic is their resting place.

The mighty ocean's restless rollers, like a giant shroud, break relentlessly against the shores they fought to defend.

On Sunday, as every year since 1945, they will be remembered.

These were the men who lost their lives in the gallant struggle to keep Britain's lifeline open during the bitter years of he Second World War.

In Victoria, the Battle of the Atlantic will be marked by reserve sailors of HMCS Malahat with a parade to St. Paul's Naval Garrison where they will take part in the 100th anniversary service of the church.

Along with families in Britain and the U.S., Canadians will pray for the thousands of sailors who set out across the vast ocean never to return.

In the 68 months of hostilities, 1,797 Royal Canadian seamen lost their lives in the Atlantic, another 391 wounded.

At the height of the campaign, Canadian shipyards were turning out a corvette every four days, of which 34 were sunk by mine or U-boat.

SAVAGE STORMS

Despite the two great enemies—U-boats and savage Atlantic storms—naval and merchant ships made nearly 26,000 safe crossings bearing over 181 million tons of supplies to Britain.

The campaign began only days after war was declared in September, 1939.

The first Canadian convoy, known as HX-1, and numbering 18 ships, was escorted into the Atlantic bound for Liverpool. It arrived safely.

But future convoys were to be less fortunate as U-boat activity intensified and the wolf pack strategy was brought into play.

At the outset the total available naval force was 312 officers, 3,292 men, and 13 commissioned ships.

By the end of the European war, almost 100,000 Canadian men and women were taking part in the naval effort and the complement of fighting ships numbered around 800.

THREE LOSSES

By the end of 1939, 410 cargo ships in 14 HX convoys had crossed the Atlantic with only three losses. The last of these convoys, in May, 1945, was number HX 359.

It was just 25 years ago next month, on May 23, 1941, that the first Canadian corvette entered the fray.

Seven of the "little ships" steamed out of Halifax Harbor in line ahead bound for St. John's, Nfld.

The stubby little ships entered the war as a stop-gap to defend allied supply lines across the Atlantic.

Only the month before, 134 British, allied and neutral ships, totalling 600,000 tons, had been sent to the bottom of the Atlantic. It was known as "Black April".

By the beginning of summer, 1941, 80 of the little ships were either in service or on the way.

But they had to wait for the fall for the first corvette to draw blood.

FIRST ESCORT

It was in September that the newly-commissioned Moose Jaw sank the U-501 off Greenland. Within the next five days, however, Canada lost her first escort when the Levis was torpedoed and sunk on the North Atlantic Sept. 19.

In the course of the next four years—until U-boat hostilities were ordered ceased on May 4, 1945—17 Canadian corvettes had a hand in sinking 15 U-boats and damaging many more.

On the debit side, 11 RCN corvettes were lost. In addition, many thousands of tons of merchant shipping was sent to the bottom.

Despite the losses and the seeming impossibility of the task at times, the fighting men never gave up the struggle to protect freedom.

When Germany was forced to surrender it brought to an end one of the grimmest sea struggles man has ever known.

The Battle of the Atlantic was over.

Youths Fined Total of $125

Three youths were fined a total of $125 in central court Friday when they admitted liquor offences.

Richard Barwis, 19, and Richard Thut, 19, both of Sooke, were stopped by police in a car in the 600 block Yates, April 9.

Barwis was fined $40 for being a minor in possession of liquor. Drinking in a public place cost Thut $50.

George Lewis, 20, of 1163 Wynchbury, was fined $35 for being a minor in possession.

He was caught carrying 48 bottles of beer through a parking lot in the 500 block Pandora, April 7.

EXCEPT FOR WEEKENDS

So-Called 'Average Man'

By DON VIPOND

Second of Three Articles

A boy's view of life stretches about the length of his father's shadow.

You don't think so? Listen to Tom Stewart, executive director of the Big Brothers of British Columbia, prove the point.

This is the case of Billie. He recalls that his father wasn't so bad during the week. Worked pretty regularly. The so-called average man perhaps.

But every Friday it was into the beer parlor to cash his pay cheque. There he would promptly get tanked, go home and beat up his wife.

Every week!

Tom says this must have gone on for a long time, provided a crystal clear example. Because both of Billie's brothers when they got married followed exactly the same routine.

Why not? Asks Tom. This is what the sons had seen week after week at home. This is what their father always did. Isn't this what every man does?

Such an illustration of how a father's behavior can be immortalized is frightening enough. But think how it can be multiplied too as the sons of Billie's brothers grow up and watch their fathers.

Show by Example

"When are we going to take these kids off this sort of merry-go-round and give them a chance?"

Example is really a key word in the Big Brother movement.

The whole idea is to provide a boy with a glimpse of a kind of life, a set of values he might otherwise never see.

This is what Billie's Big Brother is trying to do. How can a boy choose a different course in life if he witnesses only one example?

When a man undertakes to join a fatherless boy in this experiment in comradeship, the Big Brother movement isn't asking him to play the role of saint.

Boys aren't saints and most wouldn't choose one for a friend.

Mr. Stewart lists these points to indicate what a Big Brother is not:

- He's not a one-man entertainment committee. He and the boy join together in activities, fishing, movies, hikes, woodwork, whatever they want, and these are entertaining. But the entertainment is a vehicle to the friendship, a means to an end, not an end in itself.
- He's not a "sugar daddy" for the family of the fatherless boy. For this reason Big Brothers usually get together with their boys on neutral ground, away from their families. If the family needs help, that's the responsibility of a social welfare agency.
- The Big Brother isn't a baby-sitting service for the mother who has been left to raise her boy alone. The man who is making room for a fatherless boy does so by including him in activities the man would probably be undertaking anyway.

Get-Togethers

Their get-togethers are often on Saturdays or Sundays. It could be something as simple as working together around the garden.

Boys who lose their fathers, one way or another, often react in one of two common ways, says Mr. Stewart.

First, aggressively, striking out at the world, kicking at anything getting in their way.

Or by withdrawing, cancelling active membership in the human race. When they find themselves the object of attention, they just withdraw further, leaving school, sliding quietly into a rut, never to be heard from again.

The examples sketched may suggest that Big Brothers only deal with delinquents. Not so, Mr. Stewart explains.

Before Trouble

One of the movement's aims is to reach boys before they get in trouble.

This can be tough. The first question many a boy has for his potential Big Brother is:

"What's in it for you?"

What is in it for the Big Brother?

Mr. Stewart admits words are cheap when it comes to answering this one.

"It can be the most challenging and it can sure be the most frustrating thing but it can also be the most rewarding experience of your life."

To understand, really understand, you have to live the experience.

Next: What's success?

FULBRIGHT PROPOSAL FOR CHINA

U.S. Should Extend 'Hand of Friendship'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. J. William Fulbright says "Amelcan hostility" is prolonging the extremist phase of the Communist Chinese revolution.

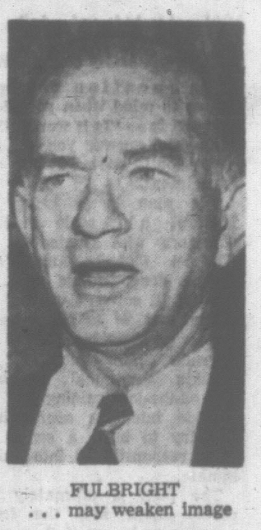
The chairman of the senate foreign relations committee said was his hope "that one day soon we will moderate our hostility and offer to China the hand of friendship, knowing full well that it is almost certain to be rejected but knowing as well that honest and repeated offers of friendship may weakien the Chinese image of a hostile America and hasten the day" for more normalcy in the Peking regime.

Fulbright said he proposed the "hand of friendship" in the belief that America, as the stronger nation in wealth, arms and political tradition, "has the obligation of magnanimity toward a nationjust emerging from a century of crisis and humiliation."

The Arkansas Democrat devoted much of his attention to China in the second of the Christian A. Herter Lectures he is giving at the Johns Hopkins University school of advance international studies here. He based many of his remarks on recent hearings by his committee on U.S.-China relations.

Fulbright, a major critic of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, said that in both Asia and Latin America, "We have given our opposition to Communism priority over our sympathy for nationalism because we have regarded Communism as a kind of absolute evil, as a totally pernicious doctrine."

He said "I think this view of Communism is implicit in much of American foreign policy; I think it is the principal reason for our involvement in Viet Nam and for the implacable hostility to China which only now is beginning slightly to abate."



FULBRIGHT
. . . may weaken image

"The evil of Communism, it seems to me, is not its doctrinal content, which at worst is Utopian, but its fanatical certainty of itself, its Messianic zeal and its brutal intolerance of dissent."

Fulbright said China's two major revolutions of this century "were in great part spawned by the ravages of the west" in the last century.

"It is ironic and significant that the western political doctrine that China finally adopted (Communism) was the one which the west itself had repudiated," he said.

A "chasm of ignorance and misunderstanding" between the U.S. and China must be bridged "if we are to reverse the drift toward war" between the two nations, he said.

Fulbright said "the critical questions for America are whether, by being so hostile, we are not helping to perpetuate the extremist phase of the Chinese revolution and whether by trying to draw China out of isolation, we could not encourage her progress toward moderation."

Future Needs Listed

Trustees of school district 64 Gulf Islands, due to open new $500,000 secondary school in Ganges next month, are again looking to future needs of the expanding school population of the islands.

A special committee will consider the need of a referendum to cover cost of intustrial arts wing for the new school; provision of dormitory in Ganges for outer island students; teacherages, additions and alterations in line with enrolment forecast.

Increased building costs eliminated industrial arts wing from the plan.

Old hospital building in Ganges Hill, now leased by the school board, serves as dormitory for high school students from the outer islands.

Plans for May 28 opening of the new school by Lieut.-Gov. G. R. Pearkes were outlined by Charles Mouat. School buses will transport Gulf Islands students and residents from Long Harbor to the ceremony. Feature of the opening will be a display of work done by students, including practical, scientific and graphic arts.

South Viet Nam To Open Offices

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Viet Nam is planning to open a consulate in Canada later this year, authoritative government sources said here today.

Main reason for the move is the presence of about 200 South Vietnamese students in Canada on study courses under the Colombo Plan.

South Viet Nam's affairs in Canada currently are handled by its embassy in Washington. Canadian affairs in South Viet Nam are handled by the British embassy in Saigon.

IT LOOKS LIKE A COLLEGE, BUT . . .

These 'Students' Don't Get a Diploma

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Writer

MATSQUI — Sprawling luxuriously over 233 acres of the sunny Fraser Valley is a modern new institution.

The men who are there now and the women who will soon move in have individual quarters, decorated in pastels of varying hues.

Inset into the wall beside each bed is a radio with a choice of listening pleasures and a two-way communication with the institution staff.

There's an auditorium which could pass for a dance hall, there are gyms, playing fields, movies and a supply of clean clothing and bedding every week.

Bright, Cheery Dining Rooms

The cafeteria-style dining rooms are bright and cheery — more so than most military institutions. The kitchens shine with stainless steel; the bakery turns out bread, cakes and dainties.

In fact, as one official said, "When the ivy starts climbing on the walls and the grass lawns come in, you could mistake the place for a modern college."

And you couldn't be farther wrong. The Matsqui Institution, as it is called, is operated by the Canadian Penitentiary Service. It is a jail for drug addict criminals.

For some of us who attended a press tour there Friday, it was a difficult fact to realize — especially those of us who have seen the insides of other prisons such as Victoria's archaic Wilkinson Road Institution.

That husky young men seen serving at a steam table, that wholesome looking lad with the brush cut seen raking in grass seed — these two were recently shooting heroin into their veins — and stealing to get it.

Seated in a horseshoe formation in a classroom were five lithe and likeable looking young fellows listening to and chatting with a personable young woman, seated in their midst.

Trained Therapist Discusses 'Evils'

She is a trained therapist, younger perhaps than some of the quintet around her, discussing social evils.

They are experts on social evils —expert liars, cheats, thieves and hoodlums whose idea of ecstasy is a hypodermic needle and a "cap" of the white dream powder.

Every one of them has been moved here from a federal pen where he was serving a sentence of two years at least. Most of them (80 per cent) are repeaters.

Twenty-four of the 90 who have just taken up residence in these quarters have been convicted as habitual criminals and are serving indefinite sentences.

In a few months there will be 312 male inmates here and 128 female inmates in a duplicate institution half a mile from the main accommodation building. It will cost the Canadian taxpayer $5,000 a year to keep each of them in these new premises. The Matsqui Institution cost $8 million to build.

Is It Worth It? Experts Don't Know

The question that first comes to mind when you visit Matsqui is — "Is it worth it?"

And the answer you get is, "We don't know. It is an experiment."

The plan is to bring to Matsqui all male addict offenders who originated in Western Canada, and all female drug addicts now in prisons all across Canada.

The plan is to treat each one as an individual, to try to upgrade their education, to provide vocational training and on-the-job training and to provide intensive counselling and try to build a sense of civic responsibility into each inmate.

The plan is ultimately to parole them into the free community to see if they can rebuild their shattered lives.

That's the plan. No one knows whether it will work.

But the press party learned something of the dedication to the experiment of the prison authorities who stand behind it, as the tour got underway.

A. J. MacLeod, Canadian commissioner of penitentiaries led the tour, assisted by western region director T. W. Hall and Warden John Moloney, who was born and schooled in Victoria.

(Another Victorian among the hosts was Mrs. Susan Langlois, a slight, pretty, 26-year-old classifications officer, who worked two and a half years at University of Victoria Library.)

Place Not Accepting Voluntary Admissions

Mr. MacLeod explained that the institution is not accepting any voluntary admissions. Nor will addicts now serving less than two-year sentences, in provincial jails like Oakalla, be admitted.

(There is a likelihood that with Matsqui open, addicts who appear in B.C. courts will receive sentences of more than two years in future, to ensure they will come here for treatment.)

He said the institution is being kept small because the staff must learn to know each inmate personally, to best assist his treatment. There is a staff of 333, one trained staff member to every one-and-a-half inmates, the highest ratio in Canada.

These include two psychiatrists, five psychologists or counsellors, a multitude of lesser-rank professionals and 163 correctional officers (or guards). Each of these latter has had 300 hours of specialized instruction.

Mr. MacLeod said that most addicts were criminals before they were addicts, people who knew no better way to use their free time than by drinking beer and gambling.

New Interests Through Education

Part of the program will be directed at giving them new interests through education and recreation. The inmates are not to be regimented to the extent they were in the penitentiary.

Here they are awakened at 6:20 and left to their own devices in timing their ablutions and breakfast before work starts at 8 a.m. They work eight hours, have two hours with counsellors in group therapy session, two hours recreations.

There are only two hard rules — no escapes, no dealing in contraband.

Hard cases can expect to be subdued if manhandling is necessary and there are "solitary" cells handy. But co-operation will have its rewards too.

"The critical time will come when they go back to Vancouver (on parole). We will be trying to get them to go somewhere else," said Commissioner MacLeod. Incidentally, few addicts are known to come from Victoria. Those who do were usually involved with the drug in Vancouver where most of the 2,000 (estimated) addicts in the province congregate.

The institution is conducting a pilot project involving 20 picked addicts (and will launch another one when the women arrive from Kingston). These few spend all their waking and sleeping time isolated from the rest of the prison community.

Progress Measured Of 20 Addicts

They have four-bed rooms. Their cupboards are unlocked. The front door, connecting with the main compound is unlocked. They are subjected to trust and to stresses in experiments aimed at making them accept community existence. Their progress is measured. Their program may be changed to adjust to their progress.

It is this group which has the benefit now of young women counsellors, who are sitting in until the female inmates arrive — under closely watched circumstances.

Warden Moloney says the aim is to "provide a controlled, drug free environment where the addict can develop personality characteristics which will assist him to live in society without resorting to criminal activity . . . or narcotics.

"It is not expected to cure addicts. A cure for drug addiction does not exist, and anyone who believes that it does is due to be disillusioned."

Never Be Cured But He Has Hope

If this makes the whole exercise seem meaningless, he adds, "It helps to make sense to regard the addict in the manner that Alcoholics Anonymous regards the alcoholic; he will never be cured but he may have long periods of sobriety.

"Helping the addict to get and hold a job when he has seldom or never done so before, and to abstain from drug use for a period of time in a free society, when he has not done so in the past, are worthwhile goals."

Warden Moloney has no time for the suggestion that it might be cheaper and more practical to make drugs freely available to addicts, aiding them in their own removal from the scene and killing the drug traffic by taking the profit out of it.

He says in countries where this system of condoning the use of drugs has been tried, the addict population of the country has increased. He said both Japan and the British East India Company had used this system as a gambit to gain control over large sections of China in years past.

On the other hand, he points to experiments carried out since 1962 when addict prisoners in Canadian penitentiaries were given some training then released on parole. Eighteen of the 40 who went out are still functioning without drugs in the community, he says. This is a large ray of hope.

In any event, whether or not the Matsqui experiment works, if nothing else it is a storage place away from the orbit of practicing addicts, where they can be effectively removed from society and the company of non-addict prisoners who they might conceivably infect with their longings.

They will be forced to take part in programs which might help them.

Effectively Removed From Society

And there is little likelihood, despite the classification of Matsqui as a "medium" security institution, that they will escape.

There are no bars on their room windows and they can open and close them themselves. But the decorative cement facades on the residential wings are too small to get through. Exterior glass windows are laced with wire.

Every corridor has doors of ornate ironwork that slide open and shut only when a button is pushed in a control centre. The same control centre has buttons which automatically seal or open every cell door. And surrounding the institution are fences 14 feet high and topped with barbed wire. And on every side are air force blue uniformed guards.

In the kitchens, the carpentry or electrical shops, wherever men are working their are officers mingling with them. In the kitchens it is impossible to tell inmates from officers except for the name plates on their whites, inmates wear a red badge, staff wear blue.

And of course, the inmates don't have to pay for their meals.

Opposition Views Invited On Sandhill Application

Central Saanich residents have up to May 20 to submit their reasons for opposing an application for permission to discharge treated effluent into Sandhill Creek.

Letters opposing the application of Westcraft Manufacturing Ltd., should be sent to the B.C. Pollution Board, Legislative Buildings.

The Community Planning Association, Victria branch, has already filed notice that it wants to express its views on the issue if a public hearing is held.

A spokesman for the board said today it would be up to the discretion of the board to hold a public hearing.

The case could be settled without a hearing, he said.

The applicant wants to discharge aluminum anodizing and conversion coating process effluent into the creek which empties into Saanichton Bay.

Only an opportunity existed—and the determination of a boy to do something about it. Chuck Taylor's neighborhood was a new suburban one. Homes were few and far between. No one had yet established a newspaper route here. But Chuck, with an assist from Mother and Dad, saw what a splendid opportunity existed for getting started on a growing and profitable venture.

Today, Chuck Taylor is a fine example of a successful young businessman. He has a sizable savings account which will someday be applied toward a college education. He has gained valuable business experience. He has made lasting friendships among important people in this suburban community. He is living proof that the Younger Generation in this year of 1960 is made of pretty fine stuff, and, given the opportunity, will live up to the highest expectations of their elders!

Memory Lane Trip Of Radio, Early TV In Sunday Special

The Magic of Broadcasting salutes the communication industry and pays tribue to a host of familiar names and voices who helped create that magic, in an hour-long entertainment documentary special in color, Sunday at 10 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12.

MAGIC MOMENT comes for Arthur Godfrey, Lucille Ball and Bing Crosby when they head the cast of "The Magic of Broadcasting," a color special exploring the history of the industry, Sunday at 10 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12.

Host and guide down the memory lanes of radio and early television is a man who for some 40 years has been one of the masters of the tricks of the broadcasting trade: Red Godfrey, the Warbling Banjoist, now more formally known as Arthur.

Lucille Ball and Bing Crosby star with Godfrey in the nostalgic re-creation of three decades of sight and sound. Special guest stars, who will join in telling the story of the voices and visions that have made Americans the world's best listeners, are Gale Gordon, Sheldon Leonard, Rod Serling and John Scott Trotter. The program features Diane Sherry and Kerry MacLane, with the We Five musical group as a special added attraction.

Christian Unity

A series of four programs tracing the historic division of Christians and the current ecumenical movement for Christian unity will be presented by the "Catholic Hour" starting Sunday at 10:30 a.m. on Channel 5.

"The Quest for Christian Unity" looks at the history of Christianity from the perspective of the current ecumenical movement. It has for its purpose the education of the Christian concerning the roots of unity and lamentable division. The tone of the series is set with the words of Pope John: "We do not wish to put anyone in history on trial. We shall not seek to establish who was right, and who was wrong. Responsibility is divided."

The four programs offer a comprehensive survey of the problems of unity faced by the Church from its beginnings. Program one, "The First Thousand Years," reviews the early problems of the Church leading up to the break between East and West. Program two, "The Reformation, sets forth an objective examination of the climate of 16th-century Europe and the background that provided fuel for the separation of Christians.

Program three, "After the Reformation," presents the story of the 300 years between Martin Luther and the beginning of the ecumenical era at the turn of the 20th century. Particular note is made of religious conflicts in the New World, especially in the United States. Program four, "The Ecumenical Age," traces the development of the movement for Christian unity from the 1910 meeting of Protestant clergy in Edinburgh, through the inception of the World Council of Churches, to the Second Vatican Council.

Mississippi

NBC News has sent a TV task force headed by producer-director-writer Frank De Felitta deep into the heartland of the old Confederacy to explore opinion among white Mississippians on the extent and significance of the social, political and economic changes now under way there.

The result, a one-hour program titled "Mississippi: A Self-Portrait," will be presented Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 5. NBC News correspondent Frank McGee, who first achieved national prominence for his on-location reports on racial strife in Alabama in 1955, will be the narrator.

"Many Americans are extremely dubious that a genuine social revolution is actually under way, or even possible, in the state that has long been regarded as the most firmly entrenched stronghold of segregation in the entire South," De Felitta said. "The program will probe in some measure the posture of reason and conciliation that represents an about-face of Mississippi leadership."

On-camera statements, discussions, reactions, estimates, prognostications and preachments made by residents of Mississippi will reflect the many conflicting moods of Mississippians now. Leaders in business, politics and religion will be heard from, as well as housewives, members of the Ku Klux Klan, planters and small businessmen, millionaires and impoverished sharecroppers.

Bitterness and violence frequently have characterized the reaction of Mississippi's white citizens to changes in their way of life decreed by the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision and the Civil Rights Act of 1964, De Felitta noted.

Silent Citizens

"Until recently," he said, "most responsible white citizens of the state who did not approve of the injustices and violence of this closed society remained silent. Then, last year, a stifling barrier of silence that has lasted for more than a century began to crumble. There was increasing talk of a 'new image' and of a 'gentler wind' that would soften the impact of the era of change ushered in by the Civil Rights Act. In the program we hope to achieve a balanced representation of points of view and attitudes and beliefs prevailing in the state today—a pervasive look at the people behind the facade of the new image."

The cameras visit, among other places, a Ku Klux Klan rally at Natchez; Waverly, an ante-bellum mansion in Columbus (where events of the past that shaped present-day Southern attitudes on race will be probed); Greenwood, a delta town that is one of the strongholds of segregationist thinking; the newspaper office of Mary Cain, a hard-core segregationist in the town of Summit; the St. Francis Catholic Mission in Greenwood where Kate Jordan, a white Mississippi woman works to help poor Negroes in the face of hostile opinion;

Disney Cartoons

The lives and works of the world's legendary storytellers are chronicled in the all-cartoon show, "From Aesop to Hans Christian Anderson" on "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color," Sunday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

Through specially animated cartoon sequences, Walt Disney relates the strange and tragic story of Aesop, whose fables of animals and people made him a favorite until one of his narratives angered the populace, who later demanded his life.

Also reviewed are Jean De Lafontaine and his classic, "The Country Cousin"; brothers Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm and their "Rumpelstiltskin" and "Little Red Riding Hood," and the life and times of Denmark's Hans Christian Anderson.

ROBINSON

Producer Comes Out Of the Cold

By LAWRENCE LAURENT

WASHINGTON — Hubbell Robinson, one of those men whose name is associated with quality in television is back in business. He was out in the cold for the past two years, ever since the then CBS-TV president James T. Aubrey Jr. bluntly told him:

"Hub, you're through."

It now turns out that Robinson, a whisper-voiced producer who majored in classical Greek at Brown. was simply down, not out.

Recently, ABC-TV announced that Robinson will be executive in charge of production for a series that is supposed to polish that network's tarnished ("Batman") image.

The series is called ABC Stage '66. It will offer 26 one-hour programs in original works of drama and music. The budget is huge.

The series is to begin with "The Many Worlds of Mike Nichols." The cast of that program includes Nichols and Elaine May, Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, Julie Andrews, Sandy Dennis and George Segal.

WRITER IN DEMAND

Robinson has just completed filming the first work for television by Truman Capote, the writer ("In Cold Blood") who is most in demand these days. Capote has adapted his fragile, nostalgic "A Christmas Memory." That cast is headed by Geraldine Page and Donnie Melvin.

Another writer for the series is John LeCarre, author of "The Spy Who Came In from the Cold." His TV work is called "Dare I Weep, Dare I Mourn?" It will be filmed in Berlin.

Hubbell Robinson got his reputation for quality by bringing to TV such series as "Studio One," "Climax!" and "Playhouse 90."

But he is not one of those who belong to the precious in-group that sneers at popular entertainment. Robinson is the first to remind a praises-singing friend: "I also created and produced '87th Precinct' and 'Mystery Theatre.'

For next season, ABC-TV has also bought a series from Robinson about an American Indian who works for the New York police department.

Robinson is also one of those men who isn't afraid to talk about his artistic failures. Over a year ago, he worked with ABC-TV in a project that combined video tape recording technique with on-location production.

SHOW WAS LOUSY

"What happened to the project?" I asked Hubbell last fall.

"What happened," he answered, "is that our show was lousy."

Robinson is a skilled writer with a strange (for television) notion that all good programs begin with good writing. "Producers, directors and actors are important." I've heard him say, "but none of them can overcome a poor story, badly drawn characters or musty dialogue."

In television, such a statement means simply that Robinson is a producer who will pay high prices for writers. So, it isn't an accident that his days as programming head at CBS saw the emergence and development of such fine writers as Tad Mosel, Reginald Rose and Rod Serling.

Special Honors Stravinsky

Composer Takes Hour-Long Tour Of Musical Memories

Stravinsky, a portrait of the 83-year-old composer who has become one of the great revolutionary forces in the music of the 20th century, will be presented in an hour-long news special Tuesday at 10 p.m. on Channel 12 (10:30 Ch. 7).

The broadcast was produced and written by David Oppenheim, who also produced the highly acclaimed CBS news special Casals at 88. It was filmed at various locations in the United States, France, Italy, Switzerland and Poland in the spring of 1965. Oppenheim and a CBS News camera crew followed Russian-born Igor Stravinsky and his wife, Vera, across half a world from their home in Hollywood to Warsaw.

Along the route of this journey viewers will see the composer exchanging views with students at the University of Texas in Austin, supervising the premiere of his latest symphonic work in Chicago and conducting a new recording of his jazz composition "Ebony Concerto," with Benny Goodman as soloist.

In Paris, Stravinsky visits the Theatre des Champs Elysees and recalls what it was like that night in May, 1913, when it was the site of a riot provoked by the premiere of his "The Rite of Spring."

Viewers then go with Stravinsky to the room in the house in Clairens, Switzerland, where he composed "The Rite of Spring." At that point, they will see portions of the work in the version performed today by the Warsaw Opera Ballet.

Other locations visited include Rome, where Stravinsky appeared before Pope Paul VI at a command performance of one of his choral works, "Symphony of Psalms;" Paris, where he sat for a portrait by his good friend, the late artist Alberto Giacometti, and Warsaw, where Stravinsky conducted the composition that made him famous. "The Firebird."

The subject of this close-up look was born in St. Petersburg in Czarist Russia on June 17, 1882. He began the study of music as a child.

Wayne and Shuster

The final Wayne and Shuster Hour of this season features the comics' inimitable version of The Last of the Mohicans, with Johnny as Chingachgook, Frank as Hawkeye and Paul Kligman as the Colonel.

One of the most ambitious of their recent sketches, the Mohicans highlights the program to be seen on Show of the Week, Monday at 9 p.m. on Channels 2 and 6. Wayne and Shuster will also present another of their popular mime sketches, The Gambler, in which Johnny plays a meek little man who unexpectedly breaks the bank at a Las Vegas club.

The comics will welcome as their special guest the Montreal chanteuse Margot Lefebvre. Miss Lefebvre, featured performer on the CBC French television show Music Hall, was voted Miss Radio-TV — the outstanding TV variety performer in French-speaking Canada — in a 1965 poll held by Montreal newspapers.

Dancer Don Gillies will again be featured in a solo of his own creation, and the production number is Tijuana Taxi, a Latin American sequence devised by guest choreographer Lee Theodore of New York.

Canadian Awards

Rich Little will be the host for CBC television's coverage of the presentation of the 18th annual Canadian Film Awards, to be shown from the Queen Elizabeth Hotel ballroom in Montreal, Friday at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

This will be the first time this important annual Canadian event will be witnessed by the general public. For the occasion, the program includes an outstanding array of Canadian talent including: Peggy Neville, Andree Champagne, Catherine McKinnon, Alex Read, Fernand Gignac, Doug Crosley, the folk-singing quartet known as Les Cailloux (The Little Stones) and La Famille Brassard, a French-Canadian choral group consisting of twelve Brassard sisters and their brother. The orchestra will be led by Lucio Agostini.

An excerpt from the top award-winning film will be telecast.

The Canadian Film awards are the highest honors of the Canadian Association of Motion sponsored by the Canadian Film Institute, the Canada Foundation, the Canadian Association for Adult Education and the Canadian Association ofM otion Picture Producers.

Road of Germany

The Romantic Road of Germany, named after Roman legions who came at the dawn of history to conquer and civilize Germanic tribes, will be seen on "Northwest Traveler" Wednesday, at 7 p.m. over Channel 4.

INSIDE CITY HALL

Whiz Kid Sets Off a Blast

By JIM HUME

Dear Cousin Christabel:

"Things were pretty lively down at city hall this week with the big budget being whipped into shape.

"Remember Jim Bramley, the kid who was always a whiz at math? Well, he's city treasurer here and still pretty good with the fractions. With a little bit of guidance from him the city council was able to hold the mill rate — they cut it a little, actually — and even to reduce taxes by a few dollars.

Hume

"Jim also managed to touch off a bit of a storm in the other municipalities around here, though you could hardly blame him for saying what he said.

* * *

"You know how assessments determine school costs and other cost sharing formulas because every time you write me you complain that your assessments are up again. Well, Jim noted in his annual report to council that Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt didn't seem to be keeping pace with Victoria on assessment increases.

"Being an accountant, Jim didn't say it quite as bluntly as that. What he said was 'I find it difficult to reconcile some of these small percentage increases with present market conditions.'

"Some other fellows at the meeting put it a little more succinctly. They said the other municipal assessment departments were not operating as efficiently as they should.

"My goodness, you'd have thought Victoria had issued a declaration of war.

* * *

"Things haven't been so jumpy around here since the San Juan Island pig-war when we almost gave the U.S. a Viet Nam in its own backyard.

"Reeve Hugh Curtis (he's that Saanich boy you used to admire in grade 12), Reeve Allan Cox, the Oak Bay legal beagle, and Reeve Ray Bryant, an Esquimalt lawyer, came charging in from the wings waving terse diplomatic notes in defence of their assessors.

"Back in your corner old lady Victoria,' they shouted. 'Our assessments are as high as yours and our assessors as efficient.'

"You know, Chris, they had a point — but only a small one.

"I don't think anyone intended to convey the impression that the assessors in those municipalities were inefficient. What the city hall boys were trying to suggest was that maybe Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should boost their assessment staffs a little so that they could catch up with the work on hand.

* * *

"The provincial assessment commissioner got in the act, too. He issued a statement saying assessments of all municipalities in the Greater Victoria school district were within a couple of decimal points of required levels.

"Funny thing though, Chris, none of them, neither the reeves nor the commissioner, had a satisfactory answer to Jim Bramley's claim that something was out of whack when Victoria's assessments, held at the 50 per cent of market value level, jumped 12.05 per cent over the year while other municipalities only increased a little over two per cent.

"That isn't quite true. Saanich jumped 7.64 per cent but Oak Bay squeaked up a meagre 2.32 and Esquimalt 2.38 per cent.

* * *

"The reeves made a bit of a pass at the difference. 'Schools and university buildings are tax exempt and that makes a difference,' they snapped.

"No doubt about that, Chris, tax-exempt lands do make a difference, so do building permits which may be issued late in the year thus missing the annual assessment count. But 10 per cent difference? Doesn't sound too likely to me.

"I spent the best part of Friday jogging around to real estate offices to see what the boys who sell property for a living though about the situation.

* * *

"They were reluctant to be quoted for fairly obvious reasons but they were unanimous in their answer. They, each one of the half dozen talked to, told me that if the percentage increases in Jim Bramley's report were accurate then assessments in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt couldn't be up to date.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Jim's figures were right on the nose. Neither is there any doubt that his cautious observation, sharpened by other comments, touched a pretty raw nerve on the intermunicipal scene.

"Talked to a pretty sharp assessor, too. He was even more reluctant than the real estate men to get caught in an intermunicipal nutcracker. But he confessed, off the record so keep it to yourself, that Jim wasn't too far off target.

* * *

"In your last letter you wondered how long it would be before amalgamation took place uniting all the municipalities. Don't we all? But I'm afraid the taxpayers like their own governments in quadruplicate.

"That's about all for now, Chris. I'll let you know how things work out.

"Say hello to Charlie and tell him Dennis Young got his raise in pay and is now in the $20,000 a year bracket. I'll bet that beats raising retrievers."

Yours etc;
Jim.

Divorce Suit Involves Absent Prince

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuters)—A divorce action between Prince Friedrich of Prussia, who has been missing for 10 days, and Lady Brigid Guinness, his British wife, is scheduled to be heard here Tuesday, it was revealed Friday.

The administrator of the prince's family (Hohenzollern) estates said he expects the hearing to be postponed if the 54-year-old Friedrich, grandson of the last German kaiser, does not appear.

Police remained baffled by the disappearance of the prince from Rheinhartshausen Castle near Wiesbaden, a family seat converted into a country hotel. No signs of suicide or of a crime have been discovered.

The handsome, greying prince simply walked out of the castle after dinner and no word of his whereabouts has been heard since.

Members of the Hohenzollern family declined to give reasons for the pending divorce action. Domestic court proceedings are private in West Germany.

Court Calendar Full

VANCOUVER (CP) — Senior magistrate James Bartman said Friday magistrates' courts here will soon begin overtime sittings to cut down a serious backlog of cases. He said afternoon sittings will be added to the present morning hearings.

Arthur Mayse

We are hearing a lot these days about what the future holds for Saanich Peninsula, and among the horrors in store appears to be an autobahn which will charge right down the middle with an uninterrupted whoosh.

This is all very well, but as one who thinks we should look planners' notions carefully in the teeth before buying them, I suggest a slight change in the proposed system.

First, we should acquire a 600-foot-wide strip of land along any projected freeway route. This we should develop through generous use of shrubs both flowering and evergreen. It should carry stretches of woods, reaches of grass, playing fields, bridle and strolling paths, and several small lakes stocked with trout.

Deep below this greenbelt through a spacious tunnel, the freeway would hurtle toward the city; and by this vertical land usage, everyone would get what he desired.

I suggest, as a protective measure designed to control further urban sprawl, that legitimate visitors be separated from prospective settlers at a check-point. The latter, we could divert into a chamber or lock fitted with sea-gates, which would be opened at stated intervals.

This on the theory that the only way we can keep 'em off is by drowning 'em.

★

If we find that solution too brutal, we had better resign ourselves to the prospect of vertical land use which goes up, not down; and if I interpret planners' statements aright, that's the direction in which we are headed.

One-family units on large city lots make for an appalling waste of land, Saanich municipal planner Tom Loney has warned.

However, certain other factors are involved, and the one which planners continually stumble over is the pigheaded reaction of the humans for whom housing is designed.

I'm very human and also pigheaded, and reasonable though Mr. Loney's utterance about land wastage may be, I'm not trading my large backyard for a communal share in anybody's park. As a matter of fact, I want both, and don't see why we should sacrifice either.

Eventually the instinct may be bred out of us, but I suspect that for a very long time to come, great masses of humans are going to insist on personal possession of land.

You can't dig in a park, or take out a flower bed and put in a corn patch. You can't chop down one tree and plant another, or ensure yourself of privacy by throwing up a fence.

★

So we have collisions of opposed interests: multiple housing promotors on one side, and on the other, indignant homeowners who see their preserves threatened.

We have witnessed several of these in the past very few years, and are going to see plenty more.

At best, the householder can hope for only a partial victory. If he's loud and persistent enough, he may manage to keep apartment zoning within bounds—but he had better reconcile himself to the fact that those bounds are not going to remain constant.

The pressure of expanding population will force them outward.

I think we should be aware, though, of an easement which will eventually relieve some of the pressure on this favored peninsula. This is an increasingly fast and efficient land-water transit system which even now is opening new land areas to the city worker who is willing to pioneer.

These are the Gulf Islands; and within a very few years, some if not all the larger islands will have their commuter colonies.

Dream stuff? Well, we already have one staffer who found the peninsula too crowded for his taste. He lives on an island, commutes by fast boat and car, and makes it home in time for a beach stroll before dinner.

CALL ME MAMA!

Bantam hen, owned by Mrs. E. Rorvick, 6372 West Saanich Road, didn't flick a feather when her owner brought home eight ducklings, orphaned when their mother was attacked by a cat. They were turned in at the SPCA animal shelter where Mrs. Rorvick works part-time. She fusses over her "foster children" as much as the one remaining chick from her last brood, seen taking a joy ride on mama's back. (Bill Halkett Photo.)

Hottest Selling City Item Is Cool, Clear Ol' Aqua

MRS. GORDON H. GRANT
. . . joins bookworms

The people of Victoria drank, bathed, washed or sprinkled on lawns close to $1 million worth of water in 1965.

They are expected to do the same again this year as pure old aqua holds the line as the city's hottest selling item.

The city's annual budget, ratified this week by city council, reveals that city taps spouted $997,311 of the clear stuff.

Estimated revenue for this year from water is $994,500 a shade down from last year but city comptroller James Bramley warns that the figure is just a guess.

Mr. Bramley told council water consumption is one of the revenue items he could not forecast accurately.

DEPENDS ON WEATHER

"It depends on the weather," he said. "Dry spells broken up with rain will see us use more water than if we have a long dry spell."

Mr. Bramley said the ideal situation was a steady rainfall every two or three weeks.

"I'll try to arrange a storm a month to keep revenues up," he quipped.

While cash for water kept city tills jingling the trend towards employee protection provides an equally steady drain on city coffers.

PROTECTION

In 1966 employer contributions to various employee protection funds will cost the city $513,100.

Superannuation payments top the list with $536,600 earmarked for the city's retirement plan.

To this will be added $55,000 as the city's share of the Canada Pension plan, $16,500 for unemployment insurance, $30,000 for workmen's compensation, $28,000 for other retirement benefits, $23,000 for medical protection and $4,000 for a group life insurance scheme.

Other major expenditure items at city hall are listed at $27,500 for telephones and telegrams, $10,500 for postage and $15,000 for conventions and training institutes.

HUNDREDS JAM WAREHOUSE

Bookworms Burrow To Tune of $1,700

Bookworms and old record collectors swarmed through a warehouse at 507 Pandora Avenue Thursday and Friday and emptied most of the shelves.

By 9 p.m. Friday more than $1,700 worth of material had been sold. But most of the buying was done Thursday between 5 and 9 p.m. when hundreds of men, women and children jammed the store.

There was hardly an inch of room and, by closing time, enthusiasts from nine to 80-year-olds had spent more than $1,300.

"We could hardly cope with the rush," said Mrs. Gordon H. Grant, president of the women's committee of Victoria School of Music, which organized the two-day sale.

All monies will go to the school's scholarship fund. At the first sale last spring, the committee took $1,700.

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of books and records of every description—and a few sound tapes—were donated by the Victoria public to this year's sale.

Prices ranged from a nickel to $4.50—the sum paid for an illustrated life story of Queen Mary.

Also sold were novels, histories, children's stories, school textbooks, Bibles, prayer books, paperbacks, magazines, musical scores, do-it-yourself textbooks and comics.

Four shelves were crammed with Canadiana when the sale opened Thursday. By 9 p.m. Friday only four books were left.

Sold were two copies of Emily Carr's Growing Pains; Bruce Hutchison's Mr. Prime Minister and The Fraser (now out of print); Man's Inheritance and Colored Spectacles by B.C. writer Frederick Niven.

Earth and High Heaven, a Canadian novel by Gwethalyn Graham, which won the Governor General's award in 1945, was sold for $1.

A surprise purchase was made by Victoria writer Agnes Newton Keith. She discovered a copy of her first book, Land Below the Wind, and bought it for 75 cents.

The book is out of print and Mrs. Keith had been seeking a copy for years.

NO MORE TALKING, PENALTIES

This is really it!

There have been announcements about it before now. Then there were instructions on how to do it. After that, warnings to get at it. And finally, talk of penalties if you ignore it.

It's here.

The deadline for filing 1965 income tax returns is midnight Monday. The penalty for late filing is 5 per cent of taxes owing.

Silver Order Awarded Visitor

Engelbert Borgman, visiting his son-in-law and daughter in Victoria, learned Friday he had been honored by Queen Juliana of The Netherlands.

The father of Mrs. Herbert Bown, 1266 Dunsterville, was advised by telegram he had been awarded the Silver Order of Orange-Nassau in recognition of his political and trade union work in The Netherlands.

Inmate Treed by Guards Gives Up When Bluff Called

By RON SUDLOW

A 17-year-old Colquitz Jail inmate Friday went out on a limb in an escape attempt and ended up a tree.

In fact the youth never left the Wilkinson Road prison grounds.

He just climbed above them into a tree and sat there for hours looking down 40 feet at prison officials, police, firemen and dogs.

The juvenile inmate made his dash while working along a fenceline on Interurban Rd.

Toting an axe, he dashed off into the woods across Interurban behind the institution.

CHASED BY GUARDS

He was chased by guards and climbed a tree on prison property near Holland Ave.

But he foiled any attempt to pull him down from his perch by chopping away the tree's lower branches and hanging on to his axe.

Guards and prison warden S. A. L. Hamblin couldn't talk him down but finally persuaded him to drop the axe.

Getting him down was considered a delicate operation so tree surgeon Wendell Johnson was called in.

READY WITH NET

Saanich firemen were ready with a net in case he jumped.

Prison officials and police finally called the youth's bluff when they told Mr. Johnson to get to work.

The youth came down without a struggle.

LOWER TREE

Mr. Johnson said later he planned to rig the tree between two other trees, chop it through and lower it and the would-be escapee gently to the ground.

There have been several escapes from the institution which once held the criminally insane.

One of the most recent was the two-day bid for freedom last year of David Robinson, now serving a life sentence for the murder of a 14-year-old girl.

Marina Complex Planned

By TERRY IZZARD

Plans for a marina complex with moorings for up to 1,000 boats were revealed today for Shoal Harbor near Sidney.

The complex, to be built by three separate developers, is expected to cost over $500,000.

Although plans have not yet been completed indications are that all three will get under way this summer.

When the marinas are completed, Shoal Bay will rate as probably the largest boat basin along the B.C. coast with mooring for several thousand craft.

The latest development is planned by Clarke Bros. Boat Works Ltd., who already own a 200-boat marina, Capital Yacht Club, and Victoria businessmen Tom Blackwood and Gordon Washington.

Largest single developer will probably by Clark Bros.

Tentative plans call for another 200-300 boat marina adjacent to present facilities. In addition, the brothers envisage a coffee shop and possibly facilities for sale of fishing tackle.

Capital City Yacht Club already has federal and provincial foreshore rights to property on the south side of the harbor, opposite Clarke Bros.

AWAITS ZONING

They are now awaiting zoning permission.

Commodore Archie MacBride said the marina could hold upward of 200 boats, although plans have not yet been completed.

Most of the club's 170 members have indicated they will move in their boats when the development is complete.

At a later date a new clubhouse will be built to replace the existing clubhouse now situated on the Clarke Bros. property.

Partners Blackwood and Washington have also to seek zoning permission before they can go ahead with developing.

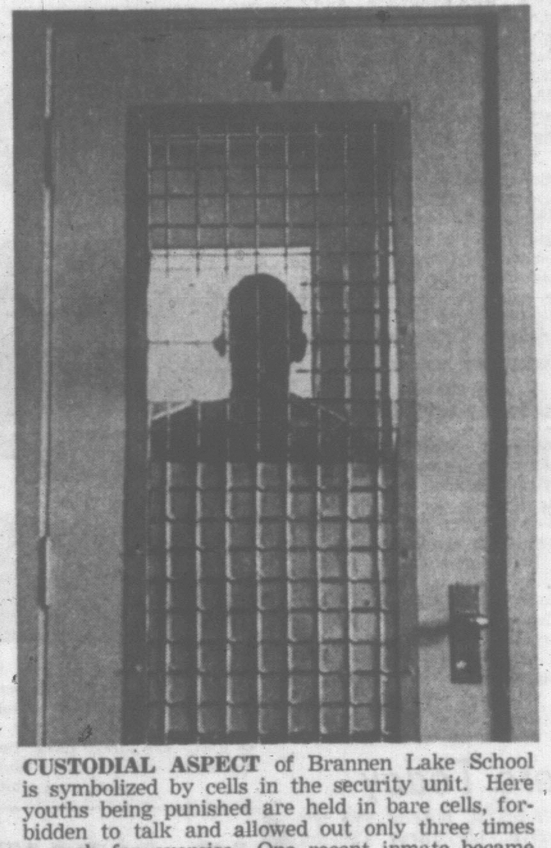
DEFINITE PLANS LATER

Mr. Blackwood, a partner in Pacific Pile Driving Co., Victoria, said he expects to have more definite plans in the next few weeks.

He confirmed the marina would hold several hundred boats.

All three developers expect to make a joint application to the federal government for dredging of the channel.

There are already several other marinas in the small area between Sidney and Swartz Bay, including Royal Victoria Yacht Club's outstation; Randall's Landing; Van Isle Marina; Shoal Harbor Marina; All Bay Marina and Canoe Cove Marina.



CUSTODIAL ASPECT of Brannen Lake School is symbolized by cells in the security unit. Here youths being punished are held in bare cells, forbidden to talk and allowed out only three times a week for exercise. One recent inmate became so withdrawn and disturbed he refused to come out of his cell. (Des Bill Photo.)

A Lot of Youths Penned When They Shouldn't Be!

(This is the first of two articles on Brannen Lake School.)

By DESMOND BILL

Most juvenile delinquent boys in Victoria will sooner or later travel the road through magnificent countryside north of Nanaimo.

It leads to Brannen Lake School, the place where delinquents are sent when they can no longer be handled in the community.

There are usually between 150 and 200 youngsters staying at Brannen Lake at any time. Statistics show that about one-quarter of them have been there before. Some have been committed for the third time.

Statistics also show Greater Victoria sends more delinquents, proportionate to population, than any other urban area of the province.

●

This does not mean that the rate of delinquency in Greater Victoria is the highest in the province. What it does show is that this area has fewer facilities than others for handling its troublesome youth. They are sent to Brannen Lake simply because there is no place else to send them.

Is Brannen Lake the place to send a delinquent?

Dr. Charles Gregory, the consultant psychiatrist at the school, does not think so.

Three yars ago he made a careful survey of 28 inmates who were referred to him for attention. He found only one of them to be a "hard core psychopath" who needed to be kept in custody.

Of the others, he says, four needed hospital treatment for brain damage or psychosis, three required further investigation to determine what exactly was wrong with them, and the remaining 20 were emotionally disturbed to a considerable degree.

Dr. Gregory says that putting a disturbed youngster in the school does not solve his individual problem nor does it improve the family situation that, in most cases, caused the problem.

●

But still, magistrates send juvenile offenders to the school, often with recommendations that they be screened by a psychiatrist when they get there.

Dr. Gregory says most magistrates are not aware of the limitations of facilities at the school. And he adds that if psychiatric help were needed, and available, a different setting would be preferable.

F. G. Hassard, superintendent of the school, admitted to a group of visitors this week that "a percentage of youngsters here need psychiatric help. They shouldn't be here."

The visitors were in a group that included Dr. P. F. d'Estrube, a psychiatrist at the Mental Health Centre, Alan Macfarlane, MLA, Peter Bunn, school trustee, and Mrs. E. Levitz Packford of the Family and Children's Service.

They toured the school, spoke with the staff and some of the inmates, and questioned Mr. Hassard, who is retiring, and John Noble, a Scot who is his successor.

What the visitors saw was, in some ways, an admirable custodial institution. It is well run, comfortable and clean. The grounds and sports facilities would be the envy of some private schools.

The inmates are well treated. I talked with four who are locked up in solitary confinement in the security unit. They are there as punishment and, if any inmates could be expected to complain, it would be them. But they all said they are fairly treated and one told me the staff "are pretty good guys."

The first impression of a visitor is the largest number of Indian boys among the inmates. They must make up almost half of the school population.

●

The second big impression is the youth of some of the prisoners. Some are only 12 and look even younger. The oldest is 18. The youngest ever at the school was a nine-year-old boy who was there a couple of years ago. He was segregated from the older boys.

Officials said that, while youngsters are segregated by age groups in sleeping quarters, there is no attempt to keep them apart in other activities. Nor are first offenders kept away from repeaters.

Mr. Hassard said, "By the time a boy is sent here for the first time he has usually been before the courts several times and there is no point in keeping him separated from the rest."

Officials are sensitive about the solitary confinement in the security unit. They said press reports in the past have created the wrong impression.

"It is a section sealed off from the rest of the school and it is the only place in the school where bars were to be seen. There are about 15 cells but not all were occupied when we went in. The place is clean and well lighted.

●

Prisoners are confined in the cells except for three periods of PT each week and the time it takes them to clean the place. They also come out of their cells to go to the toilet.

The cells are bare except for a chair and the prisoners are forbidden to shout to one another. They are not allowed any reading material until 3:30 in the afternoon. Several of the boys in the cells had been there for a couple of weeks. Some expected to be locked up for a month or more.

The main offence of the youngsters in security seemed to be that they had either run away from the school or had said they were going to run away. Officials said prisoners in security could attend school but only one was.

The school offers the usual program up to grade 9 level. Any inmate who goes beyond that point has to study by correspondence course.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. The wedding will take place on Saturday, May 14, at 2 p.m. in St. Luke's Anglican Church. Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff will officiate. The couple, pictured with their thoroughbred jumper, Amsterdam, is well-known in Vancouver Island riding circles, both being active in senior competition. Lace Coat Highlight Of Gown

A long-sleeved coat of white lace topped the white crepe dress worn by Gillian Margaret Caldwell, this afternoon, when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with George Hoyt Hallett, Oliver, B.C.

The coat featured scalloped edging at the front, and fastened at the neckline with a trio of tiny pearl buttons. The street-length dress was styled on princess lines. Her veil misted to her shoulders from a white floral headpiece and she carried an all-white bouquet of gladioli, stephanotis and roses.

Floral decorations in St. Luke's Anglican Church were in a pink and white theme when Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff heard vows uniting the daughter of Major and Mrs. R. L. Caldwell, 4064 Torquay Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hallett of Oliver. Maj. Caldwell gave his daughter in marriage and H. Bergink was organist.

Miss Patricia Loveless was maid of honor in a princess-line gown of pale pink peau de soie, topped with a lace-edged bolero jacket. Her headpiece was a toning veil-trimmed flower and she carried pink marguerites in her bouquet.

Best man was Gary Vigers and Dwight Heritage ushered the guests to their pews.

W. L. Caldwell proposed the toast to his niece at the reception following in the Olde England Inn. The bride's mother made the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table.

The couple will travel up-Island on a honeymoon trip to Campbell River, and will make their new home in Nanaimo. For travelling, the new Mrs. Hallett donned a silk dress in beige and pink tones, topped with a pink coat and accented with accessories of beige.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Local Woman Wins Award for Chapeau Know-How

Hats may come and hats may go but two small pink ones, circa 1952 and 1954, will always be a part of Edith Olson's collection of attractive millinery. Very similar in style and shade, these small, oval-shaped hats were worn by Edith at the weddings of daughters Doreen and Marilyn.

The other hats in the collection are of a much later vintage and all have been worn within the past year.

Hats that no longer "go anywhere" in Edith's life find their way each season to the "haute couture" section of a charity rummage sale.

The millinery of the award recipient falls into two distinct patterns. There are the good-looking, stylish hats that Edith wears in Victoria, or in any other city she may be visiting, and there are the play hats which shelter her beautiful silver hair from the sun.

"Speed" and Edith Olson spend a great deal of time on their cruiser, and aboard the "Speedith" are happy hats from Hawaii, Mexico, Palm Springs and Nassau.

Edith's favorite is a towering peak-crowned straw massed with turquoise flowers which her daughter Sheila brought as a gift from Nassau. Atop this gay chapeau is a brown-skinned native girl who sways with each head movement.

A brilliant tangerine cotton sunhat makes it easy for friends to spot Edith at any beach gathering. A flowered wig hat is worn for poolside sunning and shaggy delphinium blue rubber flowers cover a swim cap. Several bright peak-brimmed hats shade her eyes on the golf course.

RAINY-DAY WEAR

A deep-crowned medium-brimmed slouch hat in white leather and a black and white dollar-dot plastic headcover offer a choice when it rains. A crisp dollar-dot raincoat with huge circle pockets of black patent shares the rainy days with these two hats.

Black predominates in the city collection, but there is color . . . especially the flowered hats, which like a promise of spring, are worn in January, February and March.

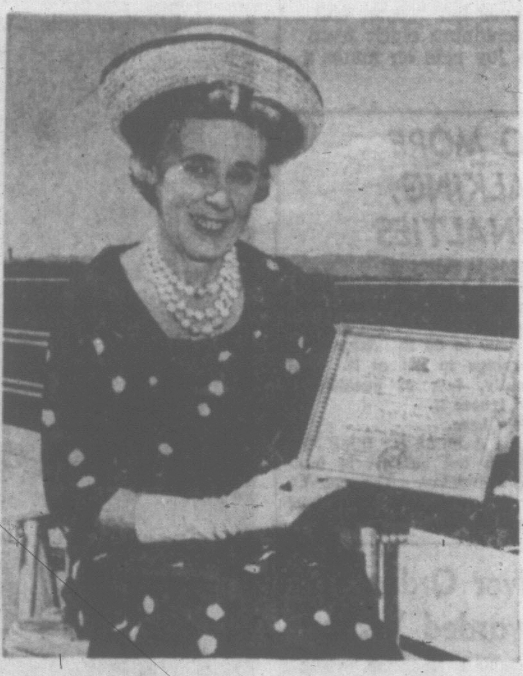
Shocking pink is Edith's favorite color and with a costume of this shade she wears a flowered hat in several shades of brilliant blue with scattered petals of the pink. A circle of wild mink keeps company with a matching jacket and a silver grey costume is topped by a large beret of white fur with shadings of smoke grey. A black satin fez shape, studded with glittering jet beads, goes to parties with a black velvet cocktail suit.

A navy silk sheath with a white geometric design is worn with the new navy and white straw. There is a smart double-breasted wool coat to complete this costume.

FASHION-CONSCIOUS

Mrs. Olson is well-informed and truly interested in fashion. She shops mainly in Victoria, and as she is a perfect size 12, does not have too much trouble choosing her clothes. She would like to wear larger hats and carry larger handbags but realizes that these would overpower her.

Silk shirts and slim silk pants are her choice for wear at home and she is careful to make sure they harmonize with the decor of her charming penthouse. Ice blue, various shades of violet and deep pink are used throughout the apartment and create a perfect background for Edith Olson who has lively blue eyes, softly curling silver hair and a permanent sun tan.



Mrs. R. S. Olson admires the framed certificate presented to her, by the Millinery Institute of America, for being the "Best Hatted" woman in Victoria. Edith wears the newest chapeau in her collection of approximately 40 hats. The face-framing fine lace-like straw is in navy and white, which is Edith Olson's color choice for her new spring and summer costume.

Couple Wed Here Today

Following a honeymoon trip to southern California, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. William Fredric Roberts will make their home in Coquitlam, B.C.

Bishop D. A. G. Rankilor officiated at this morning's service in the Church of Our Lord which united the former Dorothy Florence Patricia Swindell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Swindell, 3417 Metchosin Road, and the son of Mrs. Minnie Roberts, Vancouver, and the late James Roberts. Mr. Swindell gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's floor-length gown was styled with an empire-line bodice, bordered with Chantilly lace. Similar lace gave added interest to the slim skirt as scalloped panels at the sides, and a train extended from a bowed band circling the waistline. Her bouffant veil of French illusion net misted to her shoulders from a large rose headpiece, trimmed with pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and streamers accented by tiny roses.

GOWNS OF GREEN

Matching gowns of seafoam silk organza over taffeta, styled with white daisy lace bodices, were worn by the bride's attendants.

Matron of honor, Mrs. R. J. Popham and bridesmaids, the Misses Maureen Byrnes, Vancouver, and Gail Edwards, Courtenay, accented their outfits with white daisy headpieces, trimmed with tulle, and bouquets of yellow marguerites.

James B. Roberts was best man for his brother. Ushering the guests were Dave Mitchell and Ted Rashleigh, Vancouver.

S. D. Ranns proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in Cridge Memorial Hall. A three-tier wedding cake, flanked by white candles and spring flowers, centred the head table.

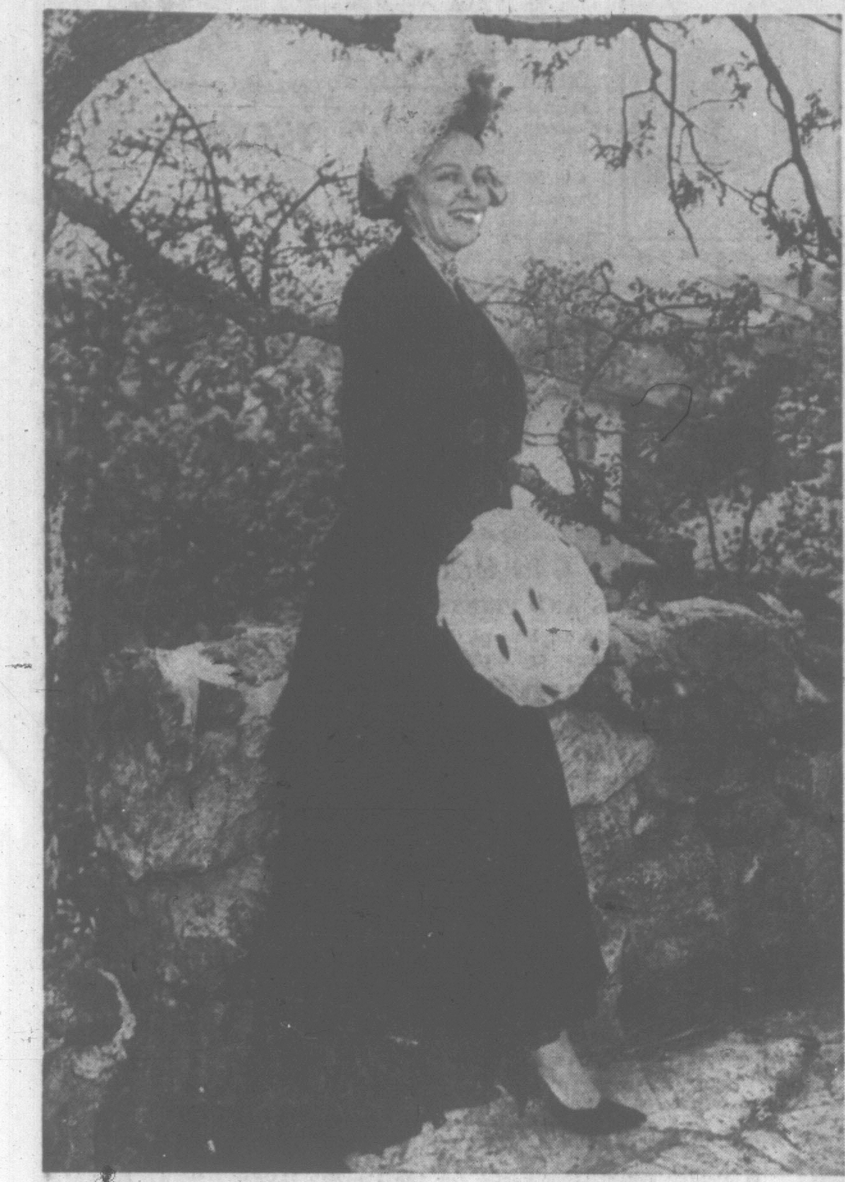
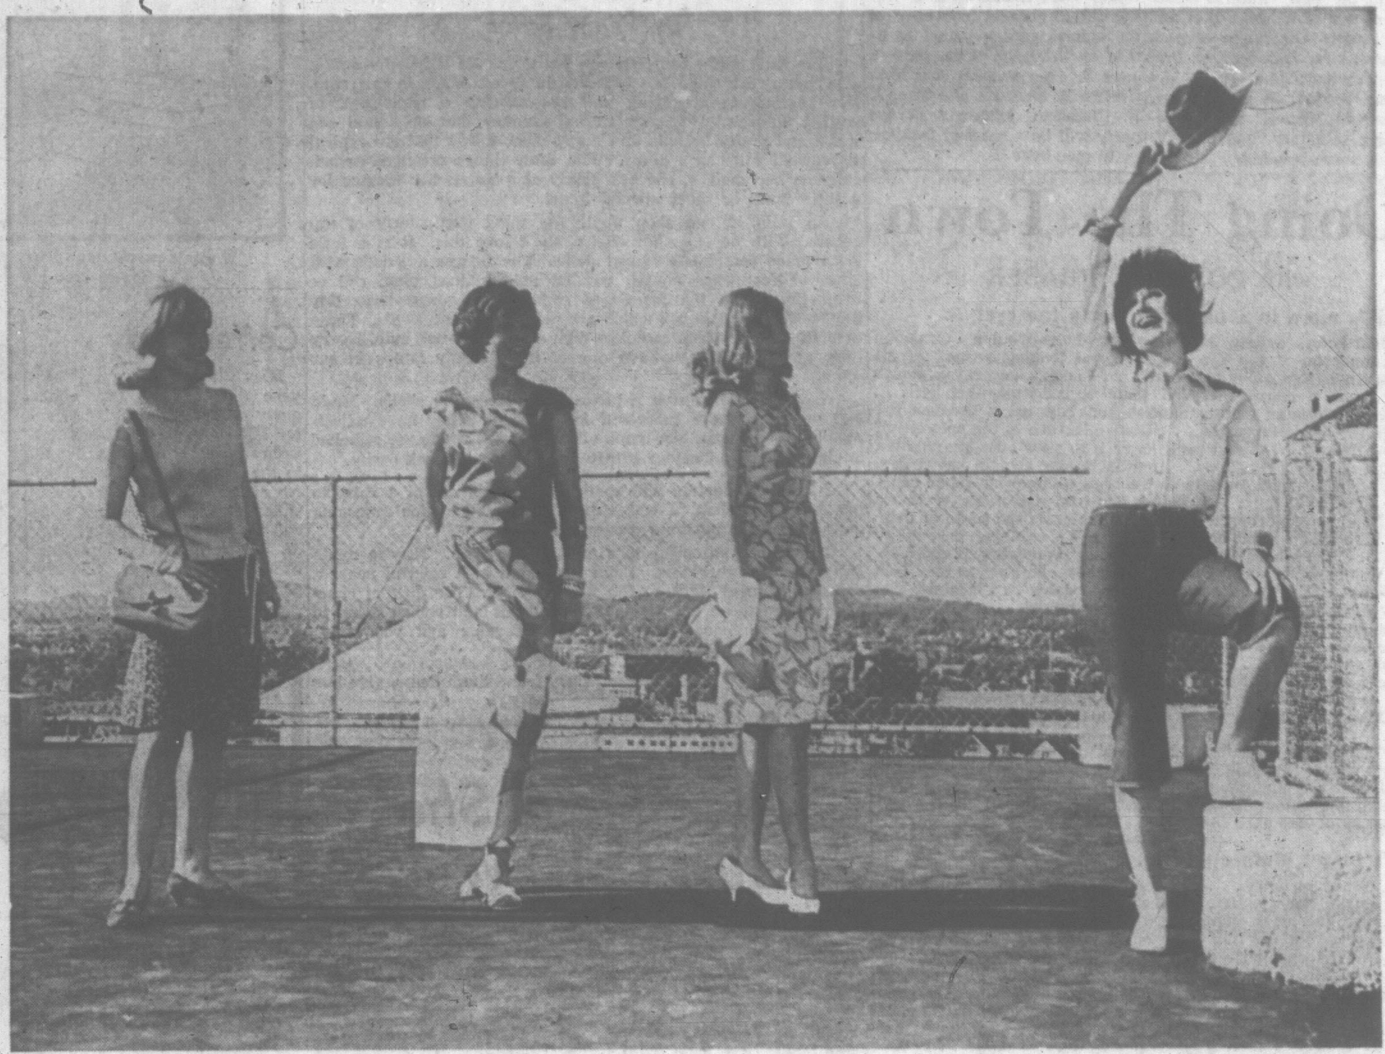
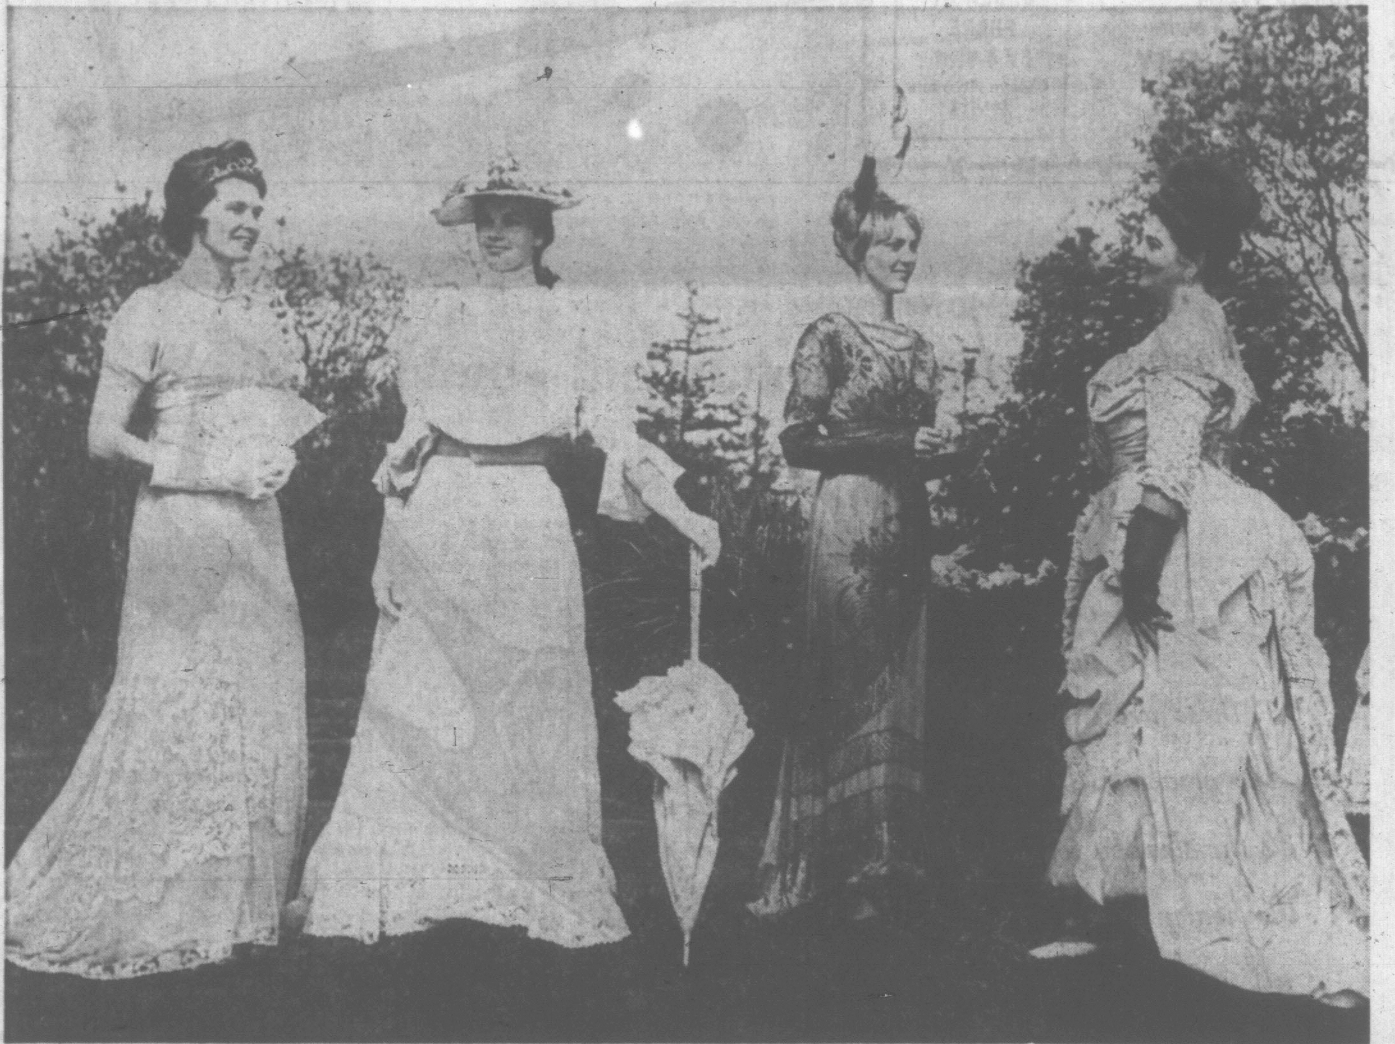
Panorama of Fashions from 1836 to Tomorrow



Rich black velvet and intricate embroidery combine to make the elegant ensemble of 1909 modelled by Mrs. Gordon Lott. An ermine muff and ostrich-plumed hat complete the picture of old-world haute couture.



A capricious Victoria breeze fails to dampen the enthusiasm of this lively quartet as they give a roof-top preview of some of the young-in-heart fashions that will be shown from The Bay. All executive members of the store's Stylette Club, left to right, they are the Misses Donna Jessop, Linda Pue, Sharon Dornan and Elaine Jones. Fellow members will join their ranks next Saturday to show the store's latest in warm weather styles. Fashion co-ordinator for this part of the shows will be Adele Goult Lewis.



How many happy hours spent at balls, soirees and garden parties have these four attractive ensembles known? No one knows, but it's obvious from the way in which each has been preserved, that their original owners cherished every fine detailing and stitch! Stepping back into history for a modelling moment are, left to right, Mrs. Gerald Guest, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. Peter Nordin and Mrs. Hope Newton.

Whether you lean to the historic or the 'way out' in haute couture, there'll be something for everyone at the two fashion shows now being arranged by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service. The shows will be held at 1 and 3 p.m. next Saturday at the McPherson Playhouse, with the first show being officially opened by Mrs. A. W. Toone, wife of Victoria's mayor.

Gowns from the private collections of some of British Columbia's leading families will be seen in the section of the shows which will portray a fashion picture from 1836 to 1926.

One costume, created of black velvet, taffeta and hand-made lace, enhanced with pleated chiffon frills over the hooped skirt, was worn at Queen Victoria's wedding in 1840.

In contrast, the college set will stamp an approving 'camp' appraisal on the zippy fashions for young women that will be shown from The Bay. Thoroughly looking forward to next week's modelling roles are the store's attractive ambassadors, all members of The Bay Stylette Club.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. James McConachy is convener of the afternoon project. In addition to the presentations, the enterprising group has also arranged a bazaar and tea in the Playhouse, these to begin at noon. For canny shoppers, there'll be stalls of delicious home baking, imaginative aprons and a variety of white elephant items.

The group hopes that its newest project will raise sufficient funds to allow it to carry out its main objective this year, that of assisting the new Senior House, organized to provide care for emotionally disturbed children.

Besides being able to meet their friends over a tea table, shop with the knowledge that the family budget is receiving 'loving care' and enjoy a unique fashion show, 'early birds' will be treated to an extra bonus. The first few hundred women at each show will be presented with fresh flowers. Helping with the floral greeting will be Miss Wendy Packard and Victoria's flower girls, Miss Connie Pepper and Miss Virginia Maggs.

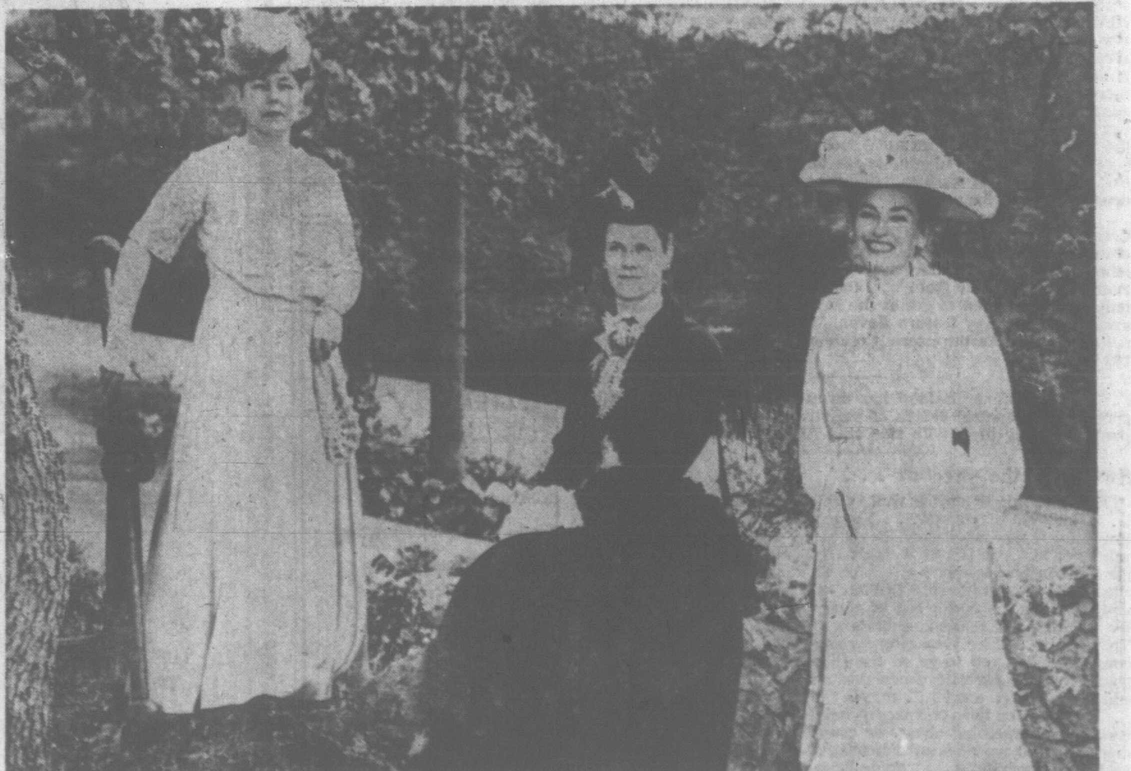
When milady went walking and calling on her friends in the old days it wasn't just a matter of tossing on a sweater and dashing out the front door! Ready for a spot of social calling are, left to right, Miss Grania Learoyd, Mrs. Gordon Cox, Miss Jane Morling and Mrs. T. O'D. Walton, co-ordinator for the period section of the shows.



The women of other years were just as fascinated with the charms of a smart chapeau as their present-day sisters. This trio of models exemplifies this fact in the yester-year 'toppers' with which they complete their outfits. Left to right, they are Mrs. W. H. Barclay, Mrs. R. W. Smeeth and Mrs. Peggy Walton Packard.

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

There's more to a hat than meets the eye! . . .

Just before writing this, we attended the Women's Canadian Club luncheon at the Empress . . . and looking around at all the pretty hats worn by members . . . couldn't help but be struck with what a double-barrelled tonic a becoming hat is! . . . Makes the wearer more animated and interesting because she knows she looks attractive . . . Gives pleasure to the onlooker if she's a female . . . (and we'll leave it to your own imagination what it does to a man!) . . . Anyway, to our certain knowledge, a lot of these delicious hats we've been telling you about came from Miss Frith's . . . including our own delectable creation! . . . Later on we dropped in to Miss Frith's to see some of their new arrivals . . . and believe us, there's something new every day! . . . White hats for summer are now appearing in considerable numbers . . . one of their main characteristics is they look so light and airy . . . featherweight straw . . . organza . . . filmy mohair . . . Many of them are brimmed . . . and one we especially like has a black and white polka dot kerchief covering the crown . . . This could be alternated with other colors to match one's outfit . . . Why don't you drop in and try on some of these new hats? No parking problem . . . Miss Frith's have their own lot off Fisgard St., and a canopy-covered side entrance! . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas Street, 383-7181.

You'll notice that the "little heel" is much in evidence in today's shoes. Ranging from the cuban to the "little girl" look—to go with the youthful trend in the rest of fashion. Buckles, ankle-straps, cutout bows, buttons, laces and T-straps are the hallmarks of 1966 shoe fashion.

Don't forget Mother's Day . . .

A gift of perfume . . . or its sweet-smelling accompaniments like cologne, toilet water, bath oils and dusting powder . . . is just about the nicest compliment anyone can pay to a woman, be she young or old . . . bride or grandmother . . . and a gift we consider particularly appropriate to Mother's Day (which, as you know, falls on May 8th this year) . . . Douglas Pharmacy is famous for French perfumes . . . in fact, there isn't another place in town that carries so complete a stock of all the famous names, or examples of the perfumer's art . . . They have just recently added to their collection the Carven name . . . "Ma Griffe" and "Robe d'un Soir" . . . both of which are delightful . . . Perfume, cologne, powder, bath oil, etc., in this . . . New from Arpege is a non-sticky cream perfume called "A Veil of Arpege" . . . comes in "Arpege" and "My Sin" . . . lovely to rub into the skin . . . There's a special in Millot's Crepe de Chine cologne . . . just $1.35 a bottle (priced to suit a child's Mother's Day budget) . . . And another special for next week only is Arpege cologne and small vial of perfume for $2.80 (regularly $4.50) . . . You'll find every perfume you've ever heard of at Douglas Pharmacy, so give Mother the supreme compliment on her day . . . Douglas Pharmacy, 1672 Douglas Street, EV 5-1541.

The large handbag . . . almost the size of an overnight bag . . . is still a favorite with smart French women. Hermes is promoting a new rounded shape with large inside gussets and double handles.

Suitably suited for springtime . . .

It's suit season again . . . though to tell the truth, here in Victoria you can wear some version of the suit 12 months of the year . . . and always look perfectly turned out for most occasions! . . . which we think is one of the reasons a good suit is such a wise investment . . . Saw some mighty good-looking suits at Wilson's this past week . . . and you know there's always something about a Wilson suit that makes it stand out from the crowd! . . . One light-weight tweed in lilac, brown and beige tones, has a portrait neckline . . . buttons that look like fruit drop candies . . . the jacket is a wee bit longer than usual, which is especially good on this size 16 . . . Another size 16 is a delicious periwinkle blue mohair tweed . . . there's a blue Irish tweed with soft lines, a little more shape than the boxier jackets . . . size 10 . . . A Munrospun tweed in gold and buttery tones . . . nice wearable suit with easy raglan sleeves . . . blue-green-beige . . . size 14 . . . And for now under a coat . . . and all through summer, a handsome Italian pure silk suit beautifull tailored and detailed . . . natural color in sizes 14 and 18 . . . Also a blue and bright green in other sizes . . . Another thing, most of these suits are less expensive than we'd have imagined! . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government Street, 383-7177.

Denim, that "duty" fabric, now is on the go-go with the young and sports-minded set. One New York pair of designers, Gussie and Becky, use denim for a backless evening gown with rhinestone buckles.

Dancing's the greatest . . .

Just recently we were reading how Canadians of all ages are becoming increasingly interested in dancing . . . A darn good thing, too, because dancing is just about the pleasantest and most healthful form of recreation there is! . . . Like everything else though, to really enjoy dancing, you need to know the proper steps . . . which is why a few lessons at Arthur Murray's will prove so rewarding . . . And this is an excellent time to start, on two counts: firstly, because the school is now celebrating its 10th year in Victoria by offering a $50 course for only $10 . . . and secondly, because if you enroll before May 16th you'll have a chance to participate in the forthcoming International Dance Festival . . . (six weeks of parties, prizes and all sorts of fun events!) . . . Getting back to this special $10 course . . . it consists of five private lessons and two social (studio dancing parties) . . . Whether you've never danced before in your life . . . or just want to brush up on new steps . . . this course will work wonders for you . . . And you learn the dances YOU are interested in . . . Everything from rumba to cha-cha-cha to bossa nova . . . tango to foxtrot to waltz to swing . . . Why not phone the studio on Monday? . . . Open from noon to 10 p.m. . . . Arthur Murray School of Dancing, 715 Yates Street, EV 5-1476.

The Jewelry Industry Council reports that in costume and fine jewelry, popular designs for spring and summer include whimsical birds, animal motifs and flower pins. In costume, there is new emphasis on corals—no longer coral color but white.

The orange drink that really IS! . . .

You see and read of all those drinks that taste "just like orange juice" . . . but Northwestern Creamery's Orange Drink REALLY does! . . . Not too surprising really, when you consider it's made from reconstituted orange juice, and is innocent of synthetic flavoring . . . What's more, it's chock-full of vitamins A and C . . . provides all your family's daily vitamin requirements . . . at the very low price of only 25c for a full 40-ounce quart . . . Orange Drink is all ready to enjoy the moment your Northwestern milkman leaves it fresh at your door . . . one of the most convenient, "instant" foods we know of . . . And this home delivery is an advantage not to be underrated, either . . . Not only to ensure product freshness, but to save your time and energy . . . No lugging bulky cartons or bottles from the store . . . Just another reason why you should have Northwestern Creamery home delivery (if you don't already have it) . . . Milk, cream, cottage cheese, butter, Orange Drink . . . plus many other dairy products delivered fresh to your home daily, or however often you want them . . . for mere pennies . . . Lamp Made of Shells For Delightful Decor

By Penny Saver

The little girl's bedroom can be her castle if it's dressed in a perky, girlish way. My little cousin spends hours in her room. Her pastime is arranging and re-arranging a triple-shelf of stuffed animals. Not only stuffed animals, but dolls and sea shells and pretty baskets and many other things that are typical 10-year-old collector's items. With these things arranged artistically on her shelves, she has plenty of room on her dresser for a little lamp or other special items.

An item in one shop made me think particularly of my cousin. With her love for shells, she'd love this. It is a little lamp made completely of sea shells. The figures are dolls with long, ballroom-type gowns, painted pale mauve, pink, red or turquoise. Even the faces are shells. The gowns have tiny bright-colored appliques which are actually minute shells. These wonders sell for $2.98, complete with a small 110-volt bulb. Every little girl will love to have one of these dainty lamps in her room.

Another little item is a turtle made of cowrie shells. Made in Vancouver, these gems sell for 98 cents. They have adjustable legs and heads, also made of these shells, which are attached to pipe cleaners. They're sturdy too, and won't break easily.

I know youngsters will really get a thrill out of a Russian import in this shop. I was simply fascinated by the moveable parts that make up these ornaments.

These are Metroshko dolls and sell for $2.95. They're made of vinyl, in three pieces. Each is dressed in a colorful peasant costume, painted right on the molded vinyl. The distinct characteristic of these dolls is that their heads and bodies swing in opposite directions. They're simply adorable and youngsters will have hours of fun with them.

If you want to know where Penny found these items, give her a call at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Poor Mom! She Just Can't Win

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a wedding at a small country church. At the beginning of the ceremony an usher came down the aisle with a mink stole over his arm, and with a grand gesture draped it over the pew where the bride's mother was to sit, after which he escorted the bride's mother to that pew. It looked to me like she wanted to be sure everybody knew she had a new mink stole. The family is not that well off and can hardly afford a mink. What is your opinion of this whole vulgar performance?

WAS THERE

DEAR WAS: Perhaps in an effort to be less conspicuous, the bride's mother sent her mink stole down the aisle with the usher rather than wear it herself. Alas, poor woman, she couldn't win. It seems her stole stole the show anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My doctor told me some months ago that I should have a little surgery. It's nothing serious and need not be done immediately, but he advised me not to put it off too long. I find myself postponing it for the silliest reason. Please don't laugh at me when I tell you why. I am afraid of what I might say while I'm under the anesthetic. The doctor belongs to our club and we have many mutual friends, and it could get very embarrassing if I talked too much. Can you help me?

AFRAID OF THE TRUTH

DEAR AFRAID: Go ahead and have the surgery and don't worry. Most doctors listen attentively to their patients babbling during their conscious moments, but will happily tune them out when they're under. Besides, the chances are he'll be much too occupied at the time to recall what he hears.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to invite a boy who is in the navy to our senior ball, but he may not be in town to go to it. If he's not in town for the ball, I don't want to be left sitting without a date. But if he IS in town, he's the one I want to go with. IS there any way to work this?

SAILOR'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: If you are really his "girl", you shouldn't be so determined to go to the ball, knowing your sailor won't be having one. But if he's just another boy friend, and you know a boy who'd come to your rescue at the last minute, should the sailor shove off, ask him.

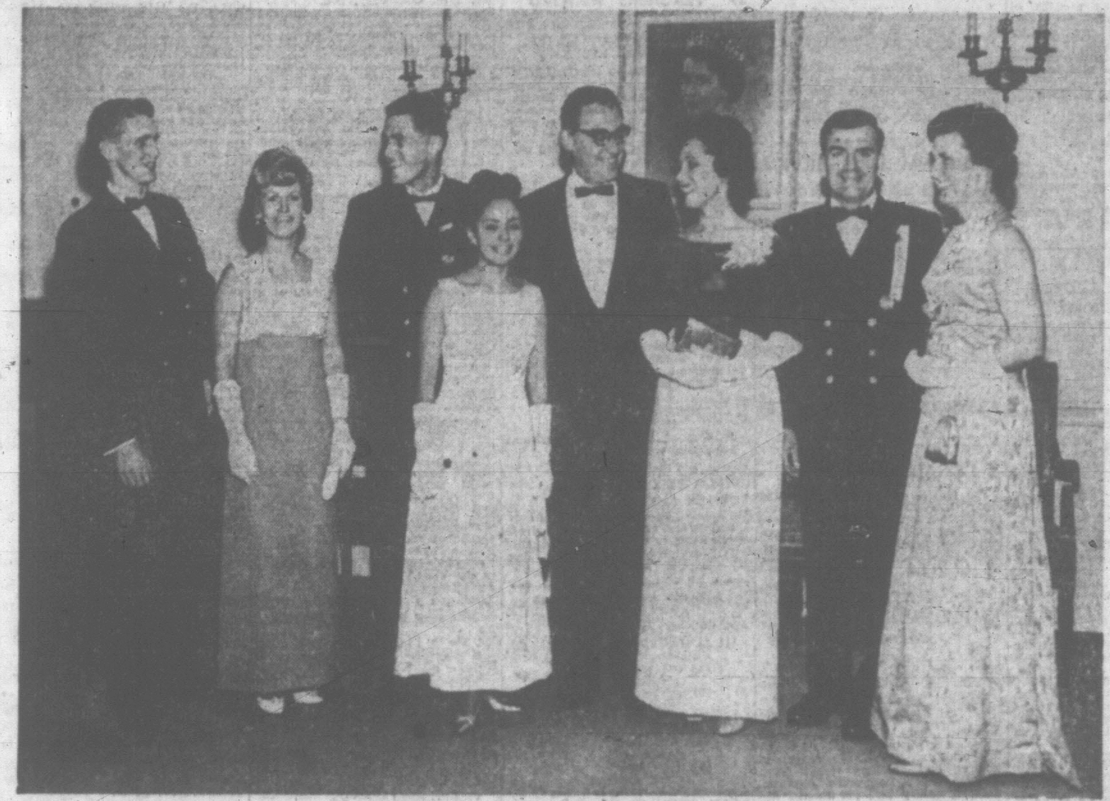
Like many a good ball before it, the 51st annual Firemen's Ball, held at the Empress Hotel ballroom, Friday evening, started festivities with a grand march. In the foreground can be seen the busbies of the pipers from the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment, who piped the gay gathering into formation. (Bill Halkett photos.)



Among the hundreds of guests that crowded the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Friday evening, for the Firemen's Ball was this attractive group. Left to right, they are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Irish, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kentop of Seattle and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gillies.

Latest Haute Couture Uses 'Architecture'

Architecture is a word which was formerly confined to buildings. Not any more. Fashion designers have claimed it for their own, to describe the new uncluttered carved lines which are "the look" for spring.

This "look" was shown in styles for all ages at the fashion show presented during the tea, Wednesday afternoon, of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

Classically simple yet flattering in its smooth lines and small detail was a biscuit-toned suit, curved in slightly at the waist and featuring a scoop collared neckline. The underblouse of the outfit was in deeper tone.

Navy, the "in" color for the year, came alive in a simply-styled coat, which topped a fitted double-knit suit of vibrant coral, with three-quarter-length sleeves and a high neckline.

Still on very simple lines, but with a flair especially for the young was a coat of white, shining plastic fabric, styled with standing collar set far back on the neckline.

It topped a perky little sheath of white with blue polka-dots. sleeveless and with a high neckline. Also for the young top was turquoise and empire-purple, splashed with a pink-mauve design. Highlight was a "keyhole" cut-out giving a naughty look to the high neckline.

For the sand-box set was a demure little denim outfit, featuring the London Look. The top was turquoise and empire-line. The skirt was flirty pleats showing pink, sand beige and turquoise.

The little model Shirley Warren also appeared in an A-line frock of white cotton, ruffled at the bottom with flounces of red and white calico. Completing the outfit was a tiny milk-maid cap in red fabric.

AWASH WITH COLOR

An artist's palette of color was featured in an after-five jacket-dress of all-the-colors-of-the-rainbow print silk. The sheath dress was sculptured in line to flatter the figure.

Black, the color of sophisticates, was featured in an outfit of skirt and overblouse. The skirt was slim and slightly gathered at the waistline. The overblouse was free-swinging, with detail of sequins at the neckline high in front and low in back.

Mrs. Adele Lewis commented on the fashions from the Bay. She was introduced by Mrs. C. C. Warren, who in turn was welcomed by president Mrs. L. J. Bowering.

Another featured attraction of the tea, convened by Mrs. J. Neuls and Mrs. D. L. Howe, was a table displaying exquisite ceramics made by the CARS patients. Creating the floral arrangements which turned the First United Church Fellowship Hall into a riot of color were honorary second vice-president Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. G. J. Jackson, Mrs. W. Redford and Mrs. J. Meek. The event realized $392.

Models for the fashion show were little Shirley Warren, Lorraine McConnell, Florence Walther. Doris Usher, Maude Parks, Mrs. L. G. Moore, and Mrs. Richard Egan.

Greeting guests with the president was honorary first vice-president, Mrs. E. C. Carson and presiding at the refreshment tables were members of the auxiliary.

Plan Spring Tea

The Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Anglican Church will hold its annual money-raising event next Wednesday afternoon. The affair will take the form of a spring tea and will be held in the upper parish hall from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

In addition to afternoon tea, guests will also be able to shop at stalls offering a variety of home-baked items, books, "white elephants" and other articles. A new feature at this year's event is a candy stall. This is in charge of the Junior Auxiliary.

POOL OPENING FACES PROBLEMS . . . . . . THE MODELS 'WORE BLUE'

Scene Was Complete—Including 'Hurricane'

Summer is supposedly on its way—but someone forgot to tell the weatherman.

The setting for the opening of the Lord Simcoe Apartments new outdoor swimming pool resembled a scene straight from the south Pacific: The backdrop was a Tahitian hut; exotic floral arrangements in brilliant hues and colors were placed about the pool; they even had their own hurricane.

The last was unscheduled. However it added its own note of funny and fractious interest to the affair.

Hon. W. N. Chant had to take several good healthy whacks at the wind-blown ribbon, instead of the usual snip, to pronounce the pool officially open. Blunt scissors didn't help the situation, either.

The breeze blowing wasn't exactly hurricane force . . . but it was cold! At the beginning of the program, little Hawaiian dancer Carolyn Fraser's "Lovely Hula Hands" were in danger of turning blue, as workers had a mad scramble trying to reconnect the electricity line for the music, which some unsuspecting guest had tripped over on his way to the shelter of a wall or rock.

PROVED TOO MUCH

Two of the potted palm trees stood up admirably during the fashion show which followed the opening, but the wind finally proved too much for them—at the end, with a little sigh they keeled over, fronds dripping gracefully into the pool.

Chilly as it was, the sight of the summer styles imported straight from Hawaii presented at the fashion show, sponsored by the Victoria Social Credit Constituency, were enough to make all forget the chill wind, and think of warm skies and sunny seas.

Color them brave, the models who walked about the pool to show the latest in styles for the forthcoming season, accompanied by chattering teeth.

Making up for the cold were the flamboyant and vibrant colors in the swinging beach shifts, be-ruffled and oh, so short. You could almost hear the pounding of the surf when a model walked out in the latest of "exotica" in swimwear — a two-piece swim suit in vivid black and white tiger stripes, topped with a loose-fitting "cage" of bars and bars of black nylon, from high neckline to hip.

Pink chiffon formed an evening outfit which was closely fitted at the bodice and flared to a full floating skirt. Contrast was a sash in bright pink and added interest was pearlized detail at the narrow straps.

Ruffles are still around—especially in one shift shown, of crisp white, with four ruffles in bright green, blue and cerise print banding the hemline and a single flounce at the neckline. This was shown in both full-length and short styles.

Beach-coats were bright with jungle colors, as were the coolie jackets in bright tones, teamed with solid color slims.

Almost a show were the fashions worn by guests seated and standing about the pool. Millinery proved to be a bit of a problem, as more than one woman can testify who saw her wide-brimmed picture hat go sailing into the nearest shrub. Wide-skirted dresses were another difficulty—modesty in a full skirt is hard to preserve in a gusty gale.

During the serving of refreshments, no one needed to resort to the old trick of blowing on their coffee to cool it. Nature did the job.

However, in spite of the minor mishaps, there wasn't a person there who didn't enjoy himself and in the main, they pronounced it a rousing success. Bea Douglas was co-ordinator and convener, and Janet Pugh, Vancouver, commented on the fashions.

Modelling the styles from Roma's Ladies Wear were Laurie Thomas, Susan Edwards, Florence Walther, Diane Fitzsimmons, Wendy Tebo, Chris Henderson, Gail Brandon and Mrs. Carol Lang.

Donation Tea Held For Primate's Fund

The sum of $400, realized from the recent donation tea of St. Mark's Church Guild, Salt Spring Island, will be donated to the Anglican Primate's World Relief Fund.

Guild president Mrs. Cecil Springford greeted the guests in the Salt Spring Golf Club. Presiding at the refreshment table, centred with an arrangement of white lilac and pink and white tulips, were Mrs. E. W. McQuarrie, Ganges United Church; Mrs. Bob Marcotte, Catholic Women's League; Mrs. R. B. Horsefield, Mrs. G. H. Holmes, Mrs. Austin Wilson, Mrs. R. T. Cook, Mrs. Dorothy Hook, and Miss Doris Anderson.

Acting as serviteurs were Mrs. P. G. James, Mrs. J. B. Acland, Mrs. J. H. Deyell, Mrs. D. K. Wilson, H. Stafford, Mrs Joe Pitts, Mrs. D. Ross and Mrs. Dennis Seward.

St. Mary's and St. George's Guilds supervised the home baking table and Mrs. F. I. Atkins and Mrs. V. A. Bishop convened the treasure trove.

Mrs. Maurice Atkins was general convener.

The Scientific Approach to Hairdressing
INTRODUCING THE NEWEST DISCOVERY IN PERMANENT WAVING MARGO

A short while ago two noted Bio-Chemists proved that Vitamin A caused cell modulations in hair, different to the action caused by the usual acids used in permanent waves. As soon as these findings were corroborated by other independent Scientists, REDKEN LABORATORIES INC. formulated a new permanent wave called PERSUADE. They reduced the amount of acid and added natural Vitamin A.

Before marketing PERSUADE, it was sent out to members of REDKEN'S HAIR RESEARCH DIVISION all across the continent, including MARGO BEAUTY STUDIO. The results were amazing. PERSUADE curls quickly, efficiently, and with less damage to the hair than any other acid type permanent wave ever tested.

PERSUADE is now available at all three MARGO BEAUTY STUDIOS. Until May 14th only, PERSUADE will be available at a special introductory price. Take advantage of this offer and gain the benefits of THE REDKEN SCIENTIFIC METHOD OF HAIRDRESSING.

8 CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my many friends who extended their sympathy and kindness during the illness and recent passing of my husband, and to the nurses and doctors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital for their devoted attention. Special thanks to Rev. Dr. A. K. McMinn and Mrs. McMinn, Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons, Rev. R. J. D. Morris and the members of the Victoria Presbytery.—Mrs. Mary McPherson, 837 Oliver St.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors, friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy in the loss of a dear wife and mother. Also to Dr. T. W. A. Gray, nurses and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital.—Davis Clarke, daughter Kathleen and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BRANDER—In loving memory of Garry George Brander, who passed away October 30th, 1965.

I seem to see in the soft, dim light
A face I loved the best,
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
I miss you no less as the time passes on
Than I did on the day of your going.
For absence can never close the door of my heart
And the lamp of my love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the wide world;
Your love the best to recall;
For no one on earth could take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!
AND YOU NEED OURS!

Generally, people think selling is a gift only exceptional individuals are blessed with. This is a misconception! A salesman is not born—he is made. There's adequate evidence in our rapidly growing organization because more than 90% of our representatives never sold anything in their lives but are now enjoying the income of professionals. Our company has the means and experience to show you how to become an independent businessman; how to double your present income; how to activate or reactivate those precious gifts nature provided you with, but which you never used because you thought they are nonexistent.

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE

If you would like to find out whether or not you are suitable for a professional career, submit your application today. We will test you, train you, assist you until your success is evident. You have nothing to lose—but everything to gain. We want you to be successful because your success is our business. Most of all—you'll enjoy being with us. All members of our organization do. Write in confidence to Victoria Press, Box 344.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

One test of a really great bridge player is the ability to look ahead in the play. Here is a hand that helped the famous Four Aces team win the Vanderbilt Cup some 30-odd years ago.

Opening lead—♥K.

The game was team of four and both South players reached six spades on identical bidding and the play for the first three tricks was the same. The king of hearts was opened and taken by South's ace. Then South attempted to cash his ace and king of diamonds only to have West ruff the second diamond.

When the late Sherman Stearns of the Aces sat West he played a low club at trick four. South won with dummy's ace, ruffed a club in his hand, ruffed a low diamond, ruffed back to his hand, ruffed his last low diamond with the queen of trumps and eventually lost a trump trick to East's jack to be down one.

At the other table West attempted to cash a heart trick. Mike Gottlieb who sat South ruffed in his hand, ruffed a low diamond with dummy's deuce of spades, cashed dummy's queen of spades and led a third heart. East showed out. Mike spread his hand and announced, "Squeeze for balance."

The opponents made him play the hand out but they had no defense. Mike ran off all his trumps. He discarded down to the ten of hearts and ace-jack of clubs in dummy before leading his last trump. This forced West to discard down to one club in order to keep a high heart. Mike discarded the ten of hearts from dummy and poor East had to discard down to one club also in order to keep from establishing Mike's nine of diamonds.

Quite a few players would have recognized the squeeze from the South seat. I wonder how many would have seen it coming from the West seat and ruined it as Sherman did with his club lead at trick four.

Presbyterian Study Shows Many Ailing

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Emotional illness is a threat to the minister and his wife because of the increasingly complex and demanding nature of their work in a period of severe social change, a church study shows.

Results of initial research by a committee of the Presbyterian Church in the United States were released at the denomination's general assembly here. The assembly approved further study of the problem.

Findings covered about 2,000 of the 4,000 ministers in the predominantly southern church.

The survey showed:

—Nearly one-fourth of the ministers and their wives either have had psychiatric care or counselling, or they would like psychiatric help.

—Mental or emotional illness is as prevalent among the ministers and their families as it is among others in the same sociological category.

On the basis of replies from 2,091 ministers and 1,889 wives of ministers surveyed, the research showed that approximately 10 per cent have been or are "in critical condition mentally and emotionally."

Teacher Gets Nod For Scottish Study

BROWNELL
... leaves for Edinburgh

A distinguished American educator who has been teaching at the University of Victoria for the past year has received approval from the U.S. Office of Education for a project to study international teaching methods.

Dr. William A. Brownell, a visiting professor of education at Uvic, will leave Sunday for Edinburgh to co-ordinate preparations for a detailed study involving 2,000 Scottish school children.

While details are still being worked out, the cost of the project to U.S. authorities is estimated at $30,000.

The program will contrast results of conventional methods of teaching arithmetic with results from a European approach using what is called the "Cuisenaire method."

RODS, COLORS

Cuisenaire, used in the Vancouver school system and in some other parts of Canada, introduces children to arithmetical concepts through the use of rods of various lengths and colors. Traditional methods rely more on counting with numbers considered in the abstract.

The tests being developed by Dr. Brownell will be used at the start of the school year in mid-September. Before that time, Dr. Brownell will develop the details in Scotland and return to the University of California at Berkeley to teach summer session in August and early September.

He was Berkeley's dean of education until 1962 when he turned to research full-time. He came to lecture at Uvic last September.

Cleric to Celebrate 35 Years Service

Rev. Cyril Venables, vicar of St. Mary the Virgin, Metchosin, will celebrate the 35th anniversary of his ordination Sunday.

Special services will be held in the 93-year-old church at 11 a.m. and 12:15 p.m.

Born at Enderby, B.C., Mr. Venables was ordained in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, on May 1, 1931.

St. Lawrence Fantasyland Planned

A Victoria businessman will develop a $60,000 children's fantasyland by this summer on an eight-acre site in the St. Lawrence River's Thousand Islands vacation area.

Alfred Pettersen, operator of Wooded Wonderland at Beaver Lake Park, said today about 60 life-size story book characters will be involved in the project which is being built for the operators of a 350-foot viewing tower nearby.

The Tousand Islands Skydeck opened last year on Hill Island, close to the Ivy Lea Bridge at the Canada-U.S. border. It provides a view for 40 miles.

About 16 people, including a sculpturer, fiberglas expert, moulder and carpenter are involved in the local firm, Never Never Land (B.C.) Ltd., which brings to life scenes from the immortal fairy tales through life-like rubber figures.

ATTRACTIONS

Among attractions at the new fantasyland, expected to open in June, will be a 20-foot tall replica of the Skydeck with a slide. There will also be a shoe, from The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe, through which children will be able to climb and crawl.

The fantasy figures are designed by Elek Imredy of Vancouver, a Hungarian who fled to Canada after the 1956 revolution.

John Andre of Victoria is designing the new project and another local man, Maurice Borrely, is in charge of moulding the rubber figures from the fiberglas originals.

75 CHARACTERS

The local firm got the job of creating the Ontario exhibit because of know-how developed through other projects and having skilled workmen, said Mr. Pettersen. It has moulds to produce 75 story book characters.

Mr. Pettersen's firm already operates a children's playground in Tacoma, Wash., and is in the process of designing a fantasyland in Spokane.

United Appeal Poster Contest Dates Extended

Closing date for the Community Chest United Appeal poster contest has been extended from April 30 to May 16.

The date posters must be at Community Chest headquarters, 1951 Cook, has been postponed because a number of schools reported unfinished entries, some caused by influenza among students.

The contest is open to all grade seven, eight and nine students in lower Vancouver Island schools.

The posters, to be judged by Art Gallery director Colin Graham, should depict some aspect of work of the Community Chest or its 22 member agencies.

First prize is $15; second prize, $10, and third to seventh prizes, $1 each.

Victorians Can Enjoy Cakewalk

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club's high-rise Centennial fruitcake will occupy centre-stage in Centennial Square in less than a month.

The 12-foot-high, 6½-foot-wide cake and a half will be sold sliver-by-sliver to the public from May 23 to Labor Day.

Proceeds will go to the club's Lake Cowichan camp for handicapped children.

The cake, designed in Vancouver by Vancouver School of Art student Kathy Gairns, is being assembled here, and will be ready, say the Kiwanis master bakers, for May 23 when Victorians will take the cakewalk to Centennial Square for the Victoria Day defrosting.

Two Cars Demolished; Pair Injured

Two drivers suffered only minor injuries after demolishing their cars in separate collisions early today.

Most spectacular accident occurred at Thetis Lake overpass on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said David Valleau, Millstream Road, flipped his new sedan when he hit the bridge driving north.

He apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. The driver suffered cuts to his head and knees.

In satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital is Brent Ewing, 26, of 1354 Craigdarroch, who lost control of his car and hit a rock wall in the 600 block, Foul Bay Road, police said.

He suffered a wrist injury and facial cuts.

Theatre Revival Speaker's Theme

The popular revival of interest in the live theatre will be the theme of an address to the Victoria branch of the English Speaking Union on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Douglas Building Cafeteria, Elliott and Douglas Streets,

The speaker will be the artistic director of the Bastion Theatre, Peter Mannering.

Careless Drivers

Fined for careless driving in central court Friday:

Alan E. Turner, HMCS Naden, drove into a ditch on Rosebank Road, fined $35 for careless driving, $25 no driver's licence, $15, minor with no insurance.

Harold Matthews, 2637 Fernwood, fishtailed around corner at View and Broad, Jan. 28, fined $20.

Ralf Hoitz, 1144 Empress, collision April 6, Pandora and Blanshard, fined $40.

John N. Russell, 3436 Whittier, rear-end collision March 29 at Douglas and Garbally, fined $40.

Floyd M. Sagmoen, 3740 Carey, near-end collision April 4 at Government and Fisgard, fined $40.

Anne Vroon, 1539 Gladstone, hit parked car on Shelbourne near Bay April 2, fined $35.

Water Board Takes Over Boring Job

Greater Victoria Water District will take over the Sooke tunnel project.

Chief commissioner R. A. Upward told the water board Friday that Intermountain Construction Ltd., hired 2½ years ago to drive the five-mile tunnel from Sooke Lake to Japan Gulch, is financially unable to continue.

He recommended the district take over the project keeping the same skilled crews.

Mr. Upward said the district could force the contractor into bankruptcy but warned that such a move would halt work on the tunnel temporarily and could result in the loss of the crews now working.

"Miners are hard to come by," he said. "They are well paid and independent. Once the crews are lost we shall have great difficulty in replacing them."

PURCHASE MACHINERY

To keep the work going — the district will take over the project Monday morning — the district will purchase $54,000 worth of machinery from Intermountain and push on with the project.

So far the tunnel, being bored from both ends, is 6,500 feet inside the mountain it burrows beneath. It has 19,200 feet yet to go with an operational deadline set for 1970.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis asked if any thought had been given to abandoning the project.

Mr. Upward said he didn't think abandonment was a serious consideration.

"I don't think it's that tough," he said. "We always planned to have the tunnel in operation by 1970 and I think we can do that."

NOT UNDER $85

When board members asked if a new contract can be called for now that Intermountain is failing in its contract, they were told they would not be able to get a new bid under $85 a foot.

At present the tunnel is costing $69 a foot.

The trouble-stricken mole — again sidelined as the tunnel drives through soft-shale terrain — will remain on the job for at least one more chance to redeem itself.

Mr. Upward said it is essential that work continue without a break on the tunnel before spiralling costs — already the nemesis of Intermountain — delay the project even further.

INCREASED COSTS

"Increasing construction costs are the worst hazard of all," he said.

"Costs are going up faster than interest on the money the district has to pay for the work. The sooner the work is done, the cheaper it will probably be," he added.

Several times in the past Mr. Upward has stressed that the $55 a foot at which Intermountain took the contract was far too low to be practical.

Theft Trial Adjourned

Trial of Walter McKay, 3246 Oliver, charged with theft by conversion, was adjourned in central court Friday to May 16 for judgment.

It is alleged he took $1,566 from Debonair Distributors, 943 Yates, by failing to pay accounts receivable after taking over the business from a Vancouver concern Nov. 15.

Defence counsel Herbert Matthews argued all monies alleged by the prosecution have been accounted for during the trial.

He added the Vancouver owners of the company owe his client "many hundreds of dollars" in unpaid commissions.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

The World-Cup Football Championship is to be held in England this summer, and on July 1st an omnibus series of stamps advertising the event will be released by Britain and twenty of the colonies.

Two denominations will comprise the sets for each of the latter territories — a low value for ordinary postage, and a higher one which apparently will represent the air-mail rate.

The design for the colonies shows a football, the cup, and the Queen's portrait, against a background of the Globe.

Exceptions will be Brunei, Federation of S. Arabia, and New Hebrides, on which the Queen's likeness will be replaced by the Sultan's portrait, the Federation Crest, and "E II R" (or "R.F.") symbols respectively. (New Hebrides, being a Condominium jointly governed by Britain and France, always has two sets of stamps running concurrently — one inscribed in English — the other in French.)

Purple and green will be the color scheme for the low values, and brown and blue-green for the higher denominations. The total cost of the series will fortunately not be out of reach of the average collector.

Cyprus, on April 25, issued three stamps (15, 25, and 100 mils) to commemorate the discovery of the body of St. Barnabas. A limited number of souvenir sheets depicting the discovery were also released.

East Africa is issuing an attractive set of four stamps to advertise its tourist attractions. The 30c shows a game park lodge on the Sereneti Plains. The 50c illustrates the famous Murchison Falls in Uganda; the 1sh 30c depicts Lake Nakura, with its vast concentration of Flamingoes; while the 2sh 50c features a leaping sword-fish, engaged on an angler's line.

Another set from the same Territory, with denominations as above, will shortly appear to mark the 20th Anniversay of UNESCO.

The special souvenir sheet of British Honduras, mentioned in this column recently, which was produced on the old original press used in 1840 to print the Penny Black, will probably not be too common.

The Crown Agents report that the printing was extremely slow and laborious, and every sheet as it came off the press was immediately snapped up by the public.

TAXIMAN'S TAX IS TAXING

A taxi driver gave 15 per cent of his income to chairity. On this gift, as well as an additional gift of $2,000, he paid no taxes. On the remainder of his income, he paid a tax of 10 per cent, which amounted to $650. What was his income? This is just a puzzle, folks; it isn't intended to reflect earnings or tax rates anywhere.

Time limit is set at two minutes.

Answer: The taxpayer's income was $10,000.

What was the object in question? It's easy enough to find out. Simply draw a continuous line from dot 1 to dot 2 to dot 3, and so on, until you have used up all the dots. Where two numbers are beside one dot, use the dot for both.

From a certain sum Jean Deau took away a third and put in its place $50. From the resulting sum he took away one-fourth and put $70 in its place. He then had $130. What was the original sum?

Answer: The original sum was forty-five dollars.

CAN YOU FIGURE IT OUT?

Folks are still talking about the late William Strong of Peoria, Ill., who reputedly computed figures mentally with the speed of an adding machine. Merchants are said to have employed Strong to compute invoices and tax reports instead of using a mechanical calculator.

At one time, Mr. Strong's ability as a lightning calculator is said to have been tested with the following problem, the answer to which he correctly announced almost immediately.

In a military training camp there were 1¾ horses for every 5½ men. Altogether there were 4,319 legs of both men and horses—one man having lost his right leg during the war. Every horse eats ⅓ of a ton of hay a week. If the hay costs $6 a ton, what is the weekly bill for hay?

Solution: The answer is 1,320 men with 2 legs equals 2,640 legs; 420 horses with 4 legs equals 1,680 legs. This totals 4,320 legs; less one amputee's leg equals 4,319 legs. Horse herd eats 140 tons of hay at $6 amounting to $840 a week for hay.

EXACTING TEST FOR CLOCK WATCHERS

Visitors to city hall noticed that two clocks in the mayor's office both registered the same time at noon. It so happens that one clock gains, the other loses one minute an hour. Assuming that both clocks continue at this rate, how long will it be before they register the same time again?

Answer: Three hundred and sixty hours later they will both indicate six o'clock.

ADD YOUR TWO CENTS WORTH?

Victor found two pennies in a street. These combined with pennies he already had in his pocket made five times as many pennies as he would have had if instead he had lost two pennies. How many pennies did he have before he found the two cents?

Solution: He had three cents to start.

Group Pleads For Subsidy To Cut Costs

DUNCAN — The newly-elected chairman of the Cowichan Valley summer school committee Friday called for a provincial government subsidy for transportation for summer school students.

Harold Whitfield said summer school fees in the Cowichan Velley are $35 a course compared to only $10 a course in Victoria because of the increased transportation costs.

He said the committee's plea for a subsidy will be taken to the government.

Mr. Whitfield said the Cowichan district had a $1,600 transportation bill last summer.

This is what boosted the cost to students and parents.

He said secondary students could work to earn their fees.

His concern was mainly for the younger students.

It was a shame if cost kept away students who could benefit from summer school, he said.

"The cost should be a concern of the government."

Summer school saved the taxpayers money by enabling students to pass into the next grade without repeating.

Mr. Whitfield estimated summer school successes last year saved $15,000 locally.

The school is a joint effort by the boards of Cowichan, Ladysmith, Lake Cowichan and the Gulf Islands.

Ladysmith and Lake Cowichan will operate their own elementary courses this year.

Trustee Alex Smith, Ladysmith, said this would not only save on transportation costs but probably increase attendance.

Cowichan Summer School this year will run from July 6 to August 5.

It will again be under the direction of Alan Mole.

SMALL DOG, BIG BARK

NANAIMO—A small cairn terrier owned by Mrs. Ed Blackburn will receive a top award from the B.C. SPCA for saving the life of another dog owned by Mrs. Blackburn's daughter, Mrs. Ken White.

Mrs. White's dog, a Kerry Blue terrier, fell into an unused water hole Feb. 13 and the cairn drew attention to its plight by barking, and the larger dog was saved from drowning.

The presentation will be made Monday.

LAKE COWICHAN HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

LAKE COWICHAN—Fire gutted a five-room house here early this morning.

Owner Ivan Bergstrom was not home at the time. Lake Cowichan RCMP were still trying to locate Bergstrom this morning.

A faller, he apparently lived alone in the house on Cottonwood Street.

Neighbors were wakened by an explosion about 2:30 a.m.

When the volunteer fire department arrived the house was engulfed by flames.

Fire Chief Bob Weismiller said: "The explosion was probably caused by a build-up of gases and then the windows blowing out.

"The cause of the fire is unknown, but the house was pretty well gutted."

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Inquiry Ordered Into Drowning

COWICHAN BAY — An inquiry has been ordered into the drowning death Thursday of Irish seaman Patrick Garvey.

Garvey lost his life in a boating accident near the CNR wharf at Cowichan Bay.

Coroner Dr. Robert R. Wilson said Friday police investigations are continuing.

RCN divers from Esquimalt recovered Garvey's body Friday.

The accident happened Thursday evening when Garvey was one of a party of four which went out in the bay in a 10-foot rowboat.

Duncan RCMP said the boat apparently shipped water suddenly and the men were tipped into the sea.

Garvey was dragged down by his heavy work clothes. He couldn't swim.

The other members of the party, all crew from the British freighter Halpalyce, were Brian Stringfellow, David Newson and Robert Paterson.

The way to cure the drink problem at friendly cove on Vancouver Island's west coast is to build a road there, says a visiting West Coast Indian.

"The people there are too bottled up," said Frank Allen, a member of the Stillaguamish Tribe near Seattle. "I was there two years ago and I know how isolated it is. People drink because there is nowhere to go."

Mr. Allen was commenting on the action of Magistrate William Tasker of Tahsis in cutting off liquor supplies to Indians at Friendly Cove on Tahsis Inlet because of recent deaths in which liquor was involved.

"This is not the way to solve the problem," said Mr. Allen. "The way to cure it is to build a highway so the people can get in and out by land."

At present friendly cove is served by two ferry boats, three times a week, and a daily airline service when weather permits.

South Malahat 4-H council plans to set up a junior leaders' council next winter.

Its purpose will be to act as a liaison between council and 4-H members and provide specialized and advanced training in farming methods and economics.

"It will also create more interest for the older members," said Alan Barker, chairman of the South Malahat 4-H council.

He said at the age of 17 and 18 members seem to reach a peak of achievement and often lose interest.

The junior council will provide them with added responsibility and hold their interest longer in 4-H activities.

161 A Tragic Number

What sort of a number is 161?

Not so big if you're talking about dollars. A long time if you're talking about years.

Tragically large if you're talking about children and safety. This is the number of children who died accidentally in B.C. last year.

The B.C. Safety Council has declared Sunday Child Safety Day, an occasion to underline for parents the need for training children to safety.

Besides the 161 children who died in mishaps in 1965, a total of 9,326 under 15 were injured and taken to hospital.

Fire accounted for the biggest share of the death toll. Others were caused by drowning, traffic, poisoning and through unattended machinery.

The council is urging adults to see that loose matches, inflammable liquids, pesticides, mothballs and drugs are kept out of the reach of children.

Other tips include taking extra care looking around the car when starting it up, ensuring toys don't have sharp edges and making sure children know the hazards of playing near water, around home or on the playground.

Labor Spurns Disobedience Campaign Plan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rebels turned into rabbits at the windup session of the Canadian Labour Congress Friday, spurning an earlier clamor for a national campaign of civil disobedience against court injunctions.

A resolution condemning the use of injunctions by employers to limit strike picket lines and calling on CLC officers for a "strong and militant campaign" against injunction laws was adopted unanimously after a brief debate.

There was no mention of the "civil disobedience" theme sounded Tuesday when aroused delegates staged a floor revolt against the original injunction resolution. It had urged the use of "every legitimate means" to eliminate injunctions.

The convention voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to send the resolution back into committee for strengthening. There was applause when speakers said a civil disobedience policy should be adopted.

Fewer than 400 of the 1,600 delegates were in the hall Friday when the new proposal emerged. Most of the others had left to meet homebound plane, train and bus commitments.

DISCARD A PROPOSAL

Earlier in the day the convention agreed to discard a proposal that unions automatically be expelled from the congress if their members aid or assist an employer during a strike sanctioned by the CLC.

This meant, in effect, that a union whose members crossed the picket lines of another union would be booted out.

Delegates voted Monday to have a resolution of support for the publicly - owned CBC enlarged to include an endorsation of approval for the producers of the TV program This Hour Has Seven Days, now in a dispute with CBC management.

A reworded version Friday put the convention on record as condemning any action of the CBC management which violates standard union procedure in the hiring and firing of employees.

When protests arose, CLC President Claude Jodoin agreed to have the executive council take a new look at the matter after the convention. All unfinished business goes to the council for action.

DRIVER DIES, TOT HURT WHEN TRUCK BLOWS UP

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—A truck carrying a load of dynamite exploded on a residential street in Granby Friday, killing the driver and severely injuring a two-year-old girl playing in front of her home. The driver was Francois St. Pierre, 25, of Granby. The girl, Maryse Bureau, had an arm torn off by flying debris. Two other persons suffered minor injuries.

New Electoral Maps Draw More Blasts

OTTAWA (CP) — Frontbenchers on both sides of the Commons Friday joined a growing chorus of criticism aimed at the non-political redistribution commissions.

Agriculture Minister Greene, first cabinet member to enter the debate, accused the Ontario commissioners of treating Parliament and the people with great contempt.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker scored the new electoral map for Saskatchewan for lumping wheat farmers and city dwellers together in common ridings. He suggested a constitutional amendment to protect his province's representation in the Commons, due to drop to 13 seats from 17.

Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, said the Saskatchewan commission carved up ridings in his province as a sheer academic exercise, without regard to demographic factors.

Creditiste Leader Caouette complained the Quebec commission "tortured and distorted" ridings all over the province and ignored objections made at public hearings last year.

He renewed his proposal to abolish the 10 redistribution commissions and their maps, allowing a Commons committee to draw up new maps.

A supply debate is scheduled Monday and Tuesday, opening the way for opposition parties to introduce non-confidence motions on almost any subject.

JAVA DEATHS MOUNT

Boiling Mud Buries Towns

KEDIRI, Indonesia (UPI)—Boiling mud spewing from volcano Mt. Kelud buried nine Javanese villages and killed from 82 to 150 persons, it was reported today.

The toll was rising steadily as new figures came in.

The district officer in President Sukarno's home town of Blitar said 82 persons were killed in the Blitar and Kediri districts along with another 52 injured and 60 missing. Earlier press reports said as many as 150 were killed.

Preliminary reports said the volcano was active Tuesday and Wednesday evening. The volcano belched mud which flowed to the Badak dam and swept away land communications between Blitar and Talun.

The eruption also cut road communications between Blitar and the district capital at Kediri as well as phone connections with Margomulto.

BRIDGE SWEPT AWAY

The steel river bridge at Samgud was swept away.

Another report said people and livestock had been roasted alive in Margomuljo. The fate of persons living in Djaktilengger and Talun villages remained unknown.

The railway between Blitar and Kali Putih was blocked by debris and a portion of the Blitar-Talun highway was buried under lava three feet deep.

Blitar residents were moved to the eastern villages of Bende Gerit, Gebang, Sidoredjo and Karangtengah when the volcano erupted. Local authorities established public kitchens to handle the refugees.

Reports said 19 houses were destroyed in Blitar, which was blanketed with volcanic ash more than an inch deep.

A pall of smoke and haze continued to hide the tip of the east Java volcano, Blitar, which is located less than a dozen miles from here, also was veiled by the sulphurous "smog."

SET SUNDAY

PM Seeks To Avert CBC Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson met representatives of the CBC's Toronto producers for 80 minutes today at his official residence in an effort to avert a producers' strike set for 10 p.m. Sunday.

The prime minister was expected to hold further talks with CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and the producers during the day.

The 72-member Toronto Producers' Association was to meet at the Westbury Hotel in Toronto later today to to discuss the situation.

Tom Koch, president of the association, told reporters after his meeting with Mr. Pearson that the situation was unchanged, but that a proposal would be placed before the producers' meeting in Toronto. He declined to comment on the progress of the talks.

Other producers meeting the prime minister today were association Treasurer Paddy Sampson and Dick Nielsen of the strategy committee.

DROPPING PROGRAM HOSTS

The producers are threatening to strike unless the CBC suspends its decision to drop Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as hosts of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Ouimet has said repeatedly that the decision to replace the hosts next season is final.

The prime minister discussed the dispute with Mr. Ouimet for about one hour Friday and was expected to communicate with him again today.

Mr. Sampson of the producers' association was flying back to Toronto to report to the general membership.

Mr. Koch and Mr. Nielsen were staying in Ottawa, awaiting an invitation to see Mr. Pearson again after lunch.

Meanwhile, the CBC is proceeding on the assumption that Seven Days will appear as scheduled Sunday despite the threatened strike.

CBC spokesmen declined today to say what program changes would take place in the event of a strike. A corporation spokesman said earlier in the week that the CBC has a standby file of taped and filmed programs available for any emergencies.

A CBC spokesman said today "we'll meet the situation as it happens."

BALL
. . . sharp warning

'De Gaulle's Policy Could Lead To War'

WASHIGTON (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says the "self-centred" policies of French President de Gaulle may return Europe to a dangerous system of national rivalries that once more could lead to world war.

In a speech Friday night before the American Society of International Law, Ball accused de Gaulle of trying to make France a first-class power while keeping its European neighbors "in an inferior role."

"This is a desire on the part of the French government to carve out a special place for itself which means a great reduction in the kind of co-operative effort which has been going forward in Europe and in the Atlantic world," Ball explained in a later CBS television interview.

"I think this can only weaken the West and create problems where we may have, again, old national rivalries reasserting themselves and a beginning of the kind of troubles that we have known so often and so disastrously in the past."

'NATO REMOVES CAUSES'

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was created after the Second World War, he said, in an effort "to remove the underlying causes" that had created so many of the past disasters.

In his speech before the society, Ball also:

—Warned that France's pull-out from the NATO integrated defence system will weaken the common shield against the Soviet Union and thus delay chances for settling such East - West problems as German reunification and disarmament.

—Portrayed European unity as th eright road to true European independence, big-

UN Chief Backed For Second Term

(Times News Services)

PARIS — UN Secretary-General U Thant and President de Gaulle conceded today that a Vietnamese peace move is futile for the time being.

Emerging from a two-hour conversation with the French president, Thant told reporters that he and de Gaulle had agreed that there is no chance for an immediate settlement of the conflict in Southeast Asia.

"For the moment," Thant said, "we agree that there is no possibility for a settlement of the war nor for any new peace attempts."

De Gaulle said he viewed the war with a "growing feeling of disquiet and revulsion."

The comments came at a luncheon in honor of Thant, whom de Gaulle urged to seek re-election to a second five-year term as UN chief executive.

In a toast to Thant, de Gaulle expressed his satisfaction with their talks, which covered a wide range of international issues including Viet Nam.

'USEFUL' MEETING

Thant called his meeting with de Gaulle "very useful, very free, very frank."

Thant was in Paris en route to Strasbourg, France, to address the consultative assembly of the 18-nation Council of Europe Tuesday.

The French president indicated he was in favor of Thant's re-election partly because of the secretary-general's efforts to help restore peace to Viet Nam.

Thant said he had not made up his mind whether to seek re-election. The U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union are known to favor a second term for Thant.

U.S. WARNED AGAIN BY CHINA

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of China said today U.S. efforts to bring about peace talks on Viet Nam will not succeed and he warned that if the United States expands the war "even more disastrous defeats are in store."

Chou reiterated that to whatever extent the United States "may widen the war and whatever cost we may have to pay, the Chinese people will, together with the Albanian people and other revolutionary peoples of the world, give all-out support and assistance to the Vietnamese people in thoroughly defeating the U.S. aggressors."

Chou charged the United States "is preparing to spread the flames of its war of aggression to the whole of Indochina and to China."

40-KNOT HYDROPLANE

Zip-Ship in Channel

RAMSGATE, England (UPI) — Thirty-six passengers paid $6.30 each and skimmed across the English Channel on a cushion of air to Calais at nearly 40 knots as the first commercial hovercraft service between England France opened today.

Two 36-seat hovercraft are being used by the Hoverlloyd Company —formed by Swedish Lloyd and the Swedish American Line — to make eight trips daily between here and Calais until the end of the summer.

The time estimated for the 27-mile run is about 40 minutes, roughly half that taken by the conventional cross-channel mailboats and car ferries.

With fine weather, the company reported the first trip sold out and passengers lining up for a place on the next run. The fare is about the same as that on the conventional ships.

Bigger hovercraft capable of carrying 250 passengers and 35 automobiles are expected to be in service in 1968.

MOUNTIE 'COWBOY' NABS ELUSIVE MENTAL ESCAPEE

LILLOOET (CP) — A young RCMP constable, dressed like a typical Cariboo cowboy riding through bush country, captured an armed mental hospital escapee Friday night.

The two struggled briefly and one shot was fired before John Guzin, 30, gave up.

The dramatic capture ended Guzin's six days of eluding posses of armed riders through the rolling hills of the southern Cariboo.

"He must have thought I was a rancher," Constable Norman Harvey-McKeen said in an interview today.

"He could see me at least a mile off. I rode up like I was going to water my horse and got to within four or five feet of him before he grabbed for his rifle."

As Guzin, who had been sitting on a log watching for the approaching "cowboy," reached for the rifle Constable Harvey-McKeen jumped on him.

The rifle went off, the slug sailing harmlessly into the air. Two more "cowboys" — an armed RCMP constable and a game warden — raced up on horseback and aided Constable Harvey-McKeen.

"He was not too much trouble," said the constable. "He is not too big, sort of small and wiry. But bush-wise, really bush-wise."

AIR CANADA INAUGURAL FLIGHT

Mayor Leads Victorians to Europe

Mayor A. W. Toone will lead a select party of Greater Victorians on an inaugural non-stop air service from Vancouver to London beginning Saturday.

About 65 persons from the Pacific Northwest are invited by Air Canada to initiate the Western Arrow service that will fly over the polar region's great circle route.

Air Canada becomes the fourth major scheduled carrier to fly the short route, the second to land in London. Pan American Air Lines now flies from the western U.S. seaboard to the British capital, while Scandinavian Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Air Lines fly to continental Europe.

The 10 Victoria people and others from the mainland will be guests of Air Canada in England for five days.

Most return to Vancouver Friday.

Some, through private arrangements at their own expense, will stay longer in order to holiday in Europe.

Flying time on the new route is less than nine hours, compared with about 11 by the transcontinental route.

Others from the Victoria area will be deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, Times associate editor Arthur Stott, Colonist associate editor Harry Young, CHEK-TV hostess Ida Clarkson, Empress Hotel manager Le Parkinson.

Paulin travel agent John Boyle, Totem travel agent William Ferguson, Featherstone travel agent A. R. Nicholson, and Arthur Whittingham, of Traveleyden Tours.

Mayors of Vancouver, North Vancouver, New Westminster, Seattle and Tacoma; reeves of West Vancouver, North Vancouver district, Burnaby and Richmond; University of B.C. president John B. Macdonald, and B.C. Lions football manager are others taking the flight.

DESIGNED MONTHLY INCOME IN RETIREMENT

is not always easily arranged, as dividends or interest on investments often fail to tie in well with the monthly style of budget to which the retired man accustomed himself during the working years.

To meet this need, Victoria Mortgage Corporation will mail a monthly cheque applying on any investment of $10,000 or over, or any AMOUNT YOU SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

Some of our retired clients are expressing their real desire to spend some of the capital of their retirement fund along with their earnings, rather than have it all left in their estate.

If this, too, is your feeling, perhaps you will find the following table interesting:

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month. $10,000 at monthly payments of $69 including 7½% interest would take 30 years to spend; $73 month—25 years; $80 month—20 years; $89 month—16 years; $100 month—13 years; $118 month—10 years; $138 month—8 years; $153 month—7 years; $200 month—5 years.

Terms of all 7½% Victoria Mortgage Debentures provide that the unused portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or earlier in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture.

To have prospectus mailed, phone Douglas Hawkes Ltd., EV 4-7128, 817 Fort.

'Twould appear to me, Real Estate values have never been better in the Greater Victoria area and also on the Island as a whole. This trend would seem to have come from our booming economy in B.C. and many outsiders are finally realizing that our B.C. is one of the finest spots in Canada to live. Prices as a whole are lower here than elsewhere in Canada. That, added to our lovely climate, will no doubt keep your values well up. Keep this in mind.
I have a continuing NEED of listings in all price ranges, both here and on the islands. If you intend to sell or are inclined to purchase, why not keep me in mind. Instant, well-qualified advice is yours for the asking. Dial 385-6741 anytime.

Arthur Mayse

We are hearing a lot these days about what the future holds for Saanich Peninsula, and among the horrors in store appears to be an autobahn which will charge right down the middle with an uninterrupted whoosh.

This is all very well, but as one who thinks we should look planners' notions carefully in the teeth before buying them, I suggest a slight change in the proposed system.

First, we should acquire a 600-foot-wide strip of land along any projected freeway route. This we should develop through generous use of shrubs both flowering and evergreen. It should carry stretches of woods, reaches of grass, playing fields, bridle and strolling paths, and several small lakes stocked with trout.

Deep below this greenbelt through a spacious tunnel, the freeway would hurtle toward the city; and by this vertical land usage, everyone would get what he desired.

I suggest, as a protective measure designed to control further urban sprawl, that legitimate visitors be separated from prospective settlers at a check-point. The latter, we could divert into a chamber or lock fitted with seagates, which would be opened at stated intervals.

This on the theory that the only way we can keep 'em off is by drowning 'em.

★

If we find that solution too brutal, we had better resign ourselves to the prospect of vertical land use which goes up, not down; and if I interpret planners' statements aright, that's the direction in which we are headed.

One-family units on large city lots make for an appalling waste of land, Saanich municipal planner Tom Loney has warned.

However, certain other factors are involved, and the one which planners continually stumble over is the pigheaded reaction of the humans for whom housing is designed.

I'm very human and also pigheaded, and reasonable though Mr. Loney's utterance about land wastage may be, I'm not trading my large backyard for a communal share in anybody's park. As a matter of fact, I want both, and don't see why we should sacrifice either.

Eventually the instinct may be bred out of us, but I suspect that for a very long time to come, great masses of humans are going to insist on personal possession of land.

You can't dig in a park, or take out a flower bed and put in a corn patch. You can't chop down one tree and plant another, or ensure yourself of privacy by throwing up a fence.

★

So we have collisions of opposed interests; multiple housing promotors on one side, and on the other, indignant homeowners who see their preserves threatened.

We have witnessed several of these in the past very few years, and are going to see plenty more.

At best, the householder can hope for only a partial victory. If he's loud and persistent enough, he may manage to keep apartment zoning within bounds—but he had better reconcile himself to the fact that those bounds are not going to remain constant.

The pressure of expanding population will force them outward.

I think we should be aware, though, of an easement which will eventually relieve some of the pressure on this favored peninsula. This is an increasingly fast and efficient land-water transit system which even now is opening new land areas to the city worker who is willing to pioneer.

These are the Gulf Islands; and within a very few years, some if not all the larger islands will have their commuter colonies.

Dream stuff? Well, we already have one staffer who found the peninsula too crowded for his taste. He lives on an island, commutes by fast boat and car, and makes it home in time for a beach stroll before dinner.

Hottest Selling City Item Is Cool, Clear Ol' Aqua

The people of Victoria drank, bathed, washed or sprinkled on lawns close to $1 million worth of water in 1965.

They are expected to do the same again this year as pure old aqua holds the line as the city's hottest selling item.

The city's annual budget, ratified this week by city council, reveals that city taps spouted $997,311 of the clear stuff down city drains.

Estimated revenue for this year from water is $994,500 a shade down from last year but city comptroller James Bramley warns that the figure is just a guess.

Mr. Bramley told council water consumption is one of the revenue items he could not forecast accurately.

DEPENDS ON WEATHER

"It depends on the weather," he said. "Dray speels broken up with rain will see us use more water than if we have a long dry spell."

Mr. Bramley said the ideal situation was a steady rainfall every two or three weeks.

"I'll try to arrange a storm a month to keep revenues up," he quipped.

While cash for water kept city tills jingling the trend towards employee protection provides an equally steady drain on city coffers.

PROTECTION

In 1966 employee contributions to various employee protection funds will cost the city $513,100.

Superannuation payments top the list with $536,600 earmarked for the city's retirement plan.

To this will be added $55,000 as the city's share of the Canada Pension plan, $16,500 for unemployment insurance, $30,000 for workmen's compentation, $28,000 for other retirement benefits, $23,000 for medical protection and $4,000 for a group life insurance scheme.

Other major expenditure items at city hall are listed at $27,500 for telephones and telegrams, $10,500 for postage and $15,000 for conventions and training institutes.

HUNDREDS JAM WAREHOUSE

Bookworms Burrow To Tune of $1,700

Bookworms and old record collectors swarmed through a warehouse at 507 Pandora Avenue Thursday and Friday and emptied most of the shelves.

By 9 p.m. Friday more than $1,700 worth of material had been sold. But most of the buying was done Thursday between 5 and 9 p.m. when hundreds of men, women and children jammed the store.

There was hardly an inch of room and, by closing time, enthusiasts from nine to 80-year-olds had spent more than $1,300.

"We could hardly cope with the rush," said Mrs. Gordon H. Grant, president of the women's committee of Victoria School of Music, which organized the two-day sale.

All monies will go to the school's scholarship fund. At the first sale last spring, the committee took $1,700.

* * *

Hundreds of books and records of every description—and a few sound tapes—were donated by the Victoria public to this year's sale.

Prices ranged from a nickel to $4.50—the sum paid for an illustrated life story of Queen Mary.

Also sold were novels, histories, children's stories, school textbooks, Bibles, prayer books, paperbacks, magazines, musical scores, do-it-yourself textbooks and comics.

Four shelves were crammed with Canadiana when the sale opened Thursday. By 9 p.m. Friday only four books were left.

Sold were two copies of Emily Carr's Growing Pains; Bruce Hutchison's Mr. Prime Minister and The Fraser (now out of print); Man's Inheritance and Colored Spectacles by B.C. writer Frederick Niven,

Earth and High Heaven, a Canadian novel by Gwethalyn Graham, which won the Governor General's award in 1945, was sold for $1.

A surprise purchase was made by Victoria writer Agnes Newton Keith. She discovered a copy of her first book, Land Below the Wind, and bought it for 75 cents.

The book is out of print and Mrs. Keith had been seeking a copy for years.

Silver Order Awarded Visitor

Engelbert Borgman, visiting his son-in-law and daughter in Victoria, learned Friday he had been honored by Queen Juliana of The Netherlands.

The father of Mrs. Herbert Bown, 1266 Dunsterville, was advised by telegram he had been awarded the Silver Order of Orange-Nassau in recognition of his political and trade union work in The Netherlands.

Inmate Treed by Guards Gives Up When Bluff Called

By RON SUDLOW

A 17-year-old Colquitz Jail inmate Friday went out on a limb in an escape attempt and ended up a tree.

In fact the youth never left the Wilkinson Road prison grounds.

He just climbed above them into a tree and sat there for hours looking down 40 feet at prison officials, police, firemen and dogs.

The juvenile inmate made his dash while working along a fenceline on Interurban Rd.

Toting an axe, he dashed off into the woods across Interurban behind the institution.

CHASED BY GUARDS

He was chased by guards and climbed a tree on prison property near Holland Ave.

But he foiled any attempt to pull him down from his perch by chopping away the tree's lower branches and hanging on to his axe.

Guards and prison warden S. A. L. Hamblin couldn't talk him down but finally persuaded him to drop the axe.

Getting him down was considered a delicate operation so tree surgeon Wendell Johnson was called in.

READY WITH NET

Saanich firemen were ready with a net in case he jumped.

Prison officials and police finally called the youth's bluff when they told Mr. Johnson to get to work.

The youth came down without a struggle.

LOWER TREE

Mr. Johnson said later he planned to rig the tree between two other trees, chop it through and lower it and the would-be escapee gently to the ground.

There have been several escapes from the institution which once held the criminally insane.

One of the most recent was the two-day bid for freedom last year of David Robinson, now serving a life sentence for the murder of a 14-year-old girl.

Marina Complex Planned

By TERRY IZZARD

Plans for a marina complex with moorings for up to 1,000 boats were revealed today for Shoal Harbor near Sidney.

The complex, to be built by three separate developers, is expected to cost over $500,000.

Although plans have not yet been completed indications are that all three will get under way this summer.

When the marinas are completed, Shoal Bay will rate as probably the largest boat basin along the B.C. coast with mooring for several thousand craft.

The latest development is planned by Clarke Bros. Boat Works Ltd., who already own a 200-boat marina, Capital Yacht Club, and Victoria businessmen Tom Blackwood and Gordon Washington.

Largest single developer will probably by Clark Bros.

Tentative plans call for another 200-300 boat marina adjacent to present facilities. In addition, the brothers envisage a coffee shop and possibly facilities for sale of fishing tackle.

Capital City Yacht Club already has federal and provincial foreshore rights to property on the south side of the harbor, opposite Clarke Bros.

AWAITS ZONING

They are now awaiting zoning permission.

Commodore Archie MacBride said the marina could hold upward of 200 boats, although plans have not yet been completed.

Most of the club's 170 members have indicated they will move in their boats when the development is complete.

At a later date a new clubhouse will be built to replace the existing clubhouse now situated on the Clarke Bros. property.

Partners Blackwood and Washington have also to seek zoning permission before they can go ahead with developing.

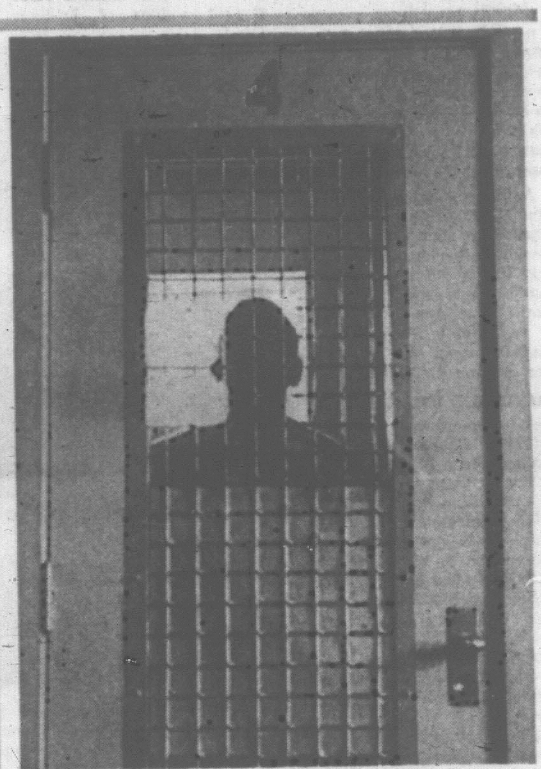
DEFINITE PLANS LATER

Mr. Blackwood, a partner in Pacific Pile Driving Co., Victoria, said he expects to have more definite plans in the next few weeks.

He confirmed the marina would hold several hundred boats.

All three developers expect to make a joint application to the federal government for dredging of the channel.

There are already several other marinas in the small area between Sidney and Swartz Bay, including Royal Victoria Yacht Club's outstation; Randall's Landing; Van Isle Marina; Shoal Harbor Marina; All Bay Marina and Canoe Cove Marina.



CUSTODIAL ASPECT of Brannen Lake School is symbolized by cells in the security unit. Here youths being punished are held in bare cells, forbidden to talk and allowed out only three times a week for exercise. One recent inmate became so withdrawn and disturbed he refused to come out of his cell. (Des Bill Photo.)

A Lot of Youths Penned When They Shouldn't Be!

(This is the first of two articles on Brannen Lake School.)

By DESMOND BILL

Most juvenile delinquent boys in Victoria will sooner or later travel the road through magnificent countryside north of Nanaimo.

It leads to Brannen Lake School, the place where delinquents are sent when they can no longer be handled in the community.

There are susually between 150 and 200 youngsters staying at Brannen Lake at any time. Statistics show that about one-quarter of them have been there before. Some have been committed for the third time.

Statistics also show Greater Victoria sends more delinquents, proportionate to population, than any other urban area of the province.

●

This does not mean that the rate of delinquency in Greater Victoria is the highest in the province. What it does show is that this area has fewer facilities than others for handling its troublesome youth. They are sent to Brannen Lake simply because there is no place else to send them.

Is Brannen Lake the place to send a delinquent?

Dr. Charles Gregory, the consultant psychiatrist at the school, does not think so.

Three yars ago he made a careful survey of 28 inmates who were referred to him for attention. He found only one of them to be a "hard core psychopath" who needed to be kept in custody.

Of the others, he says, four needed hospital treatment for brain damage or psychosis, three required further investigation to determine what exactly was wrong with them, and the remaining 20 were emotionally disturbed to a considerable degree.

Dr. Gregory says that putting a disturbed youngster in the school does not solve his individual problem nor does it improve the family situation that, in most cases, caused the problem.

●

But still, magistrates send juvenile offenders to the school, often with recommendations that they be screened by a psychiatrist when they get there.

Dr. Gregory says most magistrates are not aware of the limitations of facilities at the school. And he adds that if psychiatric help were needed, and available, a different setting would be preferable.

F. G. Hassard, superintendent of the school, admitted to a group of visitors this week that "a percentage of youngsters here need psychiatric help. They shouldn't be here."

The visitors were in a group that included Dr. P. F. d'Estrube, a psychiatrist at the Mental Health Centre, Alan Macfarlane, MLA, Peter Bunn, school trustee, and Mrs. E. Levitz Packford of the Family and Children's Service.

They toured the school, spoke with the staff and some of the inmates, and questioned Mr. Hassard, who is retiring, and John Noble, a Scot who is his successor.

What the visitors saw was, in some ways, an admirable custodial institution. It is well run, comfortable and clean. The grounds and sports facilities would be the envy of some private schools.

The inmates are well treated. I talked with four who are locked up in solitary confinement in the security unit. They are there as punishment and, if any inmates could be expected to complain, it would be them. But they all said they are fairly treated and one told me the staff "are pretty good guys."

The first impression of a visitor is the largest number of Indian boys among the inmates. They must make up almost half of the school population.

●

The second big impression is the youth of some of the prisoners. Some are only 12 and look even younger. The oldest is 18. The youngest ever at the school was a nine-year-old boy who was there a couple of years ago. He was segregated from the older boys.

Officials said that, while youngsters are segregated by age groups in sleeping quarters, there is no attempt to keep them apart in other activities. Nor are first offenders kept away from repeaters.

Mr. Hassard said, "By the time a boy is sent here for the first time he has usually been before the courts several times and there is no point in keeping him separated from the rest."

Officials are sensitive about the solitary confinement in the security unit. They said press reports in the past have created the wrong impression.

It is a section sealed off from the rest of the school and it is the only place in the school where bars were to be seen. There are about 15 cells but not all were occupied when we went in. The place is clean and well lighted.

●

Prisoners are confined in the cells except for three periods of PT each week and the time it takes them to clean the place. They also come out of their cells to go to the toilet.

The cells are bare except for a chair and the prisoners are forbidden to shout to one another. They are not allowed any reading material until 2:30 in the afternoon. Several of the boys in the cells had been there for a couple of weeks. Some expected to be locked up for a month or more.

The main offence of the youngsters in security seemed to be that they had either run away from the school or had said they were going to run away. Officials said prisoners in security could attend school but only one was.

The school offers the usual program up to grade 9 level. Any inmate who goes beyond that point has to study by correspondence course.

Continued Monday.

Mr. Johnson said later he planned to rig the tree between two other trees, chop it through and lower it and the would-be escapee gently to the ground.

There have been several escapes from the institution which once held the criminally insane.

One of the most recent was the two-day bid for freedom last year of David Robinson, now serving a life sentence for the murder of a 14-year-old girl.

Marina Complex Planned

By TERRY IZZARD

Plans for a marina complex with moorings for up to 1,000 boats were revealed today for Shoal Harbor near Sidney.

The complex, to be built by three separate developers, is expected to cost over $500,000.

Although plans have not yet been completed indications are that all three will get under way this summer.

When the marinas are completed, Shoal Bay will rate as probably the largest boat basin along the B.C. coast with mooring for several thousand craft.

The latest development is planned by Clarke Bros. Boat Works Ltd., who already own a 200-boat marina, Capital Yacht Club, and Victoria businessmen Tom Blackwood and Gordon Washington.

Largest single developer will probably by Clark Bros.

Tentative plans call for another 200-300 boat marina adjacent to present facilities. In addition, the brothers envisage a coffee shop and possibly facilities for sale of fishing tackle.

Capital City Yacht Club already has federal and provincial foreshore rights to property on the south side of the harbor, opposite Clarke Bros.

AWAITS ZONING

They are now awaiting zoning permission.

Commodore Archie MacBride said the marina could hold upward of 200 boats, although plans have not yet been completed.

Most of the club's 170 members have indicated they will move in their boats when the development is complete.

At a later date a new clubhouse will be built to replace the existing clubhouse now situated on the Clarke Bros. property.

Partners Blackwood and Washington have also to seek zoning permission before they can go ahead with developing.

DEFINITE PLANS LATER

Mr. Blackwood, a partner in Pacific Pile Driving Co., Victoria, said he expects to have more definite plans in the next few weeks.

He confirmed the marina would hold several hundred boats.

All three developers expect to make a joint application to the federal government for dredging of the channel.

There are already several other marinas in the small area between Sidney and Swartz Bay, including Royal Victoria Yacht Club's outstation; Randall's Landing; Van Isle Marina; Shoal Harbor Marina; All Bay Marina and Canoe Cove Marina.

Hottest Selling City Item Is Cool, Clear Ol' Aqua

MRS. GORDON H. GRANT
. . . joins bookworms

The people of Victoria drank, bathed, washed or sprinkled on lawns close to $1 million worth of water in 1965.

They are expected to do the same again this year as pure old aqua holds the line as the city's hottest selling item.

The city's annual budget, ratified this week by city council, reveals that city taps spouted $997,311 of the clear stuff.

Estimated revenue for this year from water is $994,500 a shade down from last year but city comptroller James Bramley warns that the figure is just a guess.

Mr. Bramley told council water consumption is one of the revenue items he could not forecast accurately.

DEPENDS ON WEATHER

"It depends on the weather," he said. "Dry spells broken up with rain will see us use more water than if we have a long dry spell."

Mr. Bramley said the ideal situation was a steady rainfall every two or three weeks.

"I'll try to arrange a storm a month to keep revenues up," he quipped.

While cash for water kept city tills jingling the trend towards employee protection provides an equally steady drain on city coffers.

PROTECTION

In 1966 employer contributions to various employee protection funds will cost the city $513,100.

Superannuation payments top the list with $536,600 earmarked for the city's retirement plan.

To this will be added $55,000 as the city's share of the Canada Pension plan, $16,500 for unemployment insurance, $30,000 for workmen's compensation, $28,000 for other retirement benefits, $23,000 for medical protection and $4,000 for a group life insurance scheme.

Other major expenditure items at city hall are listed at $27,500 for telephones and telegrams, $10,500 for postage and $15,000 for conventions and training institutes.

NO MORE TALKING, PENALTIES

This is really it!

There have been announcements about it before now. Then there were instructions on how to do it. After that, warnings to get at it. And finally, talk of penalties if you ignore it.

It's here.

The deadline for filing 1965 income tax returns is midnight Monday. The penalty for late filing is 5 per cent of taxes owing.

HUNDREDS JAM WAREHOUSE

Bookworms Burrow To Tune of $1,700

Bookworms and old record collectors swarmed through a warehouse at 507 Pandora Avenue Thursday and Friday and emptied most of the shelves.

By 9 p.m. Friday more than $1,700 worth of material had been sold. But most of the buying was done Thursday between 5 and 9 p.m. when hundreds of men, women and children jammed the store.

There was hardly an inch of room and, by closing time, enthusiasts from nine to 80-year-olds had spent more than $1,300.

"We could hardly cope with the rush," said Mrs. Gordon H. Grant, president of the women's committee of Victoria School of Music, which organized the two-day sale.

All monies will go to the school's scholarship fund. At the first sale last spring, the committee took $1,700.

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of books and records of every description—and a few sound tapes—were donated by the Victoria public to this year's sale.

Prices ranged from a nickel to $4.50—the sum paid for an illustrated life story of Queen Mary.

Also sold were novels, histories, children's stories, school textbooks, Bibles, prayer books, paperbacks, magazines, musical scores, do-it-yourself textbooks and comics.

Four shelves were crammed with Canadiana when the sale opened Thursday. By 9 p.m. Friday only four books were left.

Sold were two copies of Emily Carr's Growing Pains; Bruce Hutchison's Mr. Prime Minister and The Fraser (now out of print); Man's Inheritance and Colored Spectacles by B.C. writer Frederick Niven.

Earth and High Heaven, a Canadian novel by Gwethalyn Graham, which won the Governor General's award in 1945, was sold for $1.

A surprise purchase was made by Victoria writer Agnes Newton Keith. She discovered a copy of her first book, Land Below the Wind, and bought it for 75 cents.

The book is out of print and Mrs. Keith had been seeking a copy for years.

CUSTODIAL ASPECT of Brannen Lake School is symbolized by cells in the security unit. Here youths being punished are held in bare cells, forbidden to talk and allowed out only three times a week for exercise. One recent inmate became so withdrawn and disturbed he refused to come out of his cell. (Des Bill Photo.)

A Lot of Youths Penned When They Shouldn't Be!

(This is the first of two articles on Brannen Lake School.)

By DESMOND BILL

Most juvenile delinquent boys in Victoria will sooner or later travel the road through magnificent countryside north of Nanaimo.

It leads to Brannen Lake School, the place where delinquents are sent when they can no longer be handled in the community.

There are usually between 150 and 200 youngsters staying at Brannen Lake at any time. Statistics show that about one-quarter of them have been there before. Some have been committed for the third time.

Statistics also show Greater Victoria sends more delinquents, proportionate to population, than any other urban area of the province.

●

This does not mean that the rate of delinquency in Greater Victoria is the highest in the province. What it does show is that this area has fewer facilities than others for handling its troublesome youth. They are sent to Brannen Lake simply because there is no place else to send them.

Is Brannen Lake the place to send a delinquent?

Dr. Charles Gregory, the consultant psychiatrist at the school, does not think so.

Three yars ago he made a careful survey of 28 inmates who were referred to him for attention. He found only one of them to be a "hard core psychopath" who needed to be kept in custody.

Of the others, he says, four needed hospital treatment for brain damage or psychosis, three required further investigation to determine what exactly was wrong with them, and the remaining 20 were emotionally disturbed to a considerable degree.

Dr. Gregory says that putting a disturbed youngster in the school does not solve his individual problem nor does it improve the family situation that, in most cases, caused the problem.

●

But still, magistrates send juvenile offenders to the school, often with recommendations that they be screened by a psychiatrist when they get there.

Dr. Gregory says most magistrates are not aware of the limitations of facilities at the school. And he adds that if psychiatric help were needed, and available, a different setting would be preferable.

F. G. Hassard, superintendent of the school, admitted to a group of visitors this week that "a percentage of youngsters here need psychiatric help. They shouldn't be here."

The visitors were in a group that included Dr. P. F. d'Estrube, a psychiatrist at the Mental Health Centre, Alan Macfarlane, MLA, Peter Bunn, school trustee, and Mrs. E. Levitz Packford of the Family and Children's Service.

They toured the school, spoke with the staff and some of the inmates, and questioned Mr. Hassard, who is retiring, and John Noble, a Scot who is his successor.

What the visitors saw was, in some ways, an admirable custodial institution. It is well run, comfortable and clean. The grounds and sports facilities would be the envy of some private schools.

The inmates are well treated. I talked with four who are locked up in solitary confinement in the security unit. They are there as punishment and, if any inmates could be expected to complain, it would be them. But they all said they are fairly treated and one told me the staff "are pretty good guys."

The first impression of a visitor is the largest number of Indian boys among the inmates. They must make up almost half of the school population.

●

The second big impression is the youth of some of the prisoners. Some are only 12 and look even younger. The oldest is 18. The youngest ever at the school was a nine-year-old boy who was there a couple of years ago. He was segregated from the older boys.

Officials said that, while youngsters are segregated by age groups in sleeping quarters, there is no attempt to keep them apart in other activities. Nor are first offenders kept away from repeaters.

Mr. Hassard said, "By the time a boy is sent here for the first time he has usually been before the courts several times and there is no point in keeping him separated from the rest."

Officials are sensitive about the solitary confinement in the security unit. They said press reports in the past have created the wrong impression.

It is a section sealed off from the rest of the school and it is the only place in the school where bars were to be seen. There are about 15 cells but not all were occupied when we went in. The place is clean and well lighted.

●

Prisoners are confined in the cells except for three periods of PT each week and the time it takes them to clean the place. They also come out of their cells to go to the toilet.

The cells are bare except for a chair and the prisoners are forbidden to shout to one another. They are not allowed any reading material until 3:30 in the afternoon. Several of the boys in the cells had been there for a couple of weeks. Some expected to be locked up for a month or more.

The main offence of the youngsters in security seemed to be that they had either run away from the school or had said they were going to run away. Officials said prisoners in security could attend school but only one was.

The school offers the usual program up to grade 9 level. Any inmate who goes beyond that point has to study by correspondence course.

Continued Monday.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

The World-Cup Football Championship is to be held in England this summer, and on July 1st an omnibus series of stamps advertising the event will be released by Britain and twenty of the colonies.

Two denominations will comprise the sets for each of the latter territories — a low value for ordinary postage, and a higher one which apparently will represent the air-mail rate.

The design for the colonies shows a football, the cup, and the Queen's portrait, against a background of the Globe.

Exceptions will be Brunei, Federation of S. Arabia, and New Hebrides, on which the Queen's likeness will be replaced by the Sultan's portrait, the Federation Crest, and "E II R" (or "R.F.") symbols respectively. (New Hebrides, being a Condominium jointly governed by Britain and France, always has two sets of stamps running concurrently — one inscribed in English — the other in French.)

Purple and green will be the color scheme for the low values, and brown and blue-green for the higher denominations. The total cost of the series will fortunately not be out of reach of the average collector.

Cyprus, on April 25, issued three stamps (15, 25, and 100 mils) to commemorate the discovery of the body of St. Barnabas. A limited number of souvenir sheets depicting the discovery were also released.

East Africa is issuing an attractive set of four stamps to advertise its tourist attractions. The 30c shows a game park lodge on the Sereneti Plains. The 50c illustrates the famous Murchison Falls in Uganda; the 1sh 30c depicts Lake Nakura, with its vast concentration of Flamingoes; while the 2sh 50c features a leaping sword-fish, engaged on an angler's line.

Another set from the same Territory, with denominations as above, will shortly appear to mark the 20th Anniversay of UNESCO.

The special souvenir sheet of British Honduras, mentioned in this column recently, which was produced on the old original press used in 1840 to print the Penny Black, will probably not be too common.

The Crown Agents report that the printing was extremely slow and laborious, and every sheet as it came off the press was immediately snapped up by the public.

TAXIMAN'S TAX IS TAXING

A taxi driver gave 15 per cent of his income to chairity. On this gift, as well as an additional gift of $2,000, he paid no taxes. On the remainder of his income, he paid a tax of 10 per cent, which amounted to $650. What was his income? This is just a puzzle, folks; it isn't intended to reflect earnings or tax rates anywhere.

Time limit is set at two minutes.

Answer: The taxpayer's income was $10,000.

From a certain sum Jean Deau took away a third and put in its place $50. From the resulting sum he took away one-fourth and put $70 in its place. He then had $130. What was the original sum?

Answer: The original sum was forty-five dollars.

CAN YOU FIGURE IT OUT?

Folks are still talking about the late William Strong of Peoria, Ill., who reputedly computed figures mentally with the speed of an adding machine. Merchants are said to have employed Strong to compute invoices and tax reports instead of using a mechanical calculator.

At one time, Mr. Strong's ability as a lightning calculator is said to have been tested with the following problem, the answer to which he correctly announced almost immediately.

In a military training camp there were 1¾ horses for every 5½ men. Altogether there were 4,319 legs of both men and horses—one man having lost his right leg during the war. Every horse eats ⅓ of a ton of hay a week. If the hay costs $6 a ton, what is the weekly bill for hay?

Solution: The answer is 1,320 men with 2 legs equals 2,640 legs; 420 horses with 4 legs equals 1,680 legs. This totals 4,320 legs; less one amputee's leg equals 4,319 legs. Horse herd eats 140 tons of hay at $6 amounting to $340 a week for hay.

EXACTING TEST FOR CLOCK WATCHERS

Visitors to city hall noticed that two clocks in the mayor's office both registered the same time at noon. It so happens that one clock gains, the other loses one minute an hour. Assuming that both clocks continue at this rate, how long will it be before they register the same time again?

Answer: Three hundred and sixty hours later they will both indicate six o'clock.

ADD YOUR TWO CENTS WORTH?

Victor found two pennies in a street. These combined with pennies he already had in his pocket made five times as many pennies as he would have had if instead he had lost two pennies. How many pennies did he have before he found the two cents?

Solution: He had three cents to start.

Solution: White 10—7, Black 3—10, White 2—7, Black 11—2, White 9—13, Black 2—9, White 13—6—15—24—31.

JAVA DEATHS MOUNT

Boiling Mud Buries Towns

KEDIRI, Indonesia (UPI)—Boiling mud spewing from volcano Mt. Kelud buried nine Javanese villages and killed from 82 to 150 persons, it was reported today.

The toll was rising steadily as new figures came in.

The district officer in President Sukarno's home town of Blitar said 82 persons were killed in the Blitar and Kediri districts along with another 52 injured and 60 missing. Earlier press reports said as many as 150 were killed.

Preliminary reports said the volcano was active Tuesday and Wednesday evening. The volcano belched mud which flowed to the Badak dam and swept away land communications between Blitar and Talun.

The eruption also cut road communications between Blitar and the district capital at Kediri as well as phone connections with Margomulto.

BRIDGE SWEPT AWAY

The steel river bridge at Samgud was swept away.

Another report said people and livestock had been roasted alive in Margomuljo. The fate of persons living in Djaktilengger and Talun villages remained unknown.

The railway between Blitar and Kali Putih was blocked by debris and a portion of the Blitar-Talun highway was buried under lava three feet deep.

Blitar residents were moved to the eastern villages of Bende Gerit, Gebang, Sidoredjo and Karangtengah when the volcano erupted. Local authorities established public kitchens to handle the refugees.

Reports said 19 houses were destroyed in Blitar, which was blanketed with volcanic ash more than an inch deep.

A pall of smoke and haze continued to hide the tip of the east Java volcano, Blitar, which is located less than a dozen miles from here, also was veiled by the sulphurous "smog."

JUDGES SEE SNAKES, ETC.

Topless Dancers Take Big Show to Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two topless dancers with boa constrictors sliding over their bodies livened up the marble corridors of city hall Friday, because they couldn't get into court to perform for the judge.

The dancers, Tara and Tosha, who perform topless at local nightclubs with seven-foot snakes gliding over their bodies, went to court claiming one was copying the other's act. But the court calendar was already busy with other matters.

Equipped with snakes and combo to perform for Judge Joseph Karesh, the dancers stripped to the waist and the show was on. For a half hour, city hall was like a nightclub scene—without the cover charge.

"I taught you everything you know," challenged Tara.

"Ha," Tosha replied, "I got my talent from God."

Some 50 persons, mostly newsmen, photoghaphers and court attaches, cheered the show on.

"What's going on here?" said another judge from a nearby courtroom. Then he took a look at the girls, snakes and combo and added, "We're trying to conduct a court of law. You will have to be more quiet."

Judge Karesh rescheduled the hearing for May 24.

PM Attempts Settlement In CBC Row

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson met representatives of the CBC's Toronto producers for 80 minutes today at his official residence in an effort to avert a producers' strike set for 10 p.m. Sunday.

The prime minister was expected to hold further talks with CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and the producers during the day.

The 72-member Toronto Producers' Association was to meet at the Westbury Hotel in Toronto later today to to discuss the situation.

Tom Koch, president of the association, told reporters after his meeting with Mr. Pearson that the situation was unchanged, but that a proposal would be placed before the producers' meeting in Toronto. He declined to comment on the progress of the talks.

Other producers meeting the prime minister today were association Treasurer Paddy Sampson and Dick Nielsen of the strategy committee.

DROPPING PROGRAM HOSTS

The producers are threatening to strike unless the CBC suspends its decision to drop Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as hosts of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Ouimet has said repeatedly that the decision to replace the hosts next season is final.

The prime minister discussed the dispute with Mr. Ouimet for about one hour Friday and was expected to communicate with him again today.

Mr. Sampson of the producers' association was flying back to Toronto to report to the general membership.

Mr. Koch and Mr. Nielsen were staying in Ottawa, awaiting an invitation to see Mr. Pearson again after lunch.

Meanwhile, the CBC is proceeding on the assumption that Seven Days will appear as scheduled Sunday despite the threatened strike.

CBC spokesmen declined today to say what program changes would take place in the event of a strike. A corporation spokesman said earlier in the week that the CBC has a standby file of taped and filmed programs available for any emergencies.

A CBC spokesman said today "we'll meet the situation as it happens."

N-Bombs Out For RAF?

LONDON (Reuters) — The mass-circulation Daily Express reports that all RAF planes based in West Germany are to stop carring nuclear bombs either in manoeuvres or in war.

The front page report says the air force planes will in future carry only conventional weapons.

The report says this decision came as a result of a two-day meeting here of a special NATO nuclear planning working group.

A British defence ministry spokesman declined comment on the newspaper report.

U.S. WARNED AGAIN BY CHINA

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of China said today U.S. efforts to bring about peace talks on Viet Nam will not succeed and he warned that if the United States expands the war "even more disastrous defeats are in store."

Chou reiterated that to whatever extent the United States "may widen the war and whatever cost we may have to pay, the Chinese people will, together with the Albanian people and other revolutionary peoples of the world, give all-out support and assistance to the Vietnamese people in thoroughly defeating the U.S. aggressors."

Chou charged the United States "is preparing to spread the flames of its war of aggression to the whole of Indochina and to China."

40-KNOT HYDROPLANE

Zip-Ship in Channel

RAMSGATE, England (UPI) — Thirty-six passengers paid $6.30 each and skimmed across the English Channel on a cushion of air to Calais at nearly 40 knots as the first commercial hovercraft service between England France opened today.

Two 36-seat hovercraft are being used by the Hoverlloyd Company—formed by Swedish Lloyd and the Swedish American Line—to make eight trips daily between here and Calais until the end of the summer.

The time estimated for the 27-mile run is about 40 minutes, roughly half that taken by the conventional cross-channel mailboats and car ferries.

With fine weather, the company reported the first trip sold out and passengers lining up for a place on the next run. The fare is about the same as that on the conventional ships.

Bigger hovercraft capable of carrying 250 passengers and 35 automobiles are expected to be in service in 1968.

'COWBOY' NABS ESCAPEE

LILLOOET (CP) — A young RCMP constable, dressed like a typical Cariboo cowboy riding through bush country, captured an armed mental hospital escapee Friday night.

The two struggled briefly and one shot was fired before John Guzin, 30, gave up.

The dramatic capture ended Guzin's six days of eluding posses of armed riders through the rolling hills of the southern Cariboo.

"He must have thought I was a rancher," Constable Norman Harvey-McKeen said in an interview today.

"He could see me at least a mile off. I rode up like I was going to water my horse and got to within four or five feet of him before he grabbed for his rifle."

As Guzin, who had been sitting on a log watching for the approaching "cowboy," reached for the rifle Constable Harvey-McKeen jumped on him.

The rifle went off, the slug sailing harmlessly into the air. Two more "cowboys" — an armed RCMP constable and a game warden — raced up on horseback and aided Constable Harvey-McKeen.

"He was not too much trouble," said the constable. "He is not too big, sort of small and wiry. But bush-wise, really bush-wise."

Haney Inmate Still Loose

VANCOUVER (CP)—The body of a guard who apparently fell over a cliff while chasing an escaped prisoner was discovered today on Burnaby Mountain.

The prisoner still was being sought.

The body of Burton Branden Baskerville, 24, a guard at the Haney Correctional Institute, was found 16 hours after he had bolted after prisoner Robert Walter Axt, 19, of Calgary.

Axt, sentenced Aug. 25 for car theft and breaking and entering, slipped into the bush Friday night during a prison-authorized tour of Simon Fraser University, located at the summit of the 1,000-foot mountain in suburban Burnaby.

Baskerville was last seen running after Axt.

His body was found in an area pitted with ravines and dense bush.

THANT, DE GAULLE

Peace Moves Judged Futile

(Times News Services)

PARIS — UN Secretary-General U Thant and President de Gaulle conceded today that a Vietnamese peace move is futile for the time being.

Emerging from a two-hour conversation with the French president, Thant told reporters that he and de Gaulle had agreed that there is no chance for an immediate settlement of the conflict in Southeast Asia.

"For the moment," Thant said, "we agree that there is no possibility for a settlement of the war nor for any new peace attempts."

De Gaulle said he viewed the war with a "growing feeling of disquiet and revulsion."

The comments came at a luncheon in honor of Thant, whom de Gaulle urged to seek re-election to a second five-year term as UN chief executive.

In a toast to Thant, de Gaulle expressed his satisfaction with their talks, which covered a wide range of international issues including Viet Nam.

'USEFUL' MEETING

Thant called his meeting with de Gaulle "very useful, very free, very frank."

Thant was in Paris en route to Strasbourg, France, to address the consultative assembly of the 18-nation Council of Europe Tuesday.

The French president indicated he was in favor of Thant's re-election partly because of the secretary-general's efforts to help restore peace to Viet Nam.

Thant said he had not made up his mind whether to seek re-election. The U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union are known to favor a second term for Thant.

'De Gaulle's Policy Could Lead To War'

WASHIGTON (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says the "self-centred" policies of French President de Gaulle may return Europe to a dangerous system of national rivalries that once more could lead to world war.

In a speech Friday night before the American Society of International Law, Ball accused de Gaulle of trying to make France a first-class power while keeping its European neighbors "in an inferior role."

"This is a desire on the part of the French government to carve out a special place for itself which means a great reduction in the kind of co-operative effort which has been going forward in Europe and in the Atlantic world," Ball explained in a later CBS television interview.

"I think this can only weaken the West and create problems where we may have, again, old national rivalries reasserting themselves and a beginning of the kind of troubles that we have known so often and so disastrously in the past."

'NATO REMOVES CAUSES'

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was created after the Second World War, he said, in an effort "to remove the underlying causes" that had created so many of the past disasters.

In his speech before the society, Ball also:

—Warned that France's pullout from the NATO integrated defence system will weaken the common shield against the Soviet Union and thus delay chances for settling such East - West problems as German reunification and disarmament.

—Portrayed European unity as th eright road to true European independence, big-

Presbyterian Study Shows Many Ailing

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Emotional illness is a threat to the minister and his wife because of the increasingly complex and demanding nature of their work in a period of severe social change, a church study shows.

Results of initial research by a committee of the Presbyterian Church in the United States were released at the denomination's general assembly here. The assembly approved further study of the problem.

Findings covered about 2,000 of the 4,000 ministers in the predominantly southern church.

The survey showed:

—Nearly one-fourth of the ministers and their wives either have had psychiatric care or counselling, or they would like psychiatric help.

—Mental or emotional illness is as prevalent among the ministers and their families as it is among others in the same sociological category.

On the basis of replies from 2,091 ministers and 1,889 wives of ministers surveyed, the research showed that approximately 10 per cent have been or are "in critical condition mentally and emotionally."

Teacher Gets Nod For Scottish Study

A distinguished American educator who has been teaching at the University of Victoria for the past year has received approval from the U.S. Office of Education for a project to study international teaching methods.

Dr. William A. Brownell, a visiting professor of education at Uvic, will leave Sunday for Edinburgh to co-ordinate preparations for a detailed study involving 2,000 Scottish school children.

While details are still being worked out, the cost of the project to U.S. authorities is estimated at $30,000.

The program will contrast results of conventional methods of teaching arithmetic with results from a European approach using what is called the "Cuisenaire method."

Cuisenaire, used in the Vancouver school system and in some other parts of Canada, introduces children to arithmetical concepts through the use of rods of various lengths and colors. Traditional methods rely more on counting with numbers considered in the abstract.

The tests being developed by Dr. Brownell will be used at the start of the school year in mid-September. Before that time, Dr. Brownell will develop the details in Scotland and return to the University of California at Berkeley to teach summer session in August and early September.

He was Berkeley's dean of education until 1962 when he turned to research full-time. He came to lecture at Uvic last September.

St. Lawrence Fantasyland Planned

A Victoria businessman will develop a $60,000 children's fantasyland by this summer on an eight-acre site in the St. Lawrence River's Thousand Islands vacation area.

Alfred Pettersen, operator of Wooded Wonderland at Beaver Lake Park, said today about 60 life-size story book characters will be involved in the project which is being built for the operators of a 350-foot viewing tower nearby.

The Tousand Islands Skydeck opened last year on Hill Island, close to the Ivy Lea Bridge at the Canada-U.S. border. It provides a view for 40 miles.

About 16 people, including a sculpturer, fiberglas expert, moulder and carpenter are involved in the local firm, Never Never Land (B.C.) Ltd., which brings to life scenes from the immortal fairy tales through life-like rubber figures.

ATTRACTIONS

Among attractions at the new fantasyland, expected to open in June, will be a 20-foot tall replica of the Skydeck with a slide. There will also be a shoe, from The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe, through which children will be able to climb and crawl.

The fantasy figures are designed by Elek Imredy of Vancouver, a Hungarian who fled to Canada after the 1956 revolution.

John Andre of Victoria is designing the new project and another local man, Maurice Borrely, is in charge of moulding the rubber figures from the fiberglas originals.

75 CHARACTERS

The local firm got the job of creating the Ontario exhibit because of know-how developed through other projects and having skilled workmen, said Mr. Pettersen. It has moulds to produce 75 story book characters.

Mr. Pettersen's firm already operates a children's playground in Tacoma, Wash., and is in the process of designing a fantasyland in Spokane.

Closing date for the Community Chest United Appeal poster contest has been extended from April 30 to May 16.

The date posters must be at Community Chest headquarters, 1951 Cook, has been postponed because a number of schools reported unfinished entries, some caused by influenza among students.

Victorians Can Enjoy Cakewalk

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club's high-rise Centennial fruitcake will occupy centre-stage in Centennial Square in less than a month.

The 12-foot-high, 6½-foot-wide cake and a half will be sold sliver-by-sliver to the public from May 23 to Labor Day.

Proceeds will go to the club's Lake Cowichan camp for handicapped children.

The cake, designed in Vancouver by Vancouver School of Art student Kathy Gairns, is being assembled here, and will be ready, say the Kiwanis master bakers, for May 23 when Victorians will take the cakewalk to Centennial Square for the Victoria Day defrosting.

Two Cars Demolished; Pair Injured

Two drivers suffered only minor injuries after demolishing their cars in separate collisions early today.

Most spectacular accident occurred at Thetis Lake overpass on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said David Valleau, Millstream Road, flipped his new sedan when he hit the bridge driving north.

He apparently fell asleep at the wheel, police said. The driver suffered cuts to his head and knees.

In satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital is Brent Ewing, 26, of 1354 Craigdarroch, who lost control of his car and hit a rock wall in the 600 block, Foul Bay Road, police said.

He suffered a wrist injury and facial cuts.

Theatre Revival Speaker's Theme

The popular revival of interest in the live theatre will be the theme of an address to the Victoria branch of the English Speaking Union on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Douglas Building Cafeteria, Elliott and Douglas Streets.

The speaker will be the artistic director of the Bastion Theatre, Peter Mannering.

Careless Drivers

Fined for careless driving in central court Friday:

Alan E. Turner, HMCS Naden, drove into a ditch on Rosebank Road, fined $35 for careless driving, $25 no driver's licence, $15, minor with no insurance.

Harold Matthews, 2637 Fernwood, fishtailed around corner at View and Broad, Jan. 28, fined $20.

Ralf Hoitz, 1144 Empress, collision April 6, Pandora and Blanshard, fined $40.

John N. Russell, 3436 Whittier, rear-end collision March 29 at Douglas and Garbally, fined $40.

Floyd M. Sagmoen, 3740 Carey, rear-end collision April 4 at Government and Fisgard, fined $40.

Anne Vroon, 1539 Gladstone, hit parked car, on Shelbourne near Bay April 2, fined $35.

Water Board Takes Over Boring Job

Greater Victoria Water District will take over the Sooke tunnel project.

Chief commissioner R. A. Upward told the water board Friday that Intermountain Construction Ltd., hired 2½ years ago to drive the five-mile tunnel from Sooke Lake to Japan Gulch, is financially unable to continue.

He recommended the district take over the project keeping the same skilled crews.

Mr. Upward said the district could force the contractor into bankruptcy but warned that such a move would halt work on the tunnel temporarily and could result in the loss of the crews now working.

"Miners are hard to come by," he said. "They are well paid and independent. Once the crews are lost we shall have great difficulty in replacing them."

PURCHASE MACHINERY

To keep the work going — the district will take over the project Monday morning — the district will purchase $54,000 worth of machinery from Intermountain and push on with the project.

So far the tunnel, being bored from both ends, is 6,500 feet inside the mountain it burrows beneath. It has 19,200 feet yet to go with an operational deadline set for 1970.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis asked if any thought had been given to abandoning the project.

Mr. Upward said he didn't think abandonment was a serious consideration.

"I don't think it's that tough," he said. "We always planned to have the tunnel in operation by 1970 and I think we can do that."

NOT UNDER $85

When board members asked if a new contract can be called for now that Intermountain is failing in its contract, they were told they would not be able to get a new bid under $85 a foot.

At present the tunnel is costing $69 a foot.

The trouble-stricken mole — again sidelined as the tunnel drives through soft-shale terrain — will remain on the job for at least one more chance to redeem itself.

Mr. Upward said it is essential that work continue without a break on the tunnel before spiralling costs — already the nemesis of Intermountain — delay the project even further.

INCREASED COSTS

"Increasing construction costs are the worst hazard of all," he said.

"Costs are going up faster than interest on the money the district has to pay for the work. The sooner the work is done, the cheaper it will probably be," he added.

Several times in the past Mr. Upward has stressed that the $55 a foot at which Intermountain took the contract was far too low to be practical.

Theft Trial Adjourned

Trial of Walter McKay, 3246 Oliver, charged with theft by conversion, was adjourned in central court Friday to May 16 for judgment.

It is alleged he took $1,566 from Debonair Distributors, 943 Yates, by failing to pay accounts receivable after taking over the business from a Vancouver concern Nov. 15.

Defence counsel Herbert Matthews argued all monies alleged by the prosecution have been accounted for during the trial.

He added the Vancouver owners of the company owe his client "many hundreds of dollars" in unpaid commissions.
